NRA May Force Weirton Strike Arbitration

JURY WEIGHS DAVIS FATE IN LOTTERY CASE

Today

Mrs. Roosevelt Is 49.
Columbus Knew When.
Too Many Strikes.
Print Nice, New Money.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT celebrated her forty-ninth birthday yesterday. Long life to her, at least forty-nine years more.

She had the Marconis for luncheon; and 200 ladies of the American Federation of Labor for tea.

She received, later, fifty women interested in slum clearance and better housing; after that she had her birthday dinner, a family party, and entertained the grandchildren in the White House third floor nursery. She left for New York at midnight to address a conference on "Young America."

This mental energy need not surprise you.

THE LATE PROF. SHALER, of Harvard, tells you that:

"Between the 45th and 50th year observing people have noticed in women a considerable enlargement of intellectual interest. So general does this appear to be that it may be regarded as normal and as indicating a natural tendency of the mind."

All women are better mentally, and in every way, at fifty and afterward than they ever were before.

Prof. Shaler's book, "The Individual," from which that quotation is taken, will be reviewed briefly by this writer on the editorial page of the Sun-Telegraph next Sunday.

TODAY, Columbus Day, reminds you that everything depends on timeliness.

Columbus discovered America in 1492, the right time. America had often been discovered before. Leif Ericsson undoubtedly came here. Many Portuguese, Spaniards and others probably went as far as the Azores on purpose or accidentally, then kept on to America, and returned to tell stories, not believed, about strange countries, humans and animals.

The steam engine was invented and exhibited in Alexandria more than two thousand years ago, but did the inventor no good. He was too soon.

GEN. JOHNSON, boss of NRA, says strikes may doom labor and the NRA, that they are not needed under the President's mediation machinery. NRA may have to veto even the decisions of labor unions when industry and "40,000,000 workers are organized."

Mr. Grady, assistant secretary of labor, threatens to ask Congress for power to settle all strikes involving federal work, thus opening the way to government control of unions.

IF, AS Gen. Johnson suggests, forty million workers in the United States are to be unionized, this question will have to be settled, which is the most powerful union in the United States, the labor union or the union of forty-eight states?

SOMETHING SHOULD be done about labor troubles. Strike news today includes "strikes among cotton pickers, miners, longshoremen, mechanics, school teachers, all widespread."

Police and soldiers with guns and tear bombs are patroling troubled sections in West Virginia and Indiana. "Police charge into rioters at Buffalo."

There are picketings inumerable in the big cities, and bombings here and there. Not encouraging for a nation trying to regain its feet.

WASHINGTON reports that the government has started the Treasury upon the tremendous financial operation of calling and refunding part of the $6,000,000,000 Fourth Liberty Loan.

Many problems could be solved if the government would forget about "refunding," print six billion dollars' worth of nice new money, and say to owners of the Fourth Liberty Loan bonds:

"Come and get it. Deliver your bonds, take the money, invest it, or put it in a tin box if you don't care about interest."

"The new money that we are giving you is as good as any bond. The name of the government on a piece of green paper is as good as that name on a piece of yellow bond paper. The difference is that your country and the taxpayers will save more than two hundred millions a year in interest charges.

SOME TELL you that that would be "reckless inflation," but it would be nothing of the kind. It would be sensible economy.

The government bond gets its value from the government's signature. Government money has the same value. Twenty thousand million dollars worth of government bonds on which taxpayers are paying a thousand million dollars yearly in interest should be bought in with nice clean money, and the owners invited to invest it. That really would promote prosperity.

GEN. R. E. WOOD, president of Sears, Roebuck, who proved, working for the government on the Panama Canal after he came from West Point, that he knows about business and industry, says there is no doubt that conditions are improving and "pointing upward."

Gen. Wood, like everybody

SOLES GETS DEATH CASE HEARING

Smiles on Entering Alderman's Office

BULLETIN.

Robert S. Soles, McKeesport businessman and former army captain, today was held for court on a charge of murder for the death of his wife. The hearing was held on the office of Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan.

The battle to convict Robert S. Soles for the death of his wife began this afternoon in Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan's office.

Soles smiled as he was taken into the alderman's office. However, as photographer's flashlights clouded the air, he took his seat and assumed a serious expression.

The prosperous McKeesport businessman, charged with killing his wife, was nattily dressed. He was wearing a brown suit, a white-striped shirt, a brown dotted necktie.

CLERK TESTIFIES

The first witness called by District Attorney Andrew T. Park was James L. Davidson, coroner's chief clerk. Davidson testified the bullet wound was three sixteenths of an inch. Park contends the smallness of the wound indicates that the attractive Mrs. Soles was shot with a revolver of .38 caliber, and not a .45. Revolvers of both calibers were found to have been in the Soles home.

Davidson testified that when Mrs. Soles' body was exhumed on Monday for a belated autopsy her features could not be recognized.

The small hearing room was packed with spectators. Among them were Soles' two brothers and Mrs. Soles' father, Harry B. Lynch, who caused the investigation which led to Soles' arrest. Soles was represented by Attorney O. K. Eaton.

Mrs. LaRoux Soles, disillusioned in marriage, was putting on her clothes and preparing to leave her husband at 1:30 o'clock in the morning when she was fatally shot in their McKeesport home last June, the authorities were told today.

But if she was disillusioned one minute, her great love for her husband possessed her the next, and she wrote a suicide note blaming only herself, according to county detectives.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park refused to comment today on reports that this version of the bedroom shooting was contained in the six-page confession which he attributes to Soles.

Park believes that it will not be necessary at this early stage

Manville's Mother Won't Pose by Wife

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Mrs. Thomas E. Manville, mother of the millionaire-playboy, who this week took a "Vanities" girl as his fourth wife, refused to be photographed with her new showgirl daughter-in-law, the former Marcelle Edwards, when she arrived yesterday on the Europa.

Kelly, Wife Get Life Terms

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—George (Machine Gun) Kelly and his wife, Kathryn, were sentenced to life imprisonment today, a few minutes after a federal jury had convicted them under the "Lindbergh Law" of kidnaping Charles F. Urchel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire.

The maximum sentences were pronounced by Judge Edgar S. Vaught 16 days after the capture of the Kellys at Memphis, Tenn., and only three days after they went to trial.

Thus six of the nine persons convicted for the $200,000 kidnaping conspiracy have been ordered to prison for the rest of their lives.

Also under life sentence are Harvey Bailey, the jailbreaker; Albert Bates, Kelly's aide in the actual kidnaping, and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shannon, operators of the Paradise (Tex.), "kidnap farm" where Urschel was imprisoned. Mrs. Shannon is Kathryn Kelly's mother.

Federal agents had perfected plans to take Kelly by plane to the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

The Kellys received the verdict and sentence without changing expression.

In the front row of spectators, Pauline, 15-year-old daughter of the convicted woman, smiled strangely.

Jewelry, automobiles, a Fort Worth residence and other property claimed by Mrs. Kelly were ordered listed and held by the government for later transfer to the 15-year-old Pauline. Before court opened, Mrs. Kelly signed a deed giving the $30,000 home and $10,000 in other property to her daughter.

LABOR BOARD MAY FORCE WEIR PARLEY

Snub to Arbitration Proposal Brings Action by NRA

By JOHN P. COWAN
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Enforced arbitration, possibly with the National Labor Board sitting in the Weirton Steel Company strike zone, was reported under consideration today, on the heels of Ernest T. Weir's rejection of the board's proposal of mediation.

Weir's telegram spurning the board's proffer to act as arbitrator—the company's 10,000 employes meanwhile to return to work without discrimination—was described as a "shock" to NRA officials.

BOARD MEETS

Soon after Weir's reply was received, the full board, with Senator Robert F. Wagner presiding, went into session. Dr. W. M. Leiserson, executive officer of the board, said:

"The board is now considering the company's reply."

Reports were current the board would insist on arbitration proceedings and that the board might visit Weirton, W. Va., for a hearing on both sides.

REBUFF FOR BOARD

The NRA's National Labor Board has apparently been rebuffed; and arbitration of the strike of more than 10,000 workers that has gripped the Weirton Steel Company seemed a far cry away today.

There was little room for doubt that E. T. Weir, president of Weir-

JUDGE GIVES CHARGE TO PANEL

Wife, Weeping, Hears Acquittal Plea By Margiotti

BULLETIN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The federal lottery case against United States Senator James J. Davis and Theodore G. Miller, was given into the hands of the jury at 2:50 p. m. today after three weeks, three days and four hours of proceedure.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The fate of United States Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, and Theodore G. Miller in their trial on charges of violating the federal anti-lottery laws today was nearing the hands of a jury United States District Court.

Summarization of the government's case against Davis and Miller, charged with directing and profiting from charity balls and prize awards staged by the Loyal Order of Moose and characterized by the government as lotteries, was made immediately after court opened by Assistant United States Attorney Louis M. Treadwell.

Immediately after the prosecution's summation, Judge Johnson Hayes began his charge to the jury.

The trial of Senator Davis, director-general of the fraternal order, and Miller, head of the propaganda department, began September 18.

Defense summation of the case, in which Davis was pictured as a "great humanitarian" and an inspiring leader who "has achieved one of the greatest careers in the history of the United States," was completed last evening by Charles H. Tuttle, former federal District Attorney, and Charles J. Margiotti, renowned Pittsburgh lawyer.

In an impassioned plea which brought tears to the eyes of Mrs. Davis, who was in the courtroom, Margiotti asked the jury to bring in an acquittal, declaring a verdict of guilty would "blast a career that is a model for every young man in America."

Tuttle, in a less emotional address, described Davis' rise to the Senate and his former post of Secretary of Labor under three administrations from the Pennsylvania steel mills and declared the government's case was "vague, indirect and based entirely on inference or suspicion."

Mrs. Davis was not present today, but James J. Davis, Jr., sat

Lindy Quits Wales For Trip to London

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh motored to London today from Cardiff, Wales, where he and Mrs. Lindbergh have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Audrey Neil Morgan.

Col. Lindbergh visited Croydon Airport. He inspected the airport facilities for an hour and then set off in his car for an unannounced destination.

WESTINGHOUSE TREK LOOMS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—John F. Gatelee, president of the Central Labor Union, said last night that strikers at the East Springfield plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company would send a motor caravan to East Pittsburgh to try to cause a strike at the company plant there, if an early settlement was not reached in the controversy.

Labor leaders here also said they would attempt to bring about sympathetic strikes at the Philadelphia and Mansfield (O.), Westinghouse plants.

About 100 employes of the Chicopee Falls plant walked out yesterday morning. Union leaders said they hoped to extend the series of strikes so that National Labor Board would hasten action on the strike here.

'Mike,' Panther Cub Mascot of Pitt, Dies

Little Mike, a fuzzy panther cub imported from Virginia as a mascot for the University of Pittsburgh football team, arrived yesterday, took one look at Pittsburgh and died.

Quakes Shake Rome Without Damage

ROME, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Two slight earthquakes, lasting three minutes altogether, were felt in Rome today, but no damage was reported.

The epicenter was at Rocca di Papa, 14 miles southeast of here, were hundreds of Rome citizens pass the summer, but reports from that place also told of no damage. This was Rome's second shock within three weeks.

Moses, Murray Report Mine Peace Progress

Second Parley Held Here by Spokesmen For Owners, Union

Two smiling leaders of the war-torn coal industry today emerged from a brief conference in the office of the H. C. Frick Coke Company—emerged with statements of progress but no agreement as yet on the striking miners' demands for recognition of the United Mine Workers by the owners of captive mines.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Miners, and Thomas Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke Company and spokesman for the captive mine owners, declared the conference would continue intermittently until an agreement is reached.

MORE CONFERENCES

Murray said:

"I just had a short meeting with Mr. Moses. He is continuing conferences with his own group. I'm holding myself in readiness for further conferences. I hardly think they'll be today."

And Moses, as genial as Murray, remarked:

"Mr. Murray and I are organized and going ahead with our meeting."

He was asked:

"Did you talk about any defi-

35 Cleaners, Dyers Again Out on Strike

Labor trouble re-entered the Pittsburgh dry cleaning field today when 35 workers went out on strike at the Hahn Cleaning Company plant at 5524 Walnut street, East End.

Announcement of the walkout was made by Abe Ritt, secretary of the Cleaners' and Dyers' Union, who said the strike was caused by the company's failure to live up to an agreement made two weeks ago with the union.

Alderman's Auto Crashes, 2 Unhurt

Two men escaped injury early today when an automobile, owned by Alderman Thomas M. Geary, of the Second Ward, got out of control and rolled off the Saw Mill Run boulevard at Bausman street and upset in Saw Mill Run.

The alderman was not in the machine at the time. It was driven by Clement Long, of 4321 Penn avenue, who had as a passenger D. E. Simon, of 47 Wellsford street, Oakland.

Des Moines Horses Placed Under NRA

Horses in the streets department, Streets Commissioner John MacVicar announced, are to go under the NRA in a new schedule in which no horse will work more than 30 hours a week.

SOCIETY RIDER HURT IN FALL

Thrown when her horse faltered at a jump at the Fox Chapel Hunt Club, Miss Margaret Colbert, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Colbert, Jr., 5443 Forbes street, is in a serious condition in Passavant Hospital. She regained consciousness this morning.

The girl was injured late yesterday while riding with a friend, Miss Justine Diebold, of Fox Chapel road.

Miss Colbert, an expert rider, was hurled over her horse's head when he refused to jump, according to friends. She was rendered unconscious and was in such a serious condition during the night that physicians were unable to take X-ray photographs until this morning, according to hospital attaches.

The nature of her injuries had not been determined up to noon today.

Raids Nip 'Khaki Shirt' Coup; Police Seize 27

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Raiding three headquarters of the Khaki Shirts, police today arrested 27 men awaiting a scheduled march on Washington and seized loaded pistols, knives, clubs and blackjacks.

Police said they had received "definite information" that the Khaki Shirts planned to storm the armory of the 111th Regiment, Pennsylvania National Guard, to get ammunition for their march.

Three armories were placed under guard, and the raids on the headquarters were made when residents called police to protest that armed men were walking around the streets.

Among the prisoners was a "general" and a couple of "colonels," but police said they were still seeking the organizer and self-styled commander-in-chief, Arthur J. Smith.

It was Smith who announced 1,500,000 men would descend on the capital from nine states today and "install" President Roosevelt as the nation's dictator. It was Smith's order to march which was being awaited by the Khaki Shirts when the police arrived.

Police, who said they are seeking Smith, asserted that a "mutiny" broke out in the headquarters, a former hospital in North Philadelphia, before the raiding party arrived and Smith departed through a window while his officers and men were looking for him for further information about his plans.

McClure Trial Links Dry Agent Slaying

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Ramifications of the alleged "protection" conspiracy, for which State Senator John J. McClure and 77 co-defendants are on trial in Federal Court, have been extended in testimony into New Jersey.

Swinging from Delaware County, where McClure is accused by the government of heading a conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, the trial's spotlight was turned yesterday upon the Rising Sun Brewery in Elizabeth, N. J., and the slaying of Prohibition Agent John G. Finiello.

A government witness, Mark Connwell, said that when he protested about halving his fee for permitting an alleged rum-running oil-tanker to use a certain pier, he was told "the funds of the fellow bringing in the liquor were low due to the large expense in the defense of the person accused of the assassination of Finiello."

An employe of a company owning a pier at Chester, Connwell said he was to get $200 for each landing, but received only $100 after Finiello's death in 1930. He said a bus and large moving vans bearing the names of New York firms were used in the unloading.

Before Connell took the stand, Jacob Bruner, a former saloon operator, pointed to Senator McClure as the man who "broke me." Because weekly protection payments were too high, Bruner said he stopped making them, and soon his place was raided and his son imprisoned. Pointing a shaking finger at McClure, he said:

"That man, he left me penniless. I am starving. I am unemployed and broke. I didn't leave my wife 15 cents for grub tonight. And he calls himself a senator of Pennsylvania."

Night sessions were held last night for the first time.

A. F. L. IGNORES NRA ATTACK, VOTES ROOSEVELT SUPPORT

30-HOUR-WEEK RESOLUTION ADOPTED

Higher Wages Also Demanded in Nearly All Present Codes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The American Federation of Labor convention today heard harsh criticism of the NRA, but voted nevertheless that President Roosevelt could be sure of its support for his recovery program.

It was resolved that if the purpose of the recovery act was to be achieved, most codes "must be reopened for construction revision" to provide a 30-hour-week and higher wages.

When the resolutions committee brought in a report on the recovery program, Frank X. Martel, of Detroit, of the International Typographical Union, insisted that labor must be "free from governmental interference especially when the interfering officials have been selected by business."

NRA ATTACK

Referring to the speech Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, made to the convention discussing strikes, Martel added:

"I say to Johnson that so long as the purpose of the recovery act is going to continue to be prostituted to the interest of business, there are going to continue to be strikes."

When he concluded, the convention adopted a resolution including this language:

"The President may rest assured of the wholehearted support of the American Federation of Labor in his great undertaking."

The convention also warned its officers against permitting interpretations of the collective bargaining features of the NRA and held that labor should be given a chance to take the initiative in originating codes.

It urged that "every effort should be made to develop" the public works program quickly, but added that "in this respect much depends upon the officers of state and local governments."

Opposition to any "unrestrained and unregulated inflation of the currency" was formally voiced by the convention.

CURRENCY STAND

The delegates approved unanimously a committee report warning against curency action that would "place additional unbearable burdens" upon workers, contending that unrestrained and direct currency inflation would do that.

Labor's opposition to any relaxation of the immigration laws, including the Oriental exclusion act, was reaffirmed by unanimous vote.

A resolution urging enactment of bills which have been before Congress for some time for the deportation of alien seamen also was adopted. The federation resolution's premise was that seamen exemption laws provided a "side-door" to avoid the exclusion act.

A resolution for stricter enforcement of the immigration laws at all United States border ports of entry was approved. The proposal, originally aimed at the competition of Canadian resident workers with United States residents in the Detroit area, was broadened by the resolutions committee.

NRA HERE BACKS BUY NOW DRIVE

Plans were furthered today by the Pittsburgh Compliance Board of the NRA for participation in the nation-wide "Buy Now" movement.

R. S. McCarty, of the Philadelphia Company; J. S. Huey, of the P. H. Butler Company, and Leo Lehman, of May-Stern Company, have been named to serve as a directing committee. Three others will be named within a day or so by the Retail Merchants' Association.

A special committee is to be named in each locality to conduct educational features of the campaign.

MINE PEACE DEAL ADVANCED

nite points towards agreement, such as the checkoff?"

He replied:

"There is nothing to be discussed about them yet.

"The conference will be almost continuous from now on, until we reach a conclusion—some time at a very early date.

"What is the significance of 'early date?'"

"We cannot put a definite time on how long we will talk, or say now what we will agree or disagree about. Negotiations so far have been preliminary."

The negotiations, brought about through pressure from President Roosevelt, were begun late Tuesday by the spokesmen for the conflicting factions of the bituminous industry. It was understood that unless some unforeseen obstacle developed, the negotiations might bring out a general agreement on captive mine relations with the nationwide coal miners' union.

NRA headquarters in Washington commented on the parley, stating:

"The administrator does not look for perfect harmony within a day or two. They will be allowed a reasonable time to compromise their differences. Gen. Johnson is inclined to be patient with these negotiators."

It was understood that the answer to President Roosevelt's demand that peace be negotiated by the captive mine owners had reached the White House.

Last week-end President Roosevelt, in an eight-point plan, called upon miners to resume work in the pits, and revealed that captive mine owners had agreed to negotiate with representatives of the men—with peace the aim. In the plan the President said negotiations should take place on the principle embodied in the commercial mines agreements — which fundamentally was recognition of the union.

MINE STRIFE WANES

And the coal industry, with all eyes on the peace parleys here, was less restless than before, although some minor disturbances occurred early today and last night in Western Pennsylvania fields.

A report that 3,000 miners would march on Clairton's by-product plant of the Carnegie Steel Company was branded false today, as Martin Ryan and Steve Petronie, Fayette County strike leaders, took Attorney Anthony Cavalcante through the area to show him no such plans had been made. Cavalcante is an emissary of Gov. Pinchot.

A steel oil drum was found at dawn on the tracks of the Monongahela Railway, principally a coal carrier, near Brownsville. Railroad police removed it. There was no train due for some time, they said.

What was at first was believed to be shooting at a caboose of a coal train on the Monongahela Railroad today was thought to have been stoning, railroad officials said. The caboose showed no bullet marks.

George Lippincott, engineman for the Monongahela Railway, encountered two men last night who tried to persuade him from reporting for work. In a fist fight that followed the men fled, one leaving his coat in which only a wrist watch was found.

Pickets, in smaller bands than usual, moved through Allegheny and adjoining counties.

The back-to-work movement gained and lost.

Pickets closed down 10 or more mines in the Tarentum-Freeport district of the Allegheny Valley. The mines had been operating yesterday.

In the Southern Allegheny County district some mines resumed. Montour No. 10, of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, reported 800 back in its pits.

In Fayette County all mines were reported down—even the few small wagon mines which had been operating during the early part of the week.

In Washington County, the large Atlasburg mine opened.

Sheriff J. A. Seaman said there was no trouble, and few pickets appeared.

In the Burgettstown section, every mine in the district but one was reported working again. Pickets failed to appear.

In the Westmoreland - Fayette County line district, Banning Nos. 1 and 2 were down. Several mines hitherto closed were reported open today in Westmoreland County.

The Versailles mine of the McKeesport Coal and Coke Company reopened, as did the Warden and Ocean No. 5 mines of the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

TRIAL OF DAVIS NEAR JURY

The prosecution based much of its contention on the claim that Davis was aware of the nature of the balls and prize awards, that he profited from them and as an officer of the organization, was at least indirectly responsible for their being held.

In his summation for the prosecution today, Treadwell called the Moose organization department Davis' "private enterprise," adding:

"We have shown that from the 1931 lottery Davis received financial benefit to the amount of $40,000. What he did with the money, whether he put it back into business, whether he paid salaries with it, is immaterial.

"It has been suggested here that a man appointed to the cabinet by President Harding couldn't be a criminal.

"The fact that a man is a member of the Senate which makes the laws which you and I have to obey gives him no immunity from those laws. His responsibility is even greater."

The specific charge against Davis was that he and Miller caused the printing and shipping of lottery tickets used in connection with the charity balls held in 1931.

Tuttle declared no evidence had been produced to substantiate the charge, as did G. J. Mintzer, attorney for Miller.

SOLES HELD FOR MURDER

CALLED TO HOME

It was Miss Buchweitz who yesterday was quoted as relating that the day after Mrs. Soles was shot, her prosperous husband, an ex-Army captain, had called Miss Buchweitz and Rose Hardy to the Soles home and then and there re-enacted the shooting, according to Soles' theory. The husband then came to the conclusion that his wife had not committed suicide, but had been shot, it seems.

Miss Hardy, who had an apartment in the same building which housed Soles' McKeesport office, was described as an acquaintance of his.

The authorities say that neither Miss Hardy nor Soles' secretary was implicated in any way in the shooting and that if Miss Hardy was seen publicly with Soles it was not until after his wife's death.

FATHER IN HOME

Several other facts were divulged today. One, that Mrs. Soles' father, Harry B. Lynch, retired mill superintendent, was asleep upstairs when Mrs. Soles was shot in the first-floor bedroom, but because of the construction of the house was unable to hear the shot.

It was Lynch's persistent conviction that his daughter had not shot herself which led to a reopening of the investigation and the arrest of his son-in-law.

The belated autopsy of Monday revealed the fact that the bullet which took the life of the attractive artist who married Soles shortly after the war had passed through her body without striking any bones. This perhaps explains why the bullet, of .38 caliber, was able then to rip through a portiere, two plaster board walls and the wooden support of a mirror in the adjoining dining room.

The clarity of the so-called suicide note which Mrs. Soles wrote has caused doubts that she could have written so legibly in a dying condition but Park believes he will be able to show by testimony of physicians that the condition of the 41-year-old wife would not have prevented such an act. She lived more than 24 hours after being shot.

Troopers Rescue Besieged Workers

HAZLETON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Silk workers held virtual prisoners in the Duplan Silk Works by pickets who stoned the mill were released early today with arrival of state police.

Hundreds of windows in the mill were broken last night by pickets who hurled stones after they said someone threw tear gas bombs into their ranks from the roof.

NRA CONCEIVED BY UNION, SAYS MURRAY

Roosevelt Acceptance Of Idea Related by U. M. W. Officer

A bill for stabilization of the coal industry framed last spring was the origin of the National Industrial Recovery Act, according to Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America.

The bill was drawn up by attorneys meeting with officials of the union at the direction of President Roosevelt, Murray said.

He gives credit to union officials for conceiving the fundamental theory of the NRA—that the government, having a constitutional right to charter corporations and regulate interstate commerce can constitutionally prescribe the conditions and terms under which they can operate.

It is this theory, Murray says, that gives the President his licensing power—the big stick with which he can force industry into line, if it balks at imposition of NRA codes.

BIRTH OF IDEA

Murray says:

"We first conceived of that in 1928 when we were looking for means to stabilize the coal industry.

"Through Senator Watson, of Indiana, we had introduced in the Senate a bill with that provision, giving the government the right to dictate minimum prices and penalize violations.

"Everybody cried 'unconstitutional' and 'communism' and the bill was defeated.

"All the big companies and the Manufacturers' Association and the Chambers of Commerce and trade associations from all over the country opposed it.

"Senator Watson introduced it in the next session, and it failed again.

"Then it was re-introduced by Senator James J. Davis and Congressman Clyde Kelly, both Pennsylvanians, but we couldn't get it through.

ROOSEVELT PROMISE

"During the Presidential campaign last fall we saw Mr. Roosevelt time and again and, although he wouldn't promise us to urge the bill, he did promise to stabilize the coal industry.

"After his inauguration, he called us in and told us he had called a group of capable attorneys to frame a bill and he asked us to sit in with them.

"After long conferences we came out with a coal bill including the licensing provision, price-setting feature, minimum wages and maximum hours and collective bargaining.

"President Roosevelt liked it so much he decided to use the same thing for all industries and the NRA resulted."

Murray estimated that the coal code would return to work, when industry returns to near-normal, some 350,000 miners and that it already has insured all the miners in the Appalachian region—from Pennsylvania south:

"Relief from conditions of abject slavery and peonage."

There are now some 550,000 men out of work and ready for work in the mines, he stated, and all of this slack will be taken up when the country's business conditions are again normal.

STEEL STRIKERS APPEAL TO NRA

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Headed by Communists Patrick Cush and John Meldon, chairman and secretary, respectively, of the Steel and Metal Workers Industrial Union, delegations identifying themselves as representing striking steel workers from Ambridge and Greensburg, Pa., called at the White House today to protest conditions in the strike-torn steel mill area.

The group, composed of about a dozen strikers, including four women, arrived at noon and were told to return later in the day.

Cush and Meldon charged that armed deputies were conducting a "reign of terror" in the steel district. They announced they would file murder charges against Beaver County officials as the result of the clash between strikers and deputies there last week.

The group sought a thorough investigation of the situation and a "change on the manner of administering the NRA steel code." Cush said:

"The NRA right of collective bargaining and organization is being administered over the end of a machine gun."

The Ambridge group included its leaders said strikers from the Spang Chalfant steel mill. They declared they had to be "smuggled" out of the city to come here.

Stamp Sees U. S. Loss Despite NRA

LONDON, Ort. 12.—(AP.)—Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British economist, said last night in an address that American production has fallen off despite efforts of the NRA, especially in the construction field.

He asserted some industries were showing no signs of improvement and that creation of public employment was a definite failure.

NRA MAY FORCE ARBITRATION AT WEIRTON

Labor Board Meeting To Discuss Weir's Snub to Overture

ton Steel's parent, National Steel Corporation, is ready to take a firm stand against arbitration of the quarrel, following an interchange of telegrams last night between the Labor Board and himself.

The board, through Senator Robert F. Wagner, its chairman, had appealed to Weir to submit points at issue for arbitration and to permit the men to return to work until the dispute was amicably settled.

But Weir told the Sun-Telegraph:

"There's nothing to arbitrate. The men have no grievances.

"I talked to more than 300 of them and there wasn't a grievance.

"So far as we're concerned, the strike's over. There're more than 5,000 back at work and more coming back all the time."

'NOT EMPLOYES'

Weir doesn't view the complaints of a committee he refused to see as grievances because:

"That was not a committee of employes."

That committee was composed of about 20 persons, headed by Edward W. Miller, international vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. All were employes except Miller, and it was because the group insisted on including Miller as its spokesman that Weir refused to meet it.

Appealed to by a group of Weirton local union leaders, headed by William Long, an old employe of the steel firms and president of the Amalgamated in Weirton, Senator Wagner wired Weir:

"In the matter of the strike at Weirton Steel Company, National Labor Board recommend that strike be called off, strikers be taken back without discrimination and all matters in dispute be submitted to board for decision.

"Please wire answer. Same message sent to both parties."

Union leaders from Weirton and M. F. Tighe, international president of Amalgamated, assured Wagner they would urge the men's return to work in force if Weir assented to arbitration.

WEIR'S ANSWER

But Weir promptly wired Wagner that:

"The strike leaders started the strike without having made any demands upon the company or without any notice to us and we cannot consider any reference or arbitration until the men return to work.

"The mills are operating now, nearly 5,000 men being at work, all regular employes. We will take back all of our former employes if they report to work promptly."

Troopers Bar Strikers From Weirton Workers

By DAVID ROSENTHAL,
Staff Correspondent.

WEIRTON, W. Va., Oct. 12.—Capt. J. R. Brockus and 75 state police kept picketing strikers moving today as workers entered plants of the Weirton Steel Company, without interference.

Late yesterday the police laid down a barrage of tear gas bombs as the strikers began stoning automobiles of workers leaving the plant. Many car windows were broken but no one was injured.

A committee of five from the plant at Clarksburg, W. Va., visited Weirton and Steubenville, O., last night to ascertain the extent the mills here were operating.

The committee said they had been told by company officials the mills here were running normally. The committee spokesman, according to Jack Reese, head picket at Steubenville, returned to Clarksburg satisfied, they said, that the company's claim was unfounded.

George Ellison, vice president of the Weir-Cove Lodge, Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, said less than 1,200 men and women, including maintenance and office workers, were on the job in the Weirton mills today. He challenged the company to permit a checkup of the number at work.

T. E. Millsop, assistant to the president of the Weirton Steel Company, said his check showed 4,491 men reported for work today at the seven mills in Weirton and 699 in Steubenville. The Clarksburg plant began operations today with 125 men, he said. The company's three plants normally employ 10,000.

William J. Long, strike leader who was in Washington with a committee for conference with NRA labor board heads, wired that his committee was getting results and for the men to "hold that line."

Silk Strike Issue Sent to Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Senator Robert F. Wagner, National Labor Board chairman, announced early today that he would submit to President Roosevelt and the NRA administration in Washington the strike that has left 70,000 silk craftsmen idle in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania since August 31.

Senator Wagner made this announcement after a series of conferences with representatives of the workers and employers groups involved. The workers demand higher wages.

Oil or Medicine?

FIFI D'ORSAY

FIFI'S FIANCE MUST BE M. D.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Forsaking medicine for oil, Fifi D'Orsay said today, may cost her fiance, Maurice Hill, the love of the petite French actress.

Her marriage to Hill, son of a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, hangs, she said, on the question: A doctor or an oil man?

The actress said she had been informed Hill had accepted a position with the foreign department of an oil company, forsaking his study of medicine in a Chicago hospital. Hill, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Miss D'Orsay said, expects to go to the Orient. The actress exclaimed:

"Never do I want to live in the Orient. I want my husband to be a doctor. I will not get married until he gets his degree."

PINCHOT RAPS STEEL CHIEFS

International News Service.

GREENVILLE, Pa., Oct. 12.—Denouncing steel magnates as "chiselers and cheaters doing everything to plunge the American people back into the depths of depression," Gov. Gifford Pinchot urged support of a $25,000,000 bond issue for relief at the dedication of Riverside Park here this afternoon.

The Governor assailed steel officials as he lauded the people of Greenville for their untiring efforts in conquering "a mighty enemy—misery, hunger and want" by the construction. Fifty thousands dollars was spent on the park as a work relief project.

After blaming Myron Taylor, Charles Schwab and Thomas Moses, steel executives, for keeping alive strife in Western Pennsylvania by their obstinate refusal" to recognize representatives of miners who work in captive coal mines, Gov. Pinchot called them "a disgrace to the United States of America." He said:

"They refuse to do what millions all over America recognize as the duty of American citizens. No decent American can have anything but contempt for these men."

School Teachers Strike Deadlocked

SCRANTON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Prospects for early settlement of the strike of public school teachers in Jessup, where 67 of them have refused to conduct classes until part of their back salaries are paid, appeared dismal today.

POLICE GUARD MRS. PINCHOT AT RALLY

Governor's Wife Flays Steel Trust Before 7,500 Workers

By WALTON WOODS
Staff Correspondent.

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Oct. 12.—Before a throng of steel workers estimated at 7,500, Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor and a campaigner in her own right, laid down an attack on steel magnates last night in Griffo Park, near Vandergrift. The lone major industrial establishment in Vandergrift is the United States Steel Corporation's American Sheet and Tinplate Company's large plant.

The meeting, held under the auspices of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, had been banned in seven other meeting places. Ugly rumors that the roads would be blocked and other methods would be employed to prevent the appearance of Mrs. Pinchot brought a combined force of 175 state police and highway patrol to the park.

Accordingly, when "the First Lady of the State" said her piece, a tight cordon of helmeted state police surrounded the speakers' platform.

SORRY FOR SHERIFF

Of Burgess S. S. Baldridge, who had refused to permit the meeting in the Apollo Borough Building, Mrs. Pinchot said:

"I hope the Burgess won't be frightened. He seems to think I'm a dangerous character."

And of Sheriff William H. Humes, of Westmoreland County, she said:

"And I'm sorry a Sheriff of Westmoreland County could be frightened by a mere woman. Perhaps it was a guilty conscience."

And then she waded right into the officials of the "steel trust," whom she blamed for industrial difficulties in Western Pennsylvania.

READY FOR BLOODSHED!

She brought her story up to date by quoting a retort which she said Thomas Moses, head of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, made to Gov. Pinchot when the latter requested him, six weeks ago to close the mines for another 24 hours to prevent bloodshed. She quoted Moses as replying:

"There is going to be bloodshed sooner or later. We are ready for it now."

She continued:

"The steel trust has been four-square against labor unions from the day it was organized. It has been viciously, bitterly determined that its men should have none of the protection that unions can give—no representation of any kind—no voice in determining wages, hours or conditions of work."

She advocated organization of a union, fair treatment and cooperation with employes, obedience of the law, and voting at elections.

'SAME OLD TRUST'

She traced the struggle of labor for shorter working hours and said in conclusion:

"The steel trust has learned nothing—forgotten nothing—it is just as anti-social in its fundamental point of view today as it was a generation ago.

"Today the time has come to educate them.

"Men like Gary, Schwab and Taylor need all the education they can get. The American Federation of Labor must be grade school, high school and college all in one."

The only other speaker was Louis Leonard, international secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

Monessen to End City Relief Jobs

MONESSEN, Pa., Oct. 12. — Council has decided to dispense with charity labor on city projects, due to the high cost of compensation insurance and the resumption of work in mills. At the height of the emergency 900 men were employed, working out food orders, but since mills have resumed only 150 have been employed.

J. V. Thompson Mansion To Become Convent

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The house that coal built the $1,000,000 52-room mansion of the late J. V. Thompson, once ruler of a $70,000,000 industrial empire, is to become a convent.

Built for Thompson's Broadway show girl second wife, Honey Hawes, the big rambling residence was sold yesterday to the Sisters of St. Basil, ancient Greek Catholic order, by the Piedmont Coal Company for which it had been held in trust.

Thompson, who rolled up a fortune in bituminous coal, died penniless in the 25-year-old house last month. Now a ramshackle building, the structure stands in the midst of a weed-grown, 232-acre estate.

At the time Thompson brought Honey Hawes to the Uniontown mansion he was at the height of his power, and his bride ruled the coal region society. They were divorced some years ago. Although he was bankrupt, Thompson, through a trust arrangement, lived in the house until his death.

The sisters of St. Basil will make the residence their mother house, moving from their present quarters at Factoryville, near Scranton.

Woodin's Music Helps Orchestra Out of 'Red'

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Golden notes from the melodic pen of Composer William H. Woodin, Secretary of the United States Treasury, have helped lure greenbacks—almost $17,000 worth—from the pockets of music lovers to lift the renowned Philadelphia Orchestra out of "the red."

In a strange combination of culture and commercialism, unsold tickets to the orchestra's Saturday night concerts went on the auction block in the gilded ballroom of a mid-city hotel last night after a dinner and musical program as unusual as it was diverse.

When the last thud of the auctioneer's hammer had died away, the orchestra's financial worries for this year were over and a 19 per cent pay cut imposed on the players was slashed at least by half.

After the dinner, which many of the fashionably-attired men and women guests washed down with beer, Leopold Stokowski, he of the wavy blond mane, led the orchestra through Secretary Woodin's new musical suite, "Covered Wagon Days."

A musical description of the early American trek into the West, the work is in three movements, entitled "On the Prairie," "Trudging Along," and "Journey's End."

Woodin, who picks out his musical creations on a guitar, was the guest of honor—but he took no part in the performance.

Stokowski—whom Woodin calls "Prince"—told the Secretary:

'DEATH RAY' TO PROLONG LIFE VISUALIZED BY SURGEON

DR. MAYO HAILS NEW DRIVE ON GERMS

Additional Knowledge To Doom Disease, He Asserts

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—A death ray, not to destroy life, but to prolong it, stood visualized today by Dr. Charles H. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn.

He said:

"After the war, we read a great deal about the death ray which in future conflicts would destroy armies and sink battleships. Of course, that is one of those things we shan't believe until we see it. But we will soon make greater use of the knowledge we now have of the electrical activity of bacteria, by learning to destroy them with opposing death - dealing wave lengths of radium, x-rays or various forms of electric waves developed for this purpose."

Dr. Mayo spoke last night before a community health meeting arranged by the American College of Surgeons. He said:

"We know that bacteria carry negative electrical charges, and that they have wave lengths according to their activity, for when we place them under a microscope in a fluid in which they can move freely they are attracted to a positive electrical pole, and we can measure their speed. The highest speed is that of the bacteria attacking the brain and nervous system."

Another speaker—Dr. George W. Crile, of Cleveland—said man may expect that science "will reveal the nature of life and with it the physical nature of mind and personality." He asserted:

"These expectations are based on the achievements of chemistry and physics. The biochemist has been made to construct many of the compounds of which the body is made, and surely the end it not yet. The biophysicist has already identified the energy that organizes and drives things, and he has found that the body conforms to physical laws as closely as does an internal combustion engine."

Surgery Invades Nervous System, Doctor Reveals

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Success in treating infantile paralysis by an operation upon the nervous system was reported to the American College of Surgeons last night by Dr. D. E. Robertson, of Toronto.

The operations, he said, brought about substantial improvement in enlivening withered limbs of children afflicted with the disease.

12,746 Cancer Cases Cured In 3 Years, Surgeons Told

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Surgeons from the United States and abroad yesterday reported 12,746 cases of cancer have been cured in the last three years.

Thirty-one specialists reported this progress against the country's No. 2 killer in a symposium entitled "Cancer is Curable," sponsored by the American College of Surgeons. Their figures show, said Dr. Franklin K. Martin, of Chicago, that the American death rate from cancer can be cut one third—from 150,000 to 100,000 a year—by periodic examinations and early tr atment.

Airplane Seen as Future's Worst Disease Menace

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—(AP.)—The airplane may be the next decade's most troublesome disease carrier, Dr. Herbert C. Clark said yesterday.

It may, along with the automobile, furnish a means of spreading tropical diseases to the United States, he said, and of bringing the northern ailments to South America.

Dr. Clark, head of the Gorgas Laboratories in Panama, described the danger in his annual report to the Gorgas Memorial Foundation, headed by Admiral Cary T. Grayson.

Sylvia Sidney Gains Health in Europe

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Recovered in health after a trip to Europe, Sylvia Sidney, movie star, was back in Hollywood today. She said that differences she had had with a studio over her "walkout" would be settled satisfactorily.

COURAGE

Remembering Christopher Columbus

By Edwin Markham

Author of "The Man with the Hoe," "Lincoln the Man of the People," and other famous poems.

OUT of deep mystery he came:
A vapor hangs around his name.
What was his origin? Who knows
The cloud from which his birth-star rose?
Seven towns of Homer's ancient earth
Claimed they had cradled him at birth.
Seven also claimed this later one
After his daring deed was done.

Touched by a vision's magic spur,
Rose into glory, rose to be
Spain's bold knight-errant of the sea.

YET once he wandered ghast and grim,
While wolves of hunger followed him.
He journeyed on from year to year,
And cried to every listening ear.
He cried even at the courts of Kings
His story of incredible things.
"You know," he said, "that Plato told
Of old Atlantis, realm of gold,
We see its buried peaks and shores
Where rise the distant dim Azores.
Antilla and Zumpango wait
My coming at the ocean gate.
Dreams of these islands in the West
Disturb me, will not let me rest.
And far beyond the western seas
Slumber the vast Antipodes.
So, sliding down the ocean wind,
I'll touch the golden shores of Ind."

"WHAT fantasy!" the courtiers shout:
"Delusion wraps him all about.
Here is a clown, a poor buffoon,
Toucht by some madness of the moon!"

THEY blew his dream away like chaff:
They blew it with a fleering laugh.
They speared him with a cruel jest:
They left the arrow in his breast.
His vision lighted by a star.
He knew he was (his constant boast)
"A servant of the Holy Ghost."
Some whisper from the vast Unseen
Held him erect, austere, serene;
Until the heat of his fiery brain
Melted the iron will of Spain.

THE great hour came with triple ships,
Then sudden fervor stirred his lips:
"On, on, into the West," he cried:
"I know, and will not be denied.
The world is round: by the western gate
The riches of the Indies wait.
Lift sail, my men, the hour has come
For shipwreck or millennium.
Lift sail, my men, the hour is here
To probe the secret of the sphere."

THE long day and the longer night,
And seas rushed by in eager flight.
Then frightened sailors raised a cry:
"We feel the terror of the sky.
Turn back, great Admiral," they moan:
"We cannot dare the dark unknown.
Soon we shall totter on the brink,
Soon into utter darkness sink!"
"No, no," the daring chief replied:
"The earth is round, the sea is wide:
Keep all the sails aloft, and steer
Into the West; the shores are near!"

THEY ploughed and plunged for days and days,
Then horror struck and wild amaze.
The Needle felt some secret jar
And seemed to shake the Polar Star.
The pilots paled with sudden awe:
Nature seemed crashing out of law.

HAD they then swung to another realm?
Would the Void open and overwhelm?
But no fear shook the Captain, none,
From sunset to the rise of sun.
He stood there sleepless on the prow,
With whipping cloak and troubled brow,
With wild hopes singing in his breast,
With gray eyes glued upon the West.
He stood there, beating against bars—
Stood all night long till drunk with stars.
At last near twelve, he suddenly saw
A thing of mystery and awe:
It was a light afar—a light:
It moved, and there was no more night!

NOW let this startling thing be said:
If land had not been on ahead,
So mighty had been his gallant dare,
God's glad hand would have put it there!

LINCOLN DEBTS DENIED BY FORD

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Edsel Ford, in a deposition read in court today, denied there was any promise to pay all creditors of the Lincoln Motor Company when it was purchased by his father, Henry Ford.

The Ford Motor Company, suing the Sweeten Automobile Company, of Philadelphia, for $6,800 on notes, is being sued in turn for $168,000 which the latter concern claims it lost through Ford's acquisition of the Lincoln Company. The Sweeten firm was a Lincoln car distributor.

Edsel Ford said he could not recall asking Wilfrid C. Leland, Sr., who was president of the Lincoln Company, to go to the Ford home by back roads and a rear door in order to maintain secrecy during the negotiations for the purchase of the company.

Leland on Tuesday testified that Henry Ford did not want other groups to know he was negotiating for the Lincoln company and advised Leland to continue discussions with others.

Ex-Wife Kills Self At Home of Doctor

GLENDALE, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Driving to the front of Dr. Lawrence L. Craven's home, his former wife, Lena Luella Craven, bridge instructor, shot herself to death yesterday.

Dr. Craven found the body in a motor car at his driveway after someone had telephoned him there was "a woman patient sitting in a funny position" in a car outside.

Steel Rod 'Sold' To Clerk for Ten Dollars

A variation of the short-change racket was reported to police today by John Troyan, a chain store grocery clerk, who told officers that he was inveigled into paying $10 for a piece of steel.

Troyan told police that a well-dressed man entered the store at 1130 Talbot avenue, Braddock, late yesterday and inquired if the store needed any quarters. He produced a roll marked "$10 quarters" and handed it to Troyan in exchange for a $10 note. Troyan later opened the roll to find that it contained a piece of steel shafting.

Gang 'Trigger Man' Dies by Own Gun

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Henry Sherman, alleged by police to have been a former "trigger man" for the notorious "Purple Gang" of Detroit, committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver today in a Bronx apartment.

SEEK WINKLER CLUE IN VAULT

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Federal authorities and police today eagerly awaited the opening of a safety deposit box believed to contain documents which will shed light on the slaying of Edgar Lebensberger, gambling czar, and Gus Winkler, leader of the North Side Capone gang dominion.

The safety deposit box was found in a downtown bank after careful search for the records and personal effects of the two dead men, Lebensberger had signed for it under the name of "G. Lyons."

Documents within the box, federal operatives believe, are expected to reveal the operations of a nation-wide ring of mail thieves as well as the gambling situation in Chicago, which was allegedly controlled by Winkler, Lebensberger and Frank Nitti, suave "enforcer" for the Capone gang.

SALLY DANCING OUT OF N. Y. IN BLOOMERS

Public Fervor Cools As Law Puts Pants On Nude Girl

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Encased in a dress that harked back to crinoline days, fan-dancing Sally Rand was giving her last performance in a New York theater today.

There was no indication that the long arm of the law, which yesterday figuratively hooked Sally up in a garment that was all-covering, would be withdrawn.

Following a demand by Commissioner of Licenses Sidney S. Levine that Sally sacrifice art to the extent of putting on some more clothes, Sally tripped about the stage of the Paramount Theater last night in a pair of bloomers that were white and lacy.

The audience did not clap with its usual fervor. Aesthetics mixed with decorum did not please them.

Sally donned the garb despite her protest that, appearances to the contrary, she was virtually hidden beneath several coats of paint and powder during her act.

Levine thought otherwise and recommended "opaque raiment." So Sally brought forth the strange clothes which, she said, her mother had made for her and consequently had much sentimental significance.

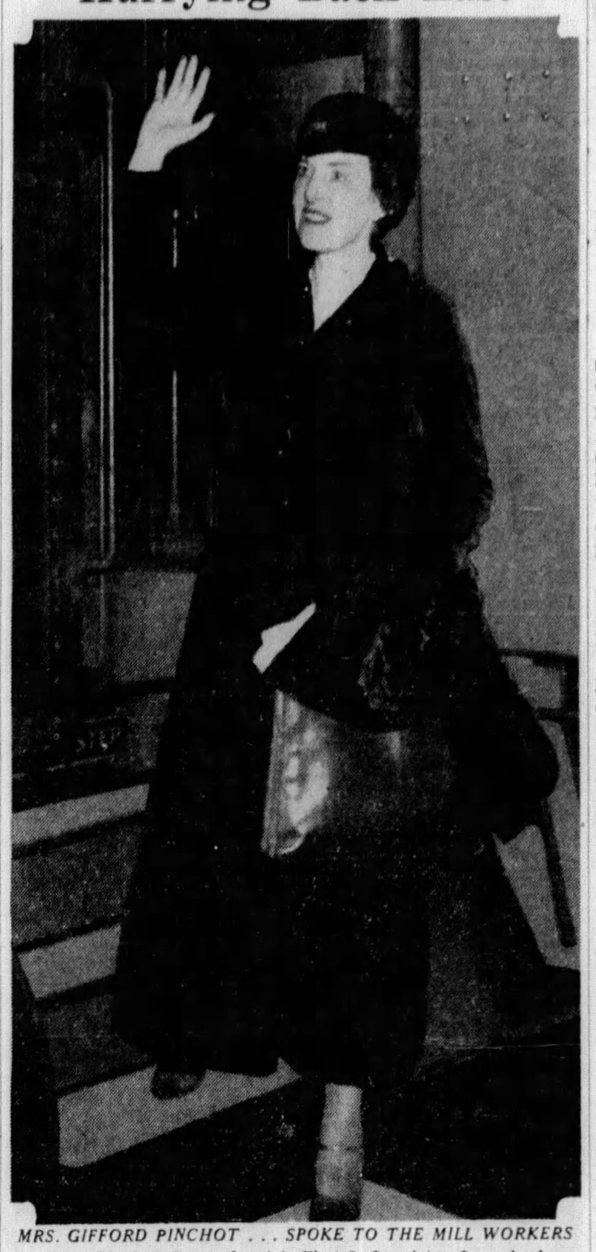
Hurrying Back East



MRS. GIFFORD PINCHOT . . . SPOKE TO THE MILL WORKERS

Mrs. Pinchot, Pennsylvania's First Lady, pictured as she hurried out of Pittsburgh last night after flying here, speeding to Apollo to address Kiski Valley mill workers who had been barred in seven places from holding their meeting. Because of threats, Mrs. Pinchot was guarded by 70 state troopers, 105 state highway patrolmen during her brief address. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

'SPIRITUAL PAL' OF GARBO HELD

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—For three years, so Oscar H. Brosi, a Long Beach laborer, said, he had "enjoyed a spiritual friendship" with Greta Garbo.

He decided to visit the Swedish actress at her home and meet her "in person."

Brosi was in the local jail today. Police caught him as he attempted to climb the fence last night into the actress' yard.

Brosi said he was an amateur author, and exhibited several writing pads which were filled with sentimental verse and prose of his own composition. Police said he will be given a sanity hearing.

Father Secretes Threatened Bride

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—His daughter threatened with kidnaping unless he pays $10,000 to $25,000, a Germantown baker sent her into hiding and turned to Federal authorities for aid.

The latest of a series of threatening letters demanding money was received by Gregory Marchl yesterday. He said he sent the daughter, Mrs. Thelma Marchl Jarvis, who was married recently, into the Pocono Mountains.

MOVIE STUNT MAN SLAIN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The colorful and daring career of Tom Bay, who, as a film stunt man, had "doubled" for many of Hollywood's western stars in breath-taking episodes, was ended last night by a bullet wound.

The asserted slayer, Mrs. Alta Lessert, 36, was in the prison ward of the General Hospital today, suffering from two self-inflicted bullet wounds. She was expected to recover.

Police reported the shooting followed a quarrel between Bay and Mrs. Lessert, both of whom resided in the same house. Another woman, whose name was not revealed by police, was present when the shots were fired and was reported to have been the target of one shot. She was uninjured.

Stribling Death Car Driver Arrested

MACON, Ga., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Sergt. H. W. Humphries, of the Macon police department, today said R. V. Johnson, whose automobile collided with a motorcycle ridden by W. L. (Young) Stribling, causing injuries fatal to the boxer, had been arrested after another accident.

He said Johnson's automobile was in collision with one driven by C. S. Sargeant at a street intersection. Mrs. Sargeant was severely injured.

GREAT LIQUOR STOCKS AWAIT REPEAL HERE

Distilleries Work Full Tilt Under U. S. Permits

That fellow Bacchus won't have to keep a sober face in Pittsburgh, when and if prohibition is repealed.

The truth of the matter is, according to two sources that should know, this city will be on the "in" when distilled and fermented drinks again legally take their places at our tables.

By way of proving this assertion, right now there are 3,500,000 gallons of whisky in bonded warehouses in Western Pennsylvania, according to Herman Locker, head of the United States Bureau of Industrial Alcohol in the Pittsburgh district. Of course, much of this liquor will have to wait another two or three years before it is aged sufficiently.

DISTILLERIES BUSY

Two distilleries in this territory are working night and day producing good rye whisky under government permit, Locker reports. They are the Joseph S. Finch Company, at Schenley, Armstrong County, and the Overholt Company, at Broad Ford, Fayette County. The Large Distillery, at Large, is reconditioning its plant for production, which will probably start the first of next month, Locker said.

Locker recalls that Western Pennsylvania at one time produced more rye whisky than any other section and kept 60 distilleries going. Already, he adds, five or six old established houses are talking seriously of "getting back into the business."

LARGE SHARE HERE

There is a significance in this report of 3,500,000 gallons of whisky stored away in this section alone when it is a definite fact that there are only 4,000,000 gallons of aged whisky on hand at present in the country, in the opinion of Walter H. Mennigke, whose life's work it is to provide the hotels and clubs with choice things to eat and drink.

Such reminiscent words as sauternes, chateaus, burgundies, claret, richebourg, sherry and port roll from his tongue as he gives the assurance that:

"Of course there won't be any trouble in getting good wine and lots of it in Pittsburgh. The only question is what will the taxes be. We know the prices already."

And those prices for some of the very best vineyards of Europe have to offer are not so terrible. Here they are wholesale for a case of 12 bottles:

Imported Champagnes, $40 and up.

German Rhine wines, $15 and up.

Sauternes white wine, $15 and up.

Chateau Latour, Pauillac, of 1908 vintage, $75.

Richebourg Burgundy, of 1911, $115.

Oppenheim Goldberg and Reisling, $25.

Of course, you'll have to add thetariff of $3.30 a gallon and the retailers' profit.

But whisky, that's a different story. The price of good hard liquor, according to Mennigke, already has doubled in the last three months, with the prospect of repeal, and the future supplies and prices are still in doubt.

DRUGGISTS WATCHFUL

Whatever the supply, the Allegheny County Retail Druggist Association is devoting considerable thought these days to the suggestion that with repeal, liquor should be dispensed through drug stores in a manner somewhat similar to the present prescription system.

Authority for this statement is I. G. Amsler, chairman of the liquor control committee of the association. He explains that, inasmuch as the government almost forced the druggists to sell whisky during prohibition and devoted time and effort to effect a control over its distribution, it only follows that they are now the logical retail outlets. He said:

"We believe those now having liquor permits are straight shooters and should continue to handle it. The government control in this field is now 100 per cent and could continue to be."

Although no wide-scale campaign to promote their plan of liquor control and distribution is contemplated by the 600 association members, they are "talking it up" among themselves, according to Amsler.

Woman of Today Taller Than Sister of Gay '90s

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The average woman of today is three inches taller than the average back in 1893, dietitians meeting in conjunction with the American College of Surgeons, were told by Dr. Charles F. Read, of Elgin, Ill.

Speaking yesterday, Dr. Read, who is superintendent of the Elgin State Hospital, said he attributed the growth in women to a better knowledge of balanced diets and a subsequent lessening of nervous ailments. Balanced diets he said, act to prevent nervous disorders.

It is bad business, the surgeons were informed by Dr. Alfred W. Adson, of the Mayo Foundation of Rochester, Minn., to correct children at meal times, because it destroys their digestion, and reacts upon their nervous systems. It has a like effect upon the parents.

The doctor said:

"Fear is the chief cause of all nervous troubles, and it must be avoided. Take your time about everything, eat plenty of good food, get the proper amount of sleep, have a bit of recreation each day, and you won't be bothered with nerves."

The "worrying doctor" found support among the surgeons. Dr. J. Bentley Squier, of New York retiring president of the college said:

"The day when the doctor loses the human touch and his patients become just so many numbers to him in a hospital, is the day when medical science will begin to lose ground."

ROCKEFELLER'S REPEAL PLAN HITS POLITICS

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Declaring the whole emphasis of the liquor authority system as proposed in the "Rockefeller Plan," worked out for John D. Rockefeller, Jr., by Raymond D. Fosdick, lawyer, and Albert L. Scott, engineer, "is on limiting the sale to unstimulated demand and not on sales promotion," a portion of the plan made public yesterday purports to show how the sale of liquor in state-owned stores can be adapted to local conditions and made immune to political influence and corruption.

Predicting that the liquor business of the future will be governed by state-wide policy, the report says it should be adapted to meet the local sentiment of small sections. It adds:

"This may in part be accomplished through 'local option.'

"But this adaptation to local preference is, in our judgment, far from adequate to meet the present demands of the American people. What is needed now to supplmnt local option is a far more flexible plan under which reasonable liquor restriction will be worked out to meet local needs and desires, without resort to political campaigns and controversies.

STATE AUTHORITY

A state authority could, in fact, go further than the strict local option law by establishing, at the request of particular neighborhoods, dry zones within areas which voted as a whole to permit the sale of liquor. A city of 20,000 inhabitants, let us say, might vote to legalize liquor sales by only a small margin. Is liquor selling to be forced upon those areas of the city which are strictly opposed to it?

"Again, if the local option voting is on a county-wide basis, a city might vote wet by a large margin and thereby prevail over the dry sentiment of surrounding rural territory. Divisions of this sort are bound to be common; and the majority vote, though determining the issue under the letter of a local option law, would nevertheless provoke much discontent in certain communities within the cities or counties involved.

NO DEALER PROTESTS

"The authority could take these differences of opinion into account and in its own administrative discretion could meet the opposing views of lesser communities existing within the larger voting unit by declining to locate, in those neighborhoods, shops for the sale of liquor.

"If a community sentiment should turn against local sale of liquor after a period of trial, the authority's shop could be closed merely by the signing of an executive order. There would be no wholesale or retail dealers to protest and demand compensation. Whatever loss might be involved would be absorbed in the authority's total profit and loss account."

FARLEY REPEAL TOUR HITS PA.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Farley today said he would make a rapid swing through the Carolinas and Pennsylvania the week-end before they vote on prohibition repeal and will follow this with a national address for the six states voting next November 7.

He will speak at Raleigh, N. C., November 3, at Columbia, S. C., that night, and in Philadelphia the following night.

The Sunday before the elections, he said he plans a national address covering all the voting states and especially for Utah, where reports have been received of strong efforts to keep the state in the dry column.

Farley, however, reiterated his belief that "I don't think any state will vote dry."

Besides the Carolinas, Pennsylvania and Utah, Kentucky and Ohio also will ballot on prohibition November 7. Thirty-three states have voted for repeal, and only three more are necessary to strike the Eighteenth Amendment from the Constitution.

Court Given Insull Extradition Papers

COCKTAILS O. K. FOR MOTHERS, WRITER SAYS

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Cocktail-drinking, cigaret-smoking mothers are defended by Helen Washburn in her new book, "So You're Going to Have a Baby," just published by Harcourt, Brace & Co.

Citing various scientific authorities to prove that neither alcohol nor nicotine in moderate amounts harm either mother or baby, Mrs. Washburn writes:

"If your smoking and drinking habits have carried you fairly successfully to your present advanced age, in the normal case there is no reason why they should be altered."

WOOF! WOOF!

Interviewed today, Mrs. Washburn elaborated on the theme, saying:

"As a matter of fact, children of drinking parents may find that they have a lot more fun. Father is much more willing to play horse or go 'woof-woof' like a bear after he has had a couple of cocktails."

Dealing in a practical, commonsense manner with the problem of young modern parents and their city children, Mrs. Washburn, wife of a New York newspaperman and mother of two babies, says the primary rule of parenthood is:

"Be yourselves. You'll be found out soon enough anyway."

PAPA TIN-TYPED

She answers all the questions of frightened prospective mothers, from how much the baby will cost to how to act in the hospital, and catalogues the usual types of fathers thus:

"The calm father, the anxious father, the hypochrondriac father, the bluff father, the helpless father."

Her own personal opinion is that father's place is in the office, and not trying to boss the nursery.

Mrs. Mae Sunday Fined for Collision

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Convicted in police court on a charge of reckless driving, Mrs. Mae Sunday, former wife of Billy Sunday, Jr., was given the alternative of a $100 fine or 50 days in jail. Judge John Webster suspended $50 of the fine and Mrs. Sunday paid the remainder.

Her car was in a collision Tuesday night in which another woman was hurt.

RECIPES MAKE 'NEIGHBORS' OF STRANGERS

President Roosevelt recently made a speech in which he said that the "neighborly" spirit is the keystone of America's prosperity and contentment. Mrs. W. H. Brackmann, 430 Alice street, Mt. Oliver, who won a prize Saturday for her sponge cake recipe, says that the "neighborly" spirit has been emphasized in Pittsburgh since the Sun-Telegraph-Prudence Penny prize recipe contest started.

Up to last night she had received five telephone calls regarding her sponge cake with requests for additional information about it. This, however, is only one instance of many where housewives have become acquainted with each other on the same basis.

Prudence Penny's offer of $15 in daily cash prizes of favorite recipes is still open. Send them in today. They'll be examined by expert judges and the best of the day will get a $5 prize and in addition there will be 10 other prizes of $1 each.

The prize-winning recipes will be published in the Sun-Telegraph. Housewives interested in finding new things for the table and how to prepare them are clipping and saving these prize recipes every day.

ESTATE VICTOR IN TAX RULING

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, deciding that the late John Slater, of Washington, Pa., coal and gas operator, did not make gifts to his children in contemplation of death, ruled yesterday in favor of the estate in a suit against the government to recover $1,344.20 paid as federal estate tax. Slater died October 17, 1930. The gifts involved in the action were made December 12, 1928.

The decision was based in part on gifts of similar character made by Slater during his life. The suit, brought by the Citizens National Bank of Butler, executor of the estate, involved gifts of real estate and stocks valued at $134,685, placed under deeds of trust, and held under the opinion as not being taxable.

HITLER THREAT TO QUIT LEAGUE LOOMS

By CHARLES L. FLICK
Universal Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—A German ultimatum with Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations as one alternative may be placed before the Geneva disarmament negotiators if the present implacable hostility to German demands continues there, it was reported today.

Opposition to the German demand for sample armaments has only stiffened the Hitler government's stand, and the ultimatum, it was said, will offer the opposition choice between granting Germany "security and adequate means of defense" or seeing the Reich follow Japan in announcing it is quitting the League. Premier Mussolini of Italy, it is rumored, has assured Germany his support.

Foreign Minister Von Neurath is understood to have conferred with Chancellor Hitler yesterday. Hitler, it is believed, decided that the time is opportune for Von Neurath's return to Geneva. He is expected to go there Monday.

"Germany's minimum expectation is an adequate defense, without which no nation is free and sovereign."

British Firm Against Rearming Germany

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service.

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—The United States, Britain and France, in their first three-power conference yesterday, came to full agreement that Germany is not to be allowed military aircraft, tanks, and guns for a period of three or four years, it was reliably stated.

The agreement was a rejection of German demands for ample armaments. French Foreign Minister Paul Boncour, just before taking a train for Paris last night, stated:

"I am well satisfied with today."

Neither he nor British Foreign Secretary, Simon nor Norman H. Davis, United States disarmament delegate, would discuss details of their meeting in which their aides participated.

GROCERS BACK PRICE CONTROL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Grocery and food dealers will be unable to meet wage and labor conditions of the National Recovery Act unless price control provisions are included in their master code, C. H. Janssen, of the National Retail Grocers' Association, declared today at hearings before the Farm Adjustment Administration.

Janssen expressed optimism that the 2½ per cent and 7½ per cent mark-up for wholesalers and retailers would be approved by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

This mark-up is favored almost unanimously by the industry but some of Wallace's aides have opposed it strongly.

The hearing was enlivened by a clash between spokesmen for 1,500 food brokers and the so-called co-operative retail groups. The brokers insisted upon an amendment prohibiting "rebates to retailers by dummy brokerage houses." The co-operatives defended company-owned brokerage facilities, which pass on savings in the brokerage fees to retail units with which they are affiliated on an ownership basis.

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 12.—Following the example of Belgium in moving for increased defense equipment, the federal military commission of Switzerland today officially proposed reorganization of the Swiss army to the federal council.

U. S. TO LODGE PROTEST ON NAZIS

International News Service.

BERLIN, C 12.—Diplomatic representations by the United States, Great Britain, Spain and Holland regarding alleged mistreatment of the ionals in Germany will be made within the next 24 hours, International News Service learned today.

While the nations concerned are apparently acting separately instead of making a joint diplomatic demarche, the envoys of the four nations will call at the German foreign office today and tomorrow.

United States Ambassador William E. Dodd is scheduled to lodge his protest on Friday, confining his representations to the case of Roland Velz, an American, of Meriden, Conn., who has lived in Germany for six years.

Velz complained of being struck by a Nazi storm trooper when he failed to salute a Nazi detachment parading in the street. He insisted his view was blocked by persons standing five deep on the sidewalk and did not see the swastika flag.

Dispatches from Washington have stated that Secretary of State Cordell Hull will define the administrations attitude regarding Germany, largely on the basis of reports received from Ambassador Dodd concerning the Velz case.

It was revealed today that the United States, in the course of the past year, has already presented three strong notes to the German foreign office. Only the last one, it was said, received what was described as "adequate attention."

Ambassador Dodd has cabled Washington for additional instructions, declaring that assailants of three other Americans struck by Nazi troopers for failing to salute the Hitler flag have not yet been punished by the German authorities.

Japanese Foresee Arms Dictatorship

Swastikas Painted On Cows In Austria

EHRWALD, Austria, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—All the cows in the pastures roundabout this Tyrolese community have been painted with swastikas (the emblem of the German Nazis), and and words "Heil Hitler."

Fences and billboards display counterfeit patriotic front posters similar to those seized last week, which the authorities said, although ostensibly classing Austrian national socialism as dead, actually attacked the regime of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

RUSSIA, JAPAN NEAR BREAK

International News Service.

TOKIO, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—With possible severence of Russo-Japanese diplomatic relations depending on the next move of the Soviet in the Chinese Eastern Railway squabble, Foreign Minister Hirota today pondered whether he would lodge vigorous protests with Moscow.

Relations between the two nations became strained when documents, branded forgeries by Japanese officials, were published by Soviet authorities in what was intended as an "expose" of an alleged Japanese plot to seize the railway.

MOSCOW, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—In caustic terms, the Soviet press today denounced and ridiculed Japanese denials of the authenticity of documents produced by Russia allegedly exposing a Japanese plot to seize the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Izvestia characterized the denials as "funny," declaring the Japanese government was "at a loss to know what to do."

PRO-NAZI DRIVE IN U. S. PROBED

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Preparing to go to Washington Monday to open an inquiry into alleged pro-Nazi propaganda efforts in the United States, Representative Samuel Dickstein, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, today disclosed that customs officials had seized a roll of camera film and a German newspaper from recently-arriving German travelers.

The travelers, Dickstein said, gave addresses which proved to be fictitious.

AL SMITH MAY HEAD JEWISH RELIEF

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The League of Nations Council, quickly acting on a relief project for the Jewish refugees from Germany, voted today, with the German delegates abstaining, that President Raoul Amador should appoint a high commissioner to carry out the plan.

An official of the league said Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York state, was being considered for the post.

The council agreed to invite the following governments to be represented on a governing body which will aid the commissioner: The United States, Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, Spain, Sweden, Great Britain, Italy, Denmark, Switzerland, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Poland, France and The Netherlands. The governing body will be authorized to co-operate with private organizations.

METZ, France, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Eight more arrests in a spy plot were reported today from Strasbourg as officials probed charges that French fortifications along the Rhine had been mapped.

The plot came to light when Drezdt, known as "La Belle," and two French soldiers were arrested motoring toward the German frontier with a sample of the latest French machine gun and incriminating maps.

'Unforgivable Sin' on Ten Stations

Based on a story appearing in next Sunday's American Weekly Magazine, distributed with the Sun-Telegraph, "The Unforgivable Sin" is heard today and tomorrow on the following tri-state stations:

TODAY: WFBG, Altoona, 3 p. m., and WKBN, Youngstown, 8:15 p. m.

If you want to REDUCE

Many women are reducing easily and safely by the new scientific Vannay treatment. Vannay is an absolutely harmless tablet that contains no Thyroid extract, Iodine or laxative drugs of any kind. It is a natural regulator of the digestive juices that dissolves fat before it can deform the body.

It was developed by a great physician who has specialized in research with the Pasteur Institute and famous clinics of America. Come in and ask us what Vannay has done for hundreds of women who have been mortified because they cannot wear the lovely slim fashions.

We heartily recommend Vannay because we know that it is safe and effective. Get a descriptive circular on Vannay in any of our stores.

Professor Would Ban Jokes

By AIRCASTER

College professors and columnists don't always agree, it would seem.

The other day, one of the latter paragraphed as "one of the best jokes heard over the air in weeks" Methuselah's gag about a hair in the applesauce . . . and Baldwin apples. (Tchk, tchk, tchk!)

College professors, I have been told, are among the most avid of radio listeners.

There must be some truth in it. One of them, lately, wrote a fan letter to Tony Wons, suggesting that perhaps the time had come to banish all jokes from the air.

"Americans," he wrote, "are growing tired of jokes. The comedy cycle is over for radio.

"And if you doubt my claim, which I am setting forth in a magazine article, please watch the listeners at the next joke program, and you'll see that they no longer laugh."

Maybe So

The professor is partly right. I know of many people who don't laugh at the current jokes because they respect old age.

There are others, however, who laugh uproariously at the comics and not with them.

And there are some of us who get a chuckle out of a new gag and chalk it up as a rare experience.

It is Tony's claim, as he replied to the pedagogue, that good jokes never pass out—though some people do after hearing them.

Wons believes that a lot of us would go insane if we didn't have ourselves to laugh at once in a while.

Will and Eddie

It has been known for weeks that Will Rogers will return to that Sunday oil broadcast October 29.

But until now it has been a secret under what conditions he will stage his comeback.

I learn from the West Coast boys that Rogers had refused to return because there was no California outlet in the hook-up.

In order to stroke the Rogers temperament, he will be allowed to broadcast each of his programs as sustaining events, following his regular performance.

But what puzzles me is this: How can he repeat the program when he never follows a script, but ad libs?

Dan Landt, of the Landt Trio, was secretly married to Lois Benson, of Chicago, Monday night. He is the first member of the trio to put on the shackles.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

President Roosevelt made a speech the other day stressing the value of neighborliness. In a big city like this it is almost impossible to have the spirit of neighborly co-operation found among residents of smaller towns. Our neighbors we seldom know, and when we do, we find their interests so unlike ours.

But we can make some strides toward a common interest. We can if we will only get to know something about our neighbors, and so day after day we write this, hoping that by telling some of the personal experiences of one globe trotter to the others we can form an exchange station. So far it has worked out very nicely. The news so far as the world at large is covered is not breath-taking, but, coming from one neighbor to another, it is interesting.

Mrs. Joseph Rectenwald, wife of the representative, had been reading the recipes. She saw one for making bread submitted by Mrs. Morrison Smith, of Smithton. It was her first successful loaf. She thanks her globe trotter neighbor.

Dr. A. Bianco, of Bloomfield, thinks that his dog has become a little too neighborly. It's a cocker spaniel who has forgotten to come home. Charles Petrochi helps the community spirit along with a song, a special song for the globe trotters. I would spoil it by trying to sing it.

Mrs. Wenger thinks that other mothers ought to know that the buckeye experiment of her enterprising sons failed. The buckeyes were popping all over the kitchen. Someone had told the lads that if they soaked the buckeyes in vinegar and then baked them, the result would be the hardened nut suitable for a game the boys play with them.

Peggy Ann McCarrick cheers us up with "Many, many thanks for announcing happy birthday wishes. It was the happiest moment of my fifth birthday."

"So long, neighbors. Thanks for the co-operation.

To Evelyn Taylor, and all the eighth grade students of Cheswick School: I'll have to admit that if I tried to write a history of Allegheny County in this column it would be very sketchy. The Carnegie Library must have several good reference volumes. You write it and send it to me. Is that a go?

BALM SUIT READ FLOP IN RING

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Down and out went Alfred C. Read, Jr., whose affections recently were valued at $75,000 in a verdict against Claire Windsor, actress, in his professional prize fighting debut here last night.

The erstwhile young broker flopped to the floor in the first round before a hard punch delivered by Jimmy Mello, of Oakland, who at 164 pounds, weighed five pounds more than his opponent.

It was all over for Read, who had trimmed the Alfred C. to plain "Al" for the combat, just one minute and 40 seconds after the round opened.

Read, whose divorced wife, Marion, won the alienation of affections verdict in Los Angeles against Miss Windsor has tried several roles in the past year or so, including a career as a professional baseball player.

RELIEF NEEDED BY 15 MILLIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Harry L. Hopkins estimates 12 per cent of the population are on relief rolls.

In exact figures, the Federal Relief Administrator puts the total at 15,100,000. His estimate embraces state, county, local and private rolls. Announcing the figures, he said:

"Let no one think that we are not going to have a great many people depending on unemployment relief for their existence this winter.

"The needy unemployed are going to be taken care of this winter. The federal government is not going to countenance relief on a standard so low that the needy unemployed are only a calory or two ahead of the grim reaper."

Prisoner Lynched In Girl's Slaying

LABADIEVILLE, La., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—A Negro, arrested yesterday for questioning in connection with the slaying of Miss Louisiana La Rose, 15-year-old white girl, whose body was found in a field, was taken from the Labadieville jail early today and lynched by a mob of unidentified men.

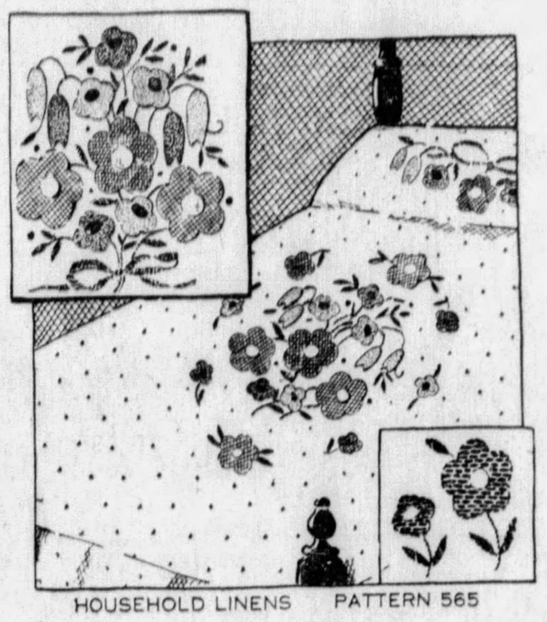
EMBROIDER A BEDSPREAD



HOUSEHOLD LINENS PATTERN 565

By LAURA WHEELER

Now that fall is here and the house is practically in order for the winter, there is that urge to add an accessory here and there to give the house a brighter look. A bedspread is the outstanding accessory in a bedroom. It can make this room charming or commonplace, according to its decorative value. This bedspread, which can be carried out either in colorful applique, together with simple embroidery, or in embroidery alone, will add to any bedroom. The flowers, which are simple in form and so very easy to do in applique, can be done in darning stitch if preferred. The pattern is so designed that separate motifs lend themselves equally well to other household linens, such as scarfs, pillows and various accessories. The center motif is exactly as shown in the larger detail; the small sprays around it on the bedspread are extra motifs.

Pattern 565 comes to you with a motif 18x20 inches; two motifs 6x17 inches; eight sprays averaging 7 inches in height, and detailed directions and yardages for making a bedspread for single or double bed.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

CAROL SLAYING ATTEMPT FAKE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Bucharest was laughing today over the shattered train window that shook the world with reports that an attempt had been made to assassinate King Carol.

It appeared that two trainmen, playfully scuffling in the corridor of a passenger train, broke a window pane with their elbows. In order to avoid censure for the smashed glass, they reported that bullets, fired by unidentified persons, had shattered the window while the train was on its run.

When it was discovered that King Carol, two hours previously, had passed by that way on his way home, someone jumped to conclusions and flashed to the world an attempt had been made to assassinate the monarch.

One Shouldn't Blame Another For a Blighted Life

Tommy's a tramp. But why?

"Because a faithless girl broke my heart—drove me to the dogs!' snivels Tommy.

But can a broken heart drive you to the dogs?

"Sure it can," snorts Jim, "if you let it. But why let it?"

Maybe you, too, are suffering from a Blighted Life, and blaming someone else for the plight you're in? If you are—listen!

Dear Elsie:

I've just read Tommy's sad letter, and I only wish that I could talk to him in person. Since I can't, I hope you'll print this, because he needs to learn a thing or two, and I can tell him from experience.

I got a break just like his, and at first I gave in to despair, just as he has done. Later I found out my mistake. So I want to tell him to take a tip and get next to himself, because the road he is following is not worth the misery he is making for himself. Yes, I said for himself! And I mean it!

I was deeply in love with a girl who swore that she loved me. A quarrel split us up, and before I could make up with her I found she had fallen for someone else.

Right then and there I decided that the world had stopped for me, and I went haywire. And I never want to live again such an awful two years as followed. I drank, gambled, went with a wild crowd to wild parties, and tore my reputation to shreds. But what did I care, I asked myself. Did I have anything to live for? Wasn't my life already ruined by her handiwork? Wasn't she to blame for everything? Hadn't she wrecked me?

REALIZED HIS MISTAKE

Well, one day I woke up and took stock of myself. I'll tell you what I found—a dissipated fool, jobless and clothed with an unsavory reputation. All to what purpose? To no purpose at all!

Was I happy acting the way I was? Was it worthwhile? No. And whose fault was it, really? I looked myself straight in the eye, and told myself the brutal truth. I had to admit that I wasn't fooling anyone but myself when I blamed her. No one had put me where I was but me.

So I tried to pick up what I thought was the remains of my life—and I found that life goes on, just the same.

It wasn't easy by any means. I'd formed habits. But every time I felt like returning to the old ways I'd ask myself "Why?" and — believe it or not — I couldn't give a single reason satisfactory enough to warrant acting that way. Then I began to look ahead and use a little gumption.

JUST IMAGINATION

So quit acting like a cry-baby howling for the moon, and trying to throw yourself away when you can't have it, Tommy. Why let disappointment get you?

Lick that imaginary "heartbreak" that you think has you down, and that you're letting spoil your life. Some day you'll find the real One Girl. And then what a laugh you'll get, thinking how you imagined the world had stopped because this girl you're mooning over now went out of your life.

What you do with your life is up to you, old son, and it doesn't depend on another human soul, good or bad. So get going! Every time you feel like weakening, ask yourself "Why?" and answer yourself honestly. It can be done, just as I did it. Good luck! JIM.

Sure it can be done, Jim, and I salute you for having the spunk and grit to do it! You're Real Goods, son, and here's one friend who's betting on you!

By FAY KING.

It was with no little curiosity that I once dined with an attractive man notorious for his conquests with women.

Nor was I long in discovering the secret of his success. It was his undivided attention to the woman he was with. Not once did he seem aware of the more beautiful women around us in the smart cafe he had chosen.

He made me fell that I was the one woman in the world for him—while he was with me. Not only was this flattering—it was almost irresistible.

Nothing is so humiliating as to have the one you are with gazing about admiringly and even flirting with others.

It not only offends the companion but cheapens the one who does so.

Madge Risks Her Mother-in-Law's Displeasure

As I heard my mother-in-law's voice in telephone colloquy with Philip Veritzen, I wafted a mental salute to the person who first voiced the proverb "between the devil and the deep sea;" for it was approximately that position in which I found myself.

I must talk with Philip Veritzen in order to give him from the farm house the dinner invitation I already had extended to him while I was telephoning from The Larches, but, as Dicky often says, "It's risking your life to come between mother and a telephone."

However, there was no other way. I must break into the conversation from the downstairs phone. But it was with the feeling of putting my head into the mouth of a lion that I spoke hurriedly and placatingly into the transmitter:

"Oh: mother dear, I'm here? I came in only two or three minutes ago, and I'm at the downstairs phone now. I heard it ring and hurried out, but you were quicker than I."

There was silence that dripped, it was so packed with dissaproval. Then my mother-in-law spoke with icy emphasis.

"Very well, I shall hang up the receiver." There was a sudden click.

"Has she gone?" Mr. Veritzen asked anxiously, and I answered quickly, "Yes; I will try to explain to her later. But I heard you ask for me. I hope this means you are coming out to see us."

"It does," Mr. Veritzen replied, then went on as smoothly as if he had rehearsed the falsehood, and believed Mother Graham to have remained at the upstairs telephone.

PRETENDS SURPRISE

"I just received your letter telling me of the wedding," he said, and stopped, giving me a chance to act my own role of incredulous dismay.

"Just received it?" I echoed. "We mailed it a week ago!"

"I know. The postmark tells me that," he said smoothly. "I do not know where the delay occurred, but I am investigating it. However, that is beside the mark. You must have thought me most remiss in not acknowledging it or calling upon you. May I come out this afternoon? It will be late, but I will travel as fast as possible."

"We should love to have you," I said heartily, aware that Mother Graham had descended the stairs and was standing close to me. Lillian was right behind her, but her hands, uplifted in a gesture of futility, told me that she despaired of helping me in my mother-in-law's present mood. I must depend solely upon myself, I realized, and I answered Mr. Veritzen's inquiry as to whether it would be convenient for him to come out with an emphatic, "Yes, indeed," and then added, "Will you please hold the line a second. Someone is calling me."

"Our letter to him did not reach him until just now. He wants to come out to call. What do you think? Shall I ask him to dinner?"

MOTHER HAUGHTY

My mother-in-law sniffed.

"Likely story!" she said, but had the grace to speak in low tones. "As for asking him to dinner," she added, "who am I that I should presume to give advice or counsel to the mistress of the house?"

I staked all on the throw of the dice.

"But I certainly am not going to ask him unless you wish," I said firmly.

"It is a matter of indifference to me," she said loftily. "However, for the sake of the children, I suppose it would better be done. But keep my name out of it."

She swept out of the room, with head high. I went back to the 'phone.

"Do forgive me for keeping you so long," I begged, "but perhaps you can imagine how hectic these hours of hurried preparation are. I could not let you go, however, without exacting a promise from you to stay to dinner with us."

"Oh, but won't that be an imposition upon you at this time?" he protested, in the most approved manner.

"No, indeed," I countered. "If you do not mind 'pot luck' with us, everything will be all right."

"I have learned that 'pot luck' in your home is like an epicurean feast elsewhere," he said flamboyantly. "I shall be with you in less than three hours. Au revoir."

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Creating an Entry for an Opponent

It is often necessary, in playing a hand, to throw an adversary into the lead, forcing him to play some card which will produce an extra trick for declarer. Hundreds of times plays of this nature have been demonstrated and explained in bridge literature, so that most students of the game are thoroughly familiar with the technique of their execution. To eliminate all inconsequential suits is easy. Then we make the proper adversary a present of the lead; he is forced to play into our trap, and our difficulties are over.

But what of the times when, the stage being set and the preliminaries attended to, we find ourselves without means of forcing the proper adversary to win the trick which is to prove his undoing? I once played a hand in which there seemed to be no ready means of surrendering the lead to the opponent I wished to have it; and it required an extra amount of resourcefulness to surmount this barrier. The hand:

South, Dealer.
Both Sides Vulnerable.

	♠ K J 8 ♡ A Q 7 ◇ Q 9 4 3 ♣ 5 4 2
♠ 10 9 5 3 2 ♡ 5 2 ◇ 10 8 ♣ K 10 7 3	North West East South	♠ A Q 7 6 4 ♡ J 10 9 8 ◇ 6 ♣ J 9 8
	♠ — ♡ K 6 4 3 ◇ A K J 7 5 2 ♣ A Q 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ◇ (1)	Pass
4 NT (2)	Pass	5 ♡	Pass
6 ◇	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—An inferential slam try: a three-notrump bid would have been weaker.

2—I held the South hand: while I did not want to bid seven, I was not averse to bidding a Small Slam eventually. This bid showed two Aces and the King of diamonds or hearts; of course, I actually held both Kings.

Against the final contract of six diamonds West opened the spade 10, and I stopped to study the situation. I had several chances; if the adverse hearts were divided 3-3, my last heart would win a trick, on which I could discard one of Dummy's clubs, reducing my possible club losers to one: if I could force out East's spade Ace by playing the Knave on the first trick, I could establish a discard for one of my losing clubs, achieving the same purpose; if East held the club King, I could win a finesse against it. I proceeded to play in such a manner that I could guard every possibility. I covered the spade 10 with Dummy's Knave, but East played the Queen, spoiling my chances there. I drew two rounds of trumps, and then played the King, Queen and Ace of hearts, in that order; East proved to have the high heart left in his hand, and another possibility was ruined. Now it became a matter of taking the club finesse or throwing West into the lead; and there seemed to be no card with which to force the lead into West's hand. I could not duck a club lead into West's hand, for East's 8, 9 or Knave would hold the first club trick unless I covered, and a club continuation would defeat me surely.

But there was still one chance—to set up a high card for West, to create an entry for him. I led Dummy's spade King; East played the Ace, and I ruffed. Now I led my last heart and ruffed in Dummy. My next play was Dummy's spade 8, on which I discarded my club 6; and West had to win the trick and lead either a club into my Ace-Queen, or a spade, splitting my trumps and allowing me a ruff and discard. Had West refused to win the spade 8, of course, my 12 tricks would have been made automatically.

But note that had East been able to cover the spade 8 I could still have taken the club finesse, the diamond Queen being an entry to Dummy.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Will you kindly tell me if it is permissible to open with a bid of four hearts without holding 2½ honor-tricks?

Answer—Yes, it is permissible to open with a Pre-emptive bid on less than 2½ honor-tricks. For example, a sound four-heart bid would be about eight hearts to the Ace-King-Queen and nothing else outside.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Wart "Cures" May Cause Infection

Not long ago I told you about moles, a common affliction of the skin. It was pointed out that sometimes a harmless looking mole suddenly begins to grow larger and become cancerous. I advised the removal of moles and stressed the necessity of medical attention whenever a mole becomes irritated.

Dr. Copeland

Since then many inquiries have come to me concerning the danger of warts, another affliction of the skin. I have a letter before me from a reader who has warts and fears that they may turn into cancer.

Unlike the mole, a wart rarely becomes cancerous. But if infected or constantly irritated it may possibly undergo certain malignant changes. The danger is present if the irritation is neglected.

Warts usually occur in childhood, but also they come to annoy adults. They are commonly seen on the hands, but may appear on any surface of the body. As a rule, they are painless. But if located on a portion of the body that is subject to pressure or irritation, such as the knuckles or along the nail, they may cause annoyance and discomfort. When irritated they bleed, crack and become painful.

There are probably more "cures" offered for the removal of warts than for any other common ailment. The remedies believed in a few centuries ago were bound up in superstition.

Today we know that warts on the backs of children's hands often disappear without treatment. As a rule, warts that appear in adult life require treatment. They may be removed by the use of the so-called electrical knife or by the application of a strong acid. By means of a high frequency current of electricity warts are easily and completely removed. Of course, this treatment can only be applied by a physician trained in this work.

May I warn you against the use of strong acids for the removal of warts. If an acid is used by the doctor, he will make sure that adequate protection is given the adjacent skin. An efficient acid used in this manner has a very big name, "monochloracetic" acid. But if this acid is applied to the wart without taking the necessary precautions for the protection of the adjoining skin, a burn may result.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

"At Home"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have received a wedding announcement and enclosed was an "At Home" card. We have never received one of these before and we are not quite sure as to what to do about it.

The card stated that the couple would be "at Home" after Blank date. Just how soon after should we call, at what hour, and how long should we stay? We plan to call on a Sunday. Is that correct? Also, etiquet demands that we make this visit, does it not? L.

"At Home" cards are sometimes enclosed with wedding invitations, and sometimes with wedding announcements . . . oftener with the announcements than with the invitations. Etiquet and friendliness suggest that fairly soon after the date on this card, we call on the couple to pay our respects. Sunday afternoon is a very good time to make this call, some time in the late afternoon. If you know these people fairly well, you would perhaps stay for a half hour or an hour.

Engagement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A young man and a young lady have been "keeping steady company" for several months. The girl is about to be presented with a ring. The parents have met but have not been to each other's homes.

Should the girl's parents invite her friend's parents to spend an evening at their home before the engagement party which is to take place the week after the ring will be presented? F.

It is the final social custom for the mother and father of the young man to come to see the bride-to-be and her family within twenty-four hours after their son has told them of his engagement. If they do not do this, or show no signs of coming very soon after their knowledge of the engagement, they may be waiting to be invited by the girl's parents. Then it would be well for the girl's parents to invite them to her home, either for dinner, say, or for an evening call.

FREEDOM

It is no longer necessary to endure any pain, or even to be uncomfortable, because of the time of month. Midol will prove this to any woman in a few moments. One tiny tablet, and the pain is gone. And it's as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. No narcotics. No "let-down" later. But don't be fooled by general remedies now being offered as a specific for such suffering. Midol acts directly on the organs affected. It is not a mere measure of relief, but actually ends such pain.

CITY GETS NEW STAMP AHEAD OF OTHERS

Tomorrow is a "red letter" day in the history of the Pittsburgh postoffice, as then Pittsburgh will attain the distinction of having been selected as one of six cities for the first-day sale of the new commemorative Gen. Kosciusko 5-cent stamp.

The other points of sale tomorrow are Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Buffalo, Boston and as a special gesture, Kosciusko, Miss. The new stamp will be on sale at all other postoffices as soon as distribution from Washington can be perfected.

Hundreds of collectors in this area are sending for "first-day" covers. Postmaster William M. Turner has arranged to apply the new stamps to all self-addressed envelopes forwarded to the Pittsburgh postoffice.

The cancellation, of course, will be that of tomorrow's which is necessary for the completion of the "first-day" cover. All envelopes must be accompanied by money order or cash for the required number of commemorative stamps. Postage stamps will not be accepted in payment for the new stamps.

The Pittsburgh "first-day" covers will have a potential value among collectors because the decision of the Postoffice Department to put this city on the list came so late that many collectors in other cities will not have time to grasp the Pittsburgh opportunity.

Pitsburgh was selected at the last moment by Postmaster General Farley in recognition of the fast-growing interest in philatelics in this area since inauguration of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph Stamp Collectors' Department and the organization by this newspaper of the Stamp Collectors' Club. More than 10,000 membership cards have been issued for this organization.

BILLINGS SEEKS PAROLE; 'O. K.' WITH MOONEY

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Grown "sort of tired of the place" after nearly 17 years in Folsom Prison, Warren K. Billings has abandoned efforts to obtain a pardon and is seeking a parole from his life sentence for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

Referring to Tom Mooney, serving a life sentence in San Quentin Prison for the bombing, Billings said:

"He'll probably want to blast me when he hears I have applied for a parole."

But Mooney, who has consistently declared he should "either be pardoned or hanged," offered no criticism. Mooney said:

"He has my best wishes."

ROMANCE HINTED

Billings said he had come to the conclusion the long struggle for exoneration was futile, adding he did not agree with Mooney's contention that acceptance of a parole was an admission of guilt.

Billings, whose application will be considered by the State Board of Prison Terms and Paroles in December, said he had been offered a clerical position outside of California. The 40-year-old prisoner said he had no desire to take part in any labor movement.

Asked if he planned to marry Mrs. Madeline Wieland, of San Francisco, if freed, Billings said:

"Ask her."

IN THE BACKGROUND

While supporters of Tom Mooney were waging the battle that became world-wide in its scope, Billings remained somewhat in the background of the case. He was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1916 while Mooney was condemned to die but saved by a commutation at the behest of President Wilson.

Thrice Mooney appealed to California Governors for a pardon and each time he lost. Only last May, however, he was granted a trial in San Francisco by Superior Judge Louis H. Ward on an old murder indictment similar to that on which he was convicted. Judge Ward directed an acquittal on motion of the prosecution, which refused to present evidence.

M'KEE PLEDGES WAR ON BOSSES

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Joseph V. McKee, independent candidate for Mayor, has started his campaign with a pledge to "restore the city's financial solvency" and rid it of the "invisible government" of political bosses.

He asserted in his opening campaign speech that he owed "allegiance to no political boss, nor am I hampered or fettered by allegiance to leader or machine."

He pledged rigid economy, elimination of unnecessary jobs and no further taxation "until every wasteful dollar is saved."

He accused Fiorello H. LaGuardia, fusion candidate, of "self-exploitation, obtained by tub-thumping and cheap publicity." Tammany Hall also came under his fire.

John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader, was reported in a state of physical collapse, believed to have been brought on by the threat of revolt by his district leaders.

Davisons Return From African Hunt

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—F. Trubee Davison, president of the American Museum of Natural History, and Mrs. Davison returned on the liner Europa yesterday from an African hunting trip with two monkeys from the Paris zoo to amuse his four children.

At the dock his 10-year-old son, F. Trubee Davison, Jr., scorned the monkeys and announced proudly that he bagged a squirrel himself while his parents hunted elephants and lions in Africa.

Auto of Missing Steel Man Found

MEDIA, Pa., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Missing four days, Robert B. Lederle, 63, head of a Philadelphia iron and steel company, was sought today by state and county police.

Clear Bellevue Man, Costs on County

Eldridge Baubach, 41, of 102 North Jackson street, Bellevue, has been entirely exonerated in connection with the disappearance of a pocketbook from the office of Dr. Joseph R. Simon, Murray-Forbes Building.

NEW DISORDER LOOMS IN CUBA

HAVANA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Havana Negroes crowded beneath the protecting arm of the government today in fear of what leaders described as "a hateful and bloody crusade" against them.

On the claim that whites had been molested, a delegation of Negroes told President Ramon Grau San Martin, agitators were urging an open assault before nightfall.

As President Grau moved to meet this new problem, rumors spread that friction was developing steadily between the army and navy.

Although denying that there were any noteworthy differences, army and navy leaders met with the President in a conference which Juan Rivera, commander-in-chief of the navy, did not attend.

Havana University student leaders announced that registration would start for reopening the institution October 15, with classes starting November 1.

Movie Comedian's Wife Gets Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Unlike the Hardys, who patched up their marital troubles and now are living together again, the Laurels have taken separate paths.

Mrs. Lois Laurel, wife of Stan Laurel, member of the film comedy team of Laurel and Hardy, was in possession of a divorce decree, granted in the Los Angeles courts yesterday. She charged that living with a motion picture comedian is anything but funny.

One-Eyed Race Some Millions of Years Off

Evolution of man into a "cyclops," with one huge eye, shouldn't worry the present generation, according to Dr. W. E. Carson, of the University of Pittsburgh. Commenting on a prediction made by Dr. Thomas Hall Shastid, internationally known ophthalmologist, that such a fate is in store for the human race, Dr. Carson said:

"Evolution may produce a race of cyclopses, since almost anything is possible, but it will not happen for a long, long time. Probably 20,000,000 years. It is quite likely, however, that something of the sort may happen."

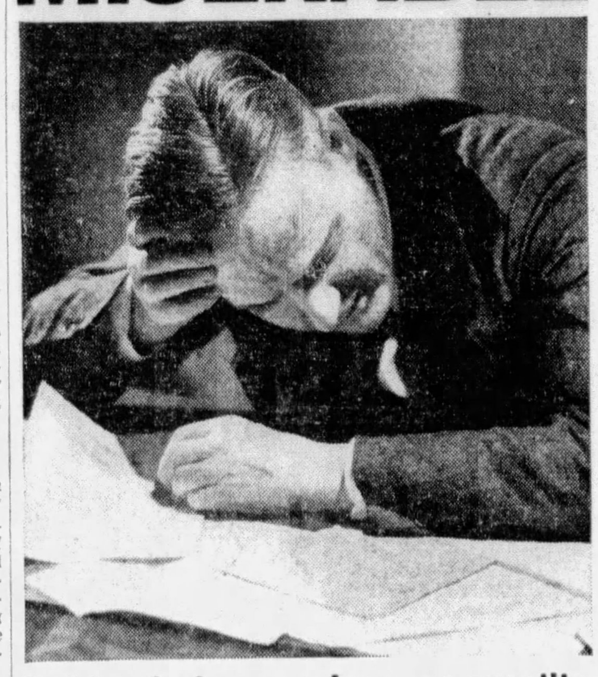
I FEEL MISERABLE



Dull headaches—pepless—no appetite. If you feel like this, correct it now.

"I can't understand what's got into me, Bill. Head aches all the time—can't sleep—actually I feel ten years older than I did six months ago."

It's ASTHENIA

(Run-down condition, usually caused by Constipation)

Millions of men and women are in the same lamentable plight today...and not one in ten can guess the cause. That's the insidious thing about Asthenia... it drags you down, slows your mind, robs you of your joys and pleasures, yet you hardly know you're slipping.

Would you like for once to brush the cobwebs from your eyes—be ready and eager for any task—experience all the glories of this glorious old world? Then rid yourself of Asthenia—and stay rid of it.

You think that you're not the least bit clogged—you say that you're "regular" as can be—but physicians will tell you that it is only too easy to deceive yourself in this respect and stay doped with poisons. Thus millions of micro-organisms accumulate in the intestinal tract and produce that dull, achy, pepless feeling known as Asthenia.

Decide now to turn the tables on Old Man Gloom. Take Pluto Water every morning for ten mornings, and see a new world in ten days.

Don't miss a day. Take it before breakfast as recommended—one-fifth glass Pluto Water in four-fifths glass hot water—for ten straight days!

Gentle, Effective

Gently and thoroughly cleanse your system of every vestige of health-destroying impurities. Then you will understand why for nearly ninety years, from all over the world, people have traveled to French Lick Springs for this ten-day Pluto Water treatment. And why physicians everywhere recommend it as a mild and effective laxative—non-irritating and non-habit-forming.

Two sizes—20c and 45c—at all drug counters. Bottled and sealed at French Lick Springs.

The NEW TASTELESS WAY TO TAKE PLUTO

Taken as directed—one-fifth glass

PLUTO WATER

America's Laxative Mineral Water

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS HOTEL ..French Lick, Indiana...America's greatest health resort, and the home of Pluto Water... is noted for its lavish comfort, its perfect cuisine. Two excellent golf courses ...splendid riding facilities... as well as other outdoor amusements are provided.

A MESSAGE TO MOTHERS

WHO WANT THEIR CHILDREN TO HAVE

FEWER COLDS THIS WINTER

EVERY mother knows that a fluctuating, up and down temperature in the home is unhealthful—and your own doctor will tell you that it is a most common cause of colds.

Every mother knows, too, that with old fashioned, bulky, smoky, hand-fired fuels it is almost impossible to keep the temperature of the home uniform, no matter how expert a fireman you may be.

That's the reason so many homes are being heated with Gas this year. Gas Heat is entirely automatic and the thermostat will keep your home, always, at the exact temperature you want. That's why Gas Heat is healthful heat—why it is so important in preventing colds and other illness, particularly among children.

To learn how inexpensively you can heat your home this healthful, automatic way, ask your Gas Company or Heating Contractor for a FREE estimate. There is no obligation—and really you owe it to yourself and your family to get the facts. Call, write or telephone your Gas Company or Heating Contractor, or send in the coupon today. Remember—there is no obligation.

IMPORTANT

You can enjoy Gas Heat—without one cent of investment for equipment—by renting a Conversion Burner for your present furnace or boiler. No installation charge—and only a small rental per month. Ask your Gas Company about the Burner-Rental Plan.

PROBE REVEALS INCOME TAX 'DODGE'

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. — A new income tax "dodge" was hinted at today by Ferdinand Pecora, special Senate counsel, at the inquiry into the handling of South American loans by Dillon, Read & Co., Wall Street bankers.

Pecora questioned Col. Robert O. Hayward, vice president of the firm, about a division of profits on the floating of two $25,000,000 bond issues for the Brazilian government in 1921. In each instance, part of the profits went to the Eastern Trust Company, dominated by Dillon, Read & Co.

Hayward agreed the trust company represented the "same interests" as the banking firm, but said he didn't know whether it had been created to avoid income taxes in the higher brackets. The company has been dissolved since the sharing of the South American bond profits.

PROFITS DISCLOSED

Hayward first told how Dillon, Read & Co. drew $366,372.40 in profits on the first $25,000,000 issue. Then it received $585,468.62 profits on the second issue.

At the same time, the Eastern Trust got $134,994.49 on the first issue and $325,129.41 on the second. Pecora called the Eastern Trust a "subsidiary and affiliate" of Dillon, Read & Co. Asked Pecora:

"Was the Eastern Trust set up so as to avoid federal income taxes in the higher brackets?"

Hayward answered:

"I am not familiar with that. I was out of the country when these matters were settled."

Hayward admitted the trust company went out of existence a little later. Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, asked whether the federal excess profits tax was in effect at that time. Pecora said it was.

SAVED THOUSANDS

In all, the associates of Dillon, Read and Company received $501,366.89 profits in the first issue and $910,598.03 on the second. By sharing the profits between the two companies they saved thousands of dollars in taxes.

Inquiring into South American loans, Pecora first took up the two 1921 Brazilian issues. Later, he planned to investigate a $23,000,000 loan to Bolivia, some $5,000,000 of which was used to pay an arms and ammunition bill to the British Vickers Company. Hayward said privately that the State Department had permitted this loan, though knowing a part of it would be used to pay the Vickers company.

The two Brazilian issues were

R. T. Mason, Jr., of Pittsburgh, today had been elected vice president of the American Humane Association at its annual convention in Hartford, Conn., at which a modified boycott on beef, veal, lamb and pork was advocated as protest against slaughtering methods.

BEFRIENDS MAN, MONEY STOLEN

Being a good Samaritan caused F. A. Neipp, 37, of 550 Chess street, Crafton, to be robbed of his car and $2.50, he testified in North Side Police Court today.

Neipp picked up Stephen Boler, 21, of 1124 Sawmill way, intoxicated, in Tripoli street, he testified, and drove to several addresses in an effort to take Boler home.

Finally at the head of Ravine street, Boler ordered his benefactor to turn over his money and get out of the car, according to Neipp.

Boler was later arrested after a chase by police. He testified he had been drinking and remembered little. He was held for court, charged with larceny and highway robbery.

Cantigny Battle Show Injures 3 Guardsmen

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 12. —(INS.)—It was supposed to be a sham battle, but three members of the First Infantry, Maryland National Guard, are in hospitals today as a result of their re-enactment of the Battle of Cantigny, the first in which American troops engaged on the Western Front.

Sergt. William Steele suffered a mangled hand by the premature explosion of a shell. Corp. Boyd Meade sustained internal injuries on duty with the tanks, and Private Howard Carr was struck in the back by a flying missile.

SMASHUP HALTS FLEEING AUTO

Several shots were fired by police in a radio car during a chase from Lowrie street to Herr's Island Bridge, where the fugitive machine, which had nearly caused the wrecking of the police car, crashed into a bridge abutment. Its driver fled on foot.

Stephen Boler, 21, of 1124 Saw Mill way, the driver, according to police, was arrested after a short sprint.

Before its flight ended, the auto hit an automobile owned by Gus Schiefelbein, of 2026 Straubs lane. The fugitive machine was reported stolen by F. A. Nieff, of 550 Chess street, Crafton, who said he had been ejected from his auto after having been robbed of $2.50.

Let's go to ISALY'S

NEXT TIME YOU enter an Isaly store, stop and look around for a minute after you've been served. Notice the other customers—how many there are . . . how they seem to enjoy eating our ice cream and drinking our milk shakes.

Then ask yourself—Why are they here? They have learned from their friends or by experience that Isaly's products are good.

And what keeps them coming? We think that is due to the values we offer—because we have surely carried out the ideals of our forefathers (Swiss dairymen for many generations back) in giving more thought to serving customers a good product, than to earning a large profit.

Big Rush to the KLONDIKE

TRY the NEW KRISPY KLONDIKE! To make it we add a generous sprinkling of caramel-dipped popcorn to a regular Klondike—and what a rare, new flavor it has!

You will like our regular Klondike, too. We dip a large block of ice cream—vanilla or chocolate flavor—into rich melted chocolate, the same kind that's used in expensive candy. The chocolate freezes hard all over the ice cream—and that's a Klondike.

If you haven't tried one, do it right away. A nickel is all you need—for the original or for the new Krispy Klondike. Or better yet, take home enough Klondikes for the whole family—for dessert or late in the evening. Packed safely in dry ice, they'll keep as long as 24 hours.

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The United States has informed the British debt mission that Great Britain must pay her December 15 debt installment on the present basis, Universal Service learned today in highest official circles.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, in charge of the British delegation, has been informed that the United States definitely will grant no revision of the British debt before that time.

The payment due in December is $185,000,000.

While the administration has no expectations of receiving full payment of this sum, it will take the position that it is owed. Any payment less than this will be considered only a partial payment and will be entered on the Treasury records as such.

The President's stand, it was explained, is taken because only Congress can modify the present debt agreements. Congress does not convene until early January, and the President has definitely decided not to call a special session to consider debt revision.

2 GIRLS SEIZED WITH YOUTHS

Two Paden City (W. Va.) girls and their two male companions were held for the West Virginia authorities by Magistrate T. D. Jones in Morals Court today.

The four were arrested in a house at 56 South Twenty-fifth street yesterday on instructions from the police of St. Marys, W. Va. All are charged with being suspicious persons.

They are Wilda Yoho, 20; Pauline Wagner, 19, of Paden City; Homer Edge, 20, of Veto, W. Va., and Jack Edgington, 24, of 2127 Jane street. The youths denied they had come here with the girls and testified they had met them after their arrival.

Ernest Slen, 25, of the South Twenty-fifth street address, in whose home the four were arrested, was discharged at the hearing.

FREEPORT BANK OFFERS STOCK

FREEPORT, Pa., Oct. 12.—Stock in a new financial institution to be known as the Old Freeport Bank is being offered today to depositors and stockholders of the restricted Freeport Bank and Trust Company.

Under the plan, approved by the State Department of Banking, two-thirds of deposits will be made immediately available and depositors will be asked to waive one-third, for which they will receive 80 per cent of the capital stock of the new bank.

The remaining 20 per cent will be offered to stockholders in the old bank.

The new bank will have capital of $50,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $27,500. All accounts with balances of $25 or less will be paid in full, as well as all school and Christmas savings accounts and secured public funds.

Wife Loses First Tilt For Condemned Mate

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Loser in her first fight to save her husband from returning to a South Carolina prison camp, Mrs. Ben Jones, attractive wife of an escaped murder convict, said today she would seek clemency for Jones from I. C. Blackwood, Governor of the southern state.

Her announcement came after she bid Jones, alias C. D. Cooper, a tearful farewell when he was turned over to J. S. Muskin, South Carolina officer, after Gov. James Rolph, Jr., signed extradition papers.

Bathes Baby's Eyes With Cleaning Fluid

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—A mother's mistake in bathing the eyes of her 15-month-old daughter with a straw hat cleaning fluid instead of boric acid may cost the victim, June McMahon her sight, attaches at the Children's Memorial Hospital said today.

The error was discovered last night by Mrs. James McMahon, the mother, while in the midst of bathing the infant's swollen eyes.

Austrian Prince Joins Dollfuss

VIENNA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss and Prince Starhemberg reached an agreement today amalgamating the Heimwehr with the Patriotic Front and making the prince officially Dollfuss' right hand man.

Prince Starhemberg is the leader of the pro-Fascist Heimwehr (home guard), which is backing the government in its fight against Nazism. This action, in effect, created a ruling triumvirate of Dollfuss, the prince and Vice Chancellor Emil Fey.

DRIVER CHARGES ATTACK

Morris Balter, 23, of 1205 Howard street, was to be arraigned in East End Police Court today in connection with an attack on George Grianti, 24, of 3741 Frazier street, driver of a dry cleaning company's truck, at Negley and Stanton avenues.

Grianti told police two men jumped on his truck as he waited for a signal light to change. He accused Balter of opening the door and attempting to choke him. He said he pushed the assailant off.

Balter was released on a $1,000 bond after his arrest yesterday.

BRITISH PROBE 'MUTINY' RUMOR

International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Expressions of regret by sailors because they were unable to attend a dance here responsible for the false reports of "mutiny" and "insubordination" aboard the battle cruiser Hood, the London Daily Mail said today.

The newspaper said exhaustive injuires aboard the warships Hood and Nelson and an investigation ashore showed the only origin of the rumors, which were officially denied yesterday by the British Admiralty, was the fact that certain sailors expressed sorrow last week over curtailment of their shore leave for a dance which was to have been held at Invergordon, Scotland.

CO-EDS DISCUSS MAN HUNTING

One of the main reasons why more coeds than ever this year are interested in the Pitt Panther, student magazine at the University of Pittsburgh, is Miss Sally Sanderson, newly appointed women's editor.

She supervises a staff of 20 girls.

Just now she is busy editing a special feature article for the Panther's next issue, "How to Get Men," which also includes, she says, good advice on how to get rid of them.

But she hastens to add that she is not the author of the article—six anonymous coeds have that honor. More details are secret, but Miss Sanderson modestly admits:

"It will revolutionize the gentle art of man hunting."

Besides being women's editor of the Panther, Miss Sanderson is chairman of W. S. G. A. publicity, a member of the W. S. G. A. commission, treasurer of Xylon, and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

FLINN HIGHWAY UP TO PINCHOT

Gov. Pinchot has before him plans for improvement of the William Flinn highway, to cost $750,000 and give hundreds of men employment, Eugene L. Connelly, secretary of the William Flinn Highway Association, sponsors, said today. Pinchot's action on the plans is expected soon, he said.

Plans for the improvement call for elimination of a number of bad curves, grades and crossings which at present constitute a menace to the safety of persons using the highway.

Eberharter Denies Legislature Race

Attorney H. P. Eberharter, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Legislature in the Third District to succeed the late Charles T. Dwyer, today denied that he either was a candidate or intended to be.

The district legislative committee of the Republican party is expected to meet tonight to name a candidate for the special election November 7 to fill the Dwyer vacancy. The Democrats are to meet next Monday.

BLAME SUICIDE ON DOCTOR BILL

International News Service.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Worry over mounting doctors' bills for his ill wife was the reason advanced by friends today for the suicide of William Bacon, 41, whose wife charged that she was attacked by Edward Stotesbury Hutchinson, Harvard sophomore and grandson of E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia multi-millionaire.

Bacon took his life by inhaling carbon monoxide gas after starting the motor of his automobile in a closed garage at his home.

Hutchinson, son of Sydney E. Hutchinson, of Philadelphia and Beverly Farms, was found guilty of attacking Mrs. Beatrice Bacon, two months ago, after he and a companion got into the wrong apartment on Beacon Hill while searching for a "girl friend." He denied the charge, appealed a fine and a new hearing is scheduled this month.

Mrs. Bacon has been confined to her bed since August.

No Mother Would Knowingly Take This Chance

Only Lack of Knowledge Would Make Her Do It . . . Take the Chance of Giving Her Child Drugs of Which She Knows Nothing

A CHILD'S health is too precious for experiment; a child's life beyond the price of pennies.

That's something, of course, that every mother's instinct tells her. The protective instinct that makes her value her child's life far beyond her own.

Doctors Say PHILLIPS' For Your Child

Now, when it comes to the very important — and frequently used — "milk of magnesia," doctors for over fifty years have said "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia . . . the safe remedy for your child."

This is because genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia marks what is known to the medical profession as one of the finest laboratory products the world of science knows.

See That Your Child Gets It

See that your child gets this; the finest that men know; genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Get it for your own peace-of-mind. Get it in protection of your child.

If you are offered a "bargain" substitute for the real Phillips' article, ask your doctor before you buy it. He will tell you that giving your child unknown drugs is one of the most dangerous, most risky things you can do. You can get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia at any drug store, in liquid or tablet form—for a small sum.

VOTE MACHINES' CRITIC ACCUSED AT PROBE

POLITICS

Democrats Cooling Toward Pinchot

By MARK SHIELDS

The rapport between Gov. Pinchot and the Democrats of the state and nation, up to and including President Roosevelt, is reported not to be so bright and shining as it was a few weeks ago.

Mr. Shields

There are apparently authentic reports out of Washington that the President, or at least his advisors, did not welcome with enthusiasm the first trip Gov. Pinchot made to Hyde Park to request the President to intercede in the Western Pennsylvania strike troubles. It is understood they felt Mr. Pinchot might have adopted a less spectacular mode of travel than the airplane. Indeed, there were some thoughts that Mr. Pinchot could have been quite as informative over the telephone, and could have given the President fully as adequate a picture of what was going on.

Democrats Contend He's Playing Politics

It was felt that Mr. Pinchot was taking measures to insure himself a well press-agented place in whatever negotiations should transpire, and would arrogate to himself some of the credit for achievements President Roosevelt's circle thought should remain with the President alone.

At least, Mr. Pinchot did not remain long on that visit, though he did pay a return engagement.

But this is not the real cause of the coolness which has sprung up between the Governor and the leaders of Pennsylvania Democrats, those leaders who are working energetically to swing their communities to the Democratic column in municipal elections next month.

The Pennsylvanians want immediate action on the participation in the federal funds for public works projects. The allotment for this state is above $18,000,000.

Secretary Ickes, of the Interior Department, one of Mr. Pinchot's closest friends, says this state among others has been lethargic in securing title to federal expenditures.

Fear Gratitude May Mean Votes

The Governor and Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis say their plans are in Washington awaiting approval, but this is not accepted by the federal officials.

At any rate, the money isn't here, the work isn't being done, and the Democrats feel that if all that was requisite was approval by Washington—that is, if the Pennsylvania authorities had done their part—there would be no difficulty about getting the funds immediately. They are sure their stand-in with the administration is powerful enough for that.

Democratic leaders are beginning to talk frankly about the situation, though so far not for public quotation. They contend Mr. Pinchot is playing a shrewd game of politics, and that it is a game designed for his interest and not for the Democrats.

The Pennsylvania Governor, they contend, is so conducting affairs as to hold back this work until next spring, when he may or may not be a candidate for the United States Senate.

To have things humming at that time, to put a lot of men to work who, while they might be paid by federal funds would be designated by Pinchot's aides, would make the Governor an object of gratitude. That gratitude reasonably might be translated into votes.

Democrats Want Those Votes This Fall

The Democrats want those votes this fall. They are interested in support next year in the state fight, it is true, but they realize that improvement of their position and enhanceing of their strength for that test is largely dependent upon some local successes this year in municipalities where seizure of the reins of government not only will help them with power but at the same time shear the ground fom under Republican administrations.

Pittsburgh Democrats are alive to this situation. The believe they have a chance in the fall campaign. They know that chance would be improved if there were some activities in this section, which they might directly attribute to contributions from the Democratic President with money provided by a Democratic Congress. They could show that this national helpfulness is but an example of what might be expected from Democrats in a local administration.

But they won't have the opportunity for a concrete demonstration, at least not far enough ahead of the election to make the construction easily visible and perhaps there will be none at all.

So there is less talk of a 1934 coalition which would envisage Mr. Pinchot teamed as a candidate for the U. S. Senate with a Democratic candidate for governor, and perhaps another candidate for the Senate.

Jealousy Flares Because of Boy's Interest in Nollie

THE GIRL WHO WON

By May Christie

CHAPTER III.

"Nollie, darling . . . got you alone at last . . ."

So it was Nollie, not herself, Jake fancied!

Glimpsing Nollie's hat, but not her face, he had quite understandably, but hatefully, mistaken Lil for her pretty cousin!

Synopsis

Nollie Day, young and pretty, lives in a small town with her aunt and uncle. She works in her uncle's paint shop for a nominal salary, most of which her aunt takes for board. Her 18-year-old cousin, Lil, lazy, irresponsible girl, who borrows from Nollie rather than work, shares her room. Nollie longs for a career in New York. The opportunity arrives when she wins a $50 prize. Jake Tippett, calling to keep an appointment with Lil, mistakes her for Nollie because she is wearing Nollie's clothes. He throws his arms around her and says, "At last, I've got you alone, Nollie darling."

Now Go On

But Jake held on. More, he bent right over the back of the chair and put his face under the floppy, concealing red hat and kissed her!

"Now for the forfeit!" he exclaimed stealthily but triumphantly, while Lil jumped up. She swung round on him with blazing eyes. "So that's what you do with Nollie, is it?"

He blinked, amazed and disconcerted.

"Why, Lil——"

"You—get away from me—you—" She clenched her hands till the long, highly-varnished nails dug into the palms in ridges.

"Why, Lil—of course—I knew all the time it was you—"

"You called me Nollie!"

IMPRESSED BY CAR

He pulled himself together, gave a hollow laugh. "Tush! I was only having a little game with you, honey."

"Strikes me you've played those games before! And in this house, too—or out of it—with my cousin!"

"Nonsense! Don't let a little joke get your goat. C'mon, Lil, gimme the forfeit!"

He made as though to pull her to him, but she glared at him angrily under Nollie's big red hat.

"Nix on that! The universal lover doesn't make a hit with me!" She tossed her head in a prima donna manner.

"C'mon, kid! Nollie! What's-her-name's nothing in my young life. C'mon out. My car's waiting."

His car! Indignant as she was, and furiously jealous, too, the last announcement impressed her.

None of the boys she knew, to date, had cars! Jake Tippett, then, had more money than she had imagined . . !

Lil was still deep in sleep when Nollie awoke and dressed next morning.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 12.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

Various groups have arisen to sorter gnaw at the old Democratic party's heels. Now I don't want to cause undue worry at a time like this. But I do want to call your attention to another cloud in the sky.

Since autumn weather has set in, and the leaves have begun to fall, you can see quite a few Republicans that have been hiding in the trees, a few more than last year.

On the banks of the Wabash the other day, Jim Watson climbed right out on a sycamore limb in plain view (brazenly mind you) and started chirping. I discovered Ambassador Edge out here yesterday traveling under his own name (for the first time in a year).

All this is not a good omen, and I think the uprising should be put down immediately. You know how ignorant people are to join some fad. Yours, WILL.

COSTLY CHURCH BUILDING OPPOSED

Disciples of Christ Urged to Assist Individuals

Less building of enormous churches and elimination of church socials and dinners while burdened individuals need the aid of religion, was urged before the opening business session today of the international convention of the Disciples of Christ (Christian Church) in Syria Mosque.

Needs for rebuilding Christianity and spreading religious education were discussed before the 2,000 members, many from foreign lands, as the committee on recommendations met in Memorial Hall preparatory to sending resolutions to the general convention session which will continue through Saturday.

FINANCIAL GAINS

The Rev. George A. Campbell, of St. Louis, convention president, presided as the missionary and home groups made their reports. Financial gains, despite the economic conditions, were shown.

Charging that the majority of the laity has hazy, infantile and limited ideas of God, the Rev. W. E. Moore, of Bloomington, Ind., blamed the church for losing its way in spreading religion. He said:

"We have been so busily engaged in erecting enormous church buildings, establishing educational institutions, promoting denominational agencies, defending historic positions, seeking material things that we have well nigh lost the way. We have been so much concerned in ringing Sunday school bells, in meeting missionary budgets, in raising church deficits, in holding church socials and attending church dinners that we have to a great extent overlooked individuals staggering under their heavy personal burdens."

EDUCATION PROGRAM

Urging Christian education founded upon a new philosophy, the Rev. Henry G. Harmon, of Canton, Mo., proposed three educational enterprises. A survey of the needs of church schools was suggested to prevent duplication and overlapping of efforts. The second point urges initiation of a program to capitalize upon the state's educational offerings and guarantee that the 31,000,000 in such institutions receive instruction with an interpretation to enable each one to live on the highest spiritual level. A more generous support to the churches' educational program was the third point.

A prayer service, featuring a 200-voice choir, is being held nightly at the Mosque during the convention. The Rev. Dr. R. C. Snodgrass and the Rev. George A. Miller will speak tonight.

JUMP IN LIVING COST REPORTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The National Industrial Conference Board announced yesterday that living costs of wage earners rose 1.3 per cent in September over August. Clothing prices made the largest advance of any item in the family budget.

This is the fifth consecutive month, the board said, in which the cost of living has mounted.

Since April, which marked the low point, the increase has been 9.0 per cent, and since September, 1932, the rise was 1.7 per cent. The purchasing value of the wage earner's dollar in September was 128.4 cents compared with 130 cents in August, 139.9 in April and 100 cents for the year 1923.

Peace on Earth But Let's Have Games A-Plenty

By ARTHUR (Bugs) BAER

Disarmament has reached that friendly stage where somebody has invented an airplane gun to sink submarines.

That will make some peaceful and gentle soul snap his suspenders and get to work on a gun to scuttle the airplane.

Whereupon some kindly old gentleman will gnaw his military mustache and perfect a barrage that will fry the eggs in an eagle's nest.

Peace on earth and good will to men is a splendid wall motto. But you will be much safer under a wet tree in an electrical storm.

The world's leading philanthropists are assembled at Geneva. They are sitting on the edge of a beautiful volcano and letting their feet hang over.

One of these conferences will develop an intelligent diplomat who will crab the works by rising and saying:

"Boys, come to think of it, there have never been monuments to inventors of guns that won't hurt you."

Playwright's Wife Granted Divorce

DORMONT GIRL DENIES TROTH

Pretty Irene Lee, 21-year-old Dormont High School graduate, carving a niche in the movie world at Hollywood as a story editor, today wired Pittsburgh friends a denial that she planned to become the wife of Ernest Lubitsch, famed motion picture director.

A Pacific Coast columnist recently said that the next Mrs. Ernest Lubitsch would be Miss Irene Lee.

Miss Lee, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Levine, of Grandin avenue, Dormont, made her professional debut as a member of the George Sharp stock company at the Pitt. Later she appeared two seasons with Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Company and then trekked to Hollywood.

Becoming interested in the story end of the film industry, Miss Lee won her spurs in a verbal battle with the militant Eric von Stroheim at a story conference.

Glowworm Hailed First Anesthetist

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Hail the glowworm. It was described as the first anesthetist by Dr. Andre Crotti, of Columbus, O., who told the twelfth annual Congress of Anesthetists yesterday that a study of the insect might aid the science of medicine.

The glowworm, he said, anesthetises or paralyses its victims by stinging them, and if for any reason it does not devour them they recover with no apparent ill effects, much the same as a human does from an anesthetic.

Killed Three Women; Will Die Friday

ROME, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Cesare Serviatti, who police say persuaded three women to give him their savings and then killed them, will die at dawn Friday for the crimes.

WITNESS PAID BY RIVAL FIRM, QUIZ TOLD

Charges of Propaganda And Sabotage Also Fly at Hearing

B. B. Sklar, voting machine expert, who two days ago said the county's 1,100 voting machines were in no fit mechanical condition to be used at the November election, today stood accused of being in the pay of the Automatic Voting Machine Company, of Jamestown, N. Y., competitors of the manufacturers of the American Voting Machine used by Allegheny County.

The testimony of the Jamestown "expense payroll" was but one of the many high lights developed at yesterday's session of the committee investigating the breakdown of voting machines at the primaries.

PROPAGANDA CHARGED

Other highlights were:

An election bureau employe testified as to a two-year campaign of propaganda to discredit the county's machines.

Testimony was offered to the effect that sabotage was committed by someone on the elections bureau payroll on the voting machines while they were in the County Building.

Testimony was offered to the effect that more than 400,000 hair springs, used on the voting machines, were stolen from the County building.

It was also testified that the plunger cone on the voting machine was tampered with during the time the machines were in the County Building, and that this could be done only by someone with full knowledge of the machine's mechanics.

S. C. McClelland, of 2123 Federal street, a deputy custodian in charge of the machines at the primaries, testifield that he and Sklar had received expense money last winter from the officials of the Jamestown concern to show up defects in the American Voting machines, during litigation in Schuykill and Northumberland counties.

McClelland, when asked how he met representatives of the Jamestown company said:

WORKED IN PLANT

"Mr. Sklar introduced me to Mr. D. A. Wolf, an official of the company. I believe Mr. Sklar made his contacts through the Allegheny County League of Women Voters."

McClelland testified he had worked in the Baltimore plant of the Poole Engineering and Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of the Amercan Voting machine. He said his only employment for Allegheny County was for about 20 days last month, preparing the machines for use at the election.

McClelland said on Thanksgiving, 1931, he met Sklar who had just received a letter from Mr. Wolf of the Jamestown concern. He said the letter contained a $60 check to cover expense of a trip to Scranton which he and Sklar made the next day. In Scranton, McClelland testified, they met Mr. Wolf who arranged for them to testify at Sunbury, county seat of Northumberland County. Citizens

Borrows Friend's Car, Crash in Third Block

Three 18-year-old girls, one the daughter of a city fireman, admitted in Morals Court today they "borrowed" the automobile belonging to a boy friend. Their ride, they said, lasted just three blocks until the steering gear jammed and they crashed into the home of Frank Zurawka in Forty-fourth street.

Magistrate Thomas D. Jones held the case over until next Thursday, pending investigation of the damage to the house, estimated at about $100.

The car's owner, William Doyle, of Duncan street, explained he was entering a movie in Butler street with Harold Bitzer, of Carnegie street, when the girls asked if they could sit in the car. Bitzer answered "yes."

When they came out of the show, the car, which had been parked at Forty-first and Willow streets, had disappeared, Doyle testified.

After crashing into the house, the three girls walked away. Police who found the wrecked machine questioned Doyle, and arrested the girls in their homes. They are Katherine Early, 18, of Keystone street; Clara Keep, 18, of Carnegie street, daughter of the fireman, and Magdaline Zbasnik, of Butler street. All have been released on $1,000 bond.

BUICK OWNERS SAVE AND PLAY SAFE

Thousands of owners of Buicks discovered last year that the best anti-freeze on the market was also the cheapest in all-winter cost. One filling of Eveready Prestone stayed on the job right through the cold months. It didn't boil away. And it prevented rust and clogging in the cooling-system.

This year, these same Buick owners are cheering because the price of Eveready Prestone is down to $2.95 a gallon! A Buick 33-50, for instance, can be protected to zero for only $2.95. For other models and makes, see your dealer's chart. One filling of Eveready Prestone is good for 25,000 miles and more. It costs less, too, because you don't pay for water in the can.

Like all car manufacturers, Buick approves Eveready Prestone, and National Carbon Company, Inc., specifically guarantees that it is safe.

CLUB PROTESTS TUBE TOLL

The Mt. Lebanon Civic Club joined with other South Hills civic organizations last night in a protest against the proposed levy of a five-cent toll charge on traffic through the Liberty Tubes.

A resolution objecting to the proposed toll on the grounds that it would retard advancement of the South Hills and cause traffic congestion at the tubes was drawn up at last night's meeting and ordered sent county and township commissioners.

Officers elected at the meeting were J. W. Bamford, president; D. W. Baker, vice president; W. L. Stanley, secretary, and J. W. McClelland, treasurer.

Bamford, speaking after his election, attacked County Commissioners for their county fair program. He said that while Controller Robert S. Woodside estimated costs at $150,000, he had information which indicated the cost was nearer $250,000. He said that he believed the Commissioners could be surcharged for the sum involved.

SUES TO GET ON BALLOT

James A. Fulton, of McKeesport, today obtained a writ of alternative mandamus directed against W. T. Rees, of the Bureau of Elections, and the County Commissioners, because of their failure to accept his petition as candidate for mayor of McKeesport on the Non-partisan ticket.

Fulton claims to have preempted the party title October 5, and asserts Rees refused to accept his petition on grounds that the word "non-partisan" could not be considered proper as a party name. In his petition, he says he is a regular elector of the Fifth District, Seventh Ward, of McKeesport, possessing all statutory qualifications.

The writ is returnable next Monday.

BOND EXCHANGE IN HOME LOANS UNDECIDED

Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor has announced there will be no general ruling on restricted national banks accepting the bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, according to word from Washington.

The matter is for decision in individual cases, O'Connor declared.

Chairman William F. Stevenson, of the loan corporation, has stated that arrangements have been made between the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the loan corporation for the transfer of bonds where the exchange is approved by conservators, liquidators of banks, the home owner and the courts.

But every mortgage must be treated individually, Stevenson said. The ruling is generally interpreted here as meaning that the mortgages held by the banks will be exchanged for bonds only where such an exchange is to the bank's advantage.

SENATE QUIZZES BROKERS HERE ON PRACTICES

Members of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today had the advantage of a market holiday to consider answers to the questionnaire sent to 15 exchanges in all parts of the country by the United States Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

The committee has asked the local exchange to submit the questionnaire to its members and to tabulate the answers. The questionnaire follows a similar one sent to the New York Stock Exchange.

After asking routine questions on the nature of business and the volume of transactions of members of the local exchange, the questionnaire gets down to practices which might have constituted abuses of the public confidence. The first of these follows:

"Supply statement showing whether you or your firm or any agent acting for your firm, or any partner thereof, participated in the profit and/or losses resulting from the exercise of any options to purchase securities during the years 1929 to 1933 inclusive."

The questionnaire also asks whether any members of the exchange participated in the profits or in any distribution of securities in any syndicate, pool or joint account. It asks if the members had any accounts for syndicates, pools or joint accounts.

Further questions require information on the purchase of securities for resale by the firm, on underwriting activities, and associations with investment trusts.

The broadening of the inquiry to cover activities of the out-of-town exchanges represented a sharp change in the line of attack by the Senate committee. Previous investigations were directed at the New York Stock Exchange. It has not been decided whether officers of other exchanges will be called to testify. A decision on this point will not be reached until the results of the questionnaire are studied.

PROPOSALS DUE ON SWEATSHOPS

The Gallagher sweatshop investigating commission is to hold its final meeting in Philadelphia tomorrow, and it was expected today that the majority and minority groups each would recommend corrective legislation to the special session of the State Legislature, which may convene next month.

The so-called minority group, including Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor, and Representative Thomas J. Gallagher, of Pittsburgh, is expected to demand passage of a minimum wage law and ratification of the national child labor amendment.

ACCUSED SQUIRE WINS POINTS IN TRIAL

The state's case against Justice of the Peace James J. Westwood, of McKees Rocks, charged with defrauding the county of $4,703 through collection of costs in alleged fictitious cases, closed rapidly today, as Assistant District Attorney T. Clunk called his final witnesses.

In his opening address to the jury, Attorney A. M. Oliver for the defense said he would be able to show that suit actually had been entered in the various cases at issue.

Charge after charge had collapsed as witnesses were called who took the stand and said they had been prosecuted and discharged by the squire. County detectives, who investigated the cases before the trial, testified the witnesses had told them they had not been prosecuted in Westwood's office.

Today Clunk called detectives who testified that about 30 names they had found on Westwood's records could not be located at the addresses given, but court attaches said this was negative evidence.

Clunk produced testimony that Westwood did not keep a written docket of his cases as required by law, but retained only a carbon copy of the informations. Clunk maintained, in argument, that this failure to keep a docket comes under the misdemeanor section of the indictment.

MACHINE CRITIC ACCUSED AT VOTE QUIZ

TRIPS TO SCRANTON

During preparation for the trial, McClelland said, he and Sklar made several trips to Scranton, each time getting expense money from Wolf. On one occasion, McClelland testified, he and Sklar received $25 each from a Mr. Roy Gustafson, Western Pennsylvania representative of the Jamestown company.

McClelland also testified that it was suggested by Wolf and by Attorney Hockenberger, of Scranton, that McClelland and Sklar testify in behalf of a citizens group in Schuykill County where a similar suit was in progress. Attorney Hockenberger was representing the citizens group in Scranton.

McClelland said he never testified in either case. He said it was understood he and Sklar were to receive $75 a day as expert witnesses. The group pushing the fight was to pay $50 a day and Mr. Wolf was to make up the other $25 daily.

REHEARSED ON TESTIMONY

McClelland also testified that Sklar was rehearsed on questions and answers by Wolf in preparation for the trial at Sunbury.

On Monday, Sklar was the principal witness before the Harris investigating committee. He testified he had never received money directly or indirectly from the Jamestown concern and that he only wished to see the Allegheny County machines work. He said the machines would not function properly, if used next month because the county did not have a properly indorsed candidate link.

Chief Mechanic Albert Lauer testified the county had a good indorsed link and pointed out as proof that a machine equipped with the link has been operating all week in the lobby of the City-County Building.

400,000 SPRINGS GONE

Robert Hughes, one of the Election Bureau custodians, testified that more than 400,000 hair springs disappeared from the county building and that he believed they were stolen. He said also he believed that all the plunger trouble which cropped out on primary day, was caused someone tampering with the machines during the time they had been inspected and turned over to the custodians.

Hughes also testified that for more than two years there has been a constant campaign of propaganda to discredit the machines and he said he felt the county was "a pawn between two companies fighting for control of the voting machine industry." He declared there were constant barriers thrown up to impede the work of the elections department.

'EXPERTS' SCORED

He said:

"The thing for everybody would be for the county to disregard all experts, advisers and committees. The Department of Elections has never been able to function properly because of the unreasonable and far fetched demands made upon it by certain groups and individuals.

"For an example, one of the most prominent obstructionists only a few weeks ago condemned the machine because she was not able to vote for nine persons in a veritcal line, which seldom if ever happens."

He was asked who this person was and said:

"It was Mrs. J. O. Miller, of the League of Women Voters."

Attorney Edward O. Tabor, one of the investigating committee, suggested that Mrs. Miller be given an opportunity to speak before the committee, but this was not given the support of the other committee members.

Thirty-one other witnesses, all custodians and deputy custodians on primary day, testified as to calls they received. The committee adjourned the meeting to Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Drivers in Hospital After Cars Collide

Two men suffered probable fractures of the skulls late last night in a rear-end collision of automobiles in Beechwood boulevard near Lilac street. TAX RECEIPTS DISTRIBUTION PROBED

With more hearings scheduled today, the Pittsburgh Registration Commissioners were expected to uncover additional information concerning the so-called organized attempt to pass out tax receipts for the primary election day. The Commissioners have already stated that they know the identity of one distributor of tax receipts, and that they hope to gain additional information during the remainder of the week.

After hearing several witnesses testify that tax receipts were left at their home, investigators for the commission were sent out to check up on the stories. When the investigation has been completed the information will be turned over to the District Attorney, it was said.

Since the first registration day more than 5,000 subpenas have been issued, but a large number of those called for questioning failed to appear. A further check is being made on the absentees. The last day for the commission is October 26, as the commission must allow 10 days for appeals from its ruling to strike names from the lists.

Morgan Bird, of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's office, was at the Registration Commission office for several hours yesterday to check on how the hearings were coming along and what results were being obtained.

Due to the absence of Harvey O'Connor from the city, the League for Social Justice's current legislation course, which he was to have conducted tonight, will be conducted by Dr. Carrol R. Daugherty, professor of economics at the University of Pittsburgh. His subject will deal with the meaning of the NRA, its origin and status.

SAFETY APPEAL CITES COSTS

Each year in Pennsylvania approximately 2,000 people are killed by automobiles, representing a loss, along with non-fatal accidents, of about $100,000,000, the highway committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club reported today, continuing further:

"The economic value of a life is placed at $80,000 or more, and for each traffic death we have 53 non-fatal injuries and for each injury there are at least four accidents which involve property damage only."

Among the costs were cited insurance premiums, hospital, doctor and repair bills, paid by the individual and frequently by the victim's community.

The highway committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club urges every motorist to be more careful during "Better Times Safety Campaign" which is now in operation.

CITY CONTRACT HOLDERS SEEK MORE MONEY

Mayor John S. Herron and City Council will meet soon to discuss city contracts as affected by NRA provisions.

Mayor Herron yesterday submitted to Council letters from three concerns holding city contracts, all citing higher costs of labor and supplies and seeking adjustments in contract figures set before NRA regulations became effective.

The communications were from the M. Lanz Brick and Tile Company, Valley Camp Coal Company and Snyder & Swanson, Inc. The last named asked cancellation of its coal contract because of increased costs.

The Valley Camp company also cited enlarged expenses under the coal code.

The Lanz company said the cost of brick furnished the city was $2.25 higher per thousand than the contract price. A bill of $884.48 covering the increase was submitted.

—lagging appetite

There is a reasonable way to correct this condition. Pause and reason. You know that body weakness is frequently the result of a weak blood "picture"—lowering of the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin—that are so very necessary to strength and vitality.

Then why not try S.S.S.—the proven tonic for decades? Its value has been proved by extensive scientific research and by millions of happy users.

Take S.S.S. and note the way your strength and appetite are restored. Two convenient sizes at all drug stores—the larger size is more economical. Once you use powder you will never go back to a less scientific way of tooth cleansing. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

One of the pleasantest duties of a deb is to dance at the Cinderella ball. Each year the season's debs appear in attractive dances at the annual benefit.

Fond parents and relatives, most of whom are not interested in dancing themselves, reserve space for the event, and come to see the newest members of the grown-up social world.

All the debs—that is, all those except the few who are studying out-of-town this winter, and who will go all their debbing in the next few days—will gather late tomorrow afternoon for their first step before the ball.

There'll be a tea for all the debs, arranged by Mrs. James McKay, at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. J. Albert McKay, Amberson avenue.

At the tea—the hour is 4:30—debs will meet some of the Cinderella ball committee. And then will come rehearsals for the debs' act.

Debs Meet at Tea

The date of the Cinderella ball has been changed, as you probably know, from December 1 to Thanksgiving Eve. It's given each year by the dispensary board of St. Margaret's Hospital as a benefit for the hospital, of course. The board is made up of a large group of young fashionables.

The debs will dash from the luncheon Mrs. Roderick M. Chesney and Mrs. George B. Motheral will give tomorrow afternoon in the Twentieth Century Club for their debutante daughter and granddaughter, Annette Chester, at tea.

Notes for a debutante's engagement book:

Mrs. Edwin N. Ohl will give a luncheon November 3 in the Pittsburgh Golf Club for debutante Eleanor McKennan.

Mrs. C. S. B. Ward will present her daughter, Katherine, at a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club.

Mrs. Clifton A. Verner will entertain at still another luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club for her debutante granddaughter, Barbara Verner.

News of Buds

Alice Ladley's name, that of Elinor Cowdrey and Katherine MacConnell are the most recent additions to the debutante list.

A bit more debutante news—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bigelow Schultzes, of Great Neck, L. I., are presenting their daughter, Hildegarde Schultz, to society at a tea this afternoon in their home. The debutante is a granddaughter of the late Albert L. Schultz and of the late Henry Holdship King.

Mother's Wedding Gown To Be Worn by Bride

A bride of tonight is to wear a very distinctive wedding gown—her mother's—worn at her marriage 29 years ago. And the bride is Miss Elizabeth Esther Jackson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Jackson, of Denniston avenue. At 6:30 o'clock tonight she will wed Dr. Eugene B. Schuster, of Milwaukee, son of Mrs. Charles Schuster, in the Jackson home. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson is to officiate.

The bride will be unattended and will be given in marriage by her father. The wedding gown is of white point Liere lace combined with satin, made with a long court train, and the tulle veil is finished with a cap of tulle caught on either side with clusters of orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet will be of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Jackson is to wear a gown of turquoise blue lame satin with a brown velvet sash, and a shoulder corsage of orchids. The mother of the bridegroom will not attend, as she is in Vienna.

Robert Krauskopf, of Milwaukee, is serving as best man and the bride's brother, Alexander H. Jackson, is to play the wedding march.

After the dinner, to be held after the ceremony, Dr. Schuster and his bride will leave for the East, to be at home later in Philadelphia.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and Dr. Schuster was graduated from the University of Wisconsin and the Rush Medical School, Chicago.

Philadelphia Girl Weds Former Pittsburgh Man

Mrs. Eunice White, of Philadelphia, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary White, to Harry E. Doutt, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Doutt, of Pitman, N. J., formerly of Crafton Heights. The ceremony took place on Saturday in St. Luke's Methodist Episcopal Church, Philadelphia.

Miss Florence Noel Weds Joseph Greeves

A bride of Saturday was Miss Florence Noel, daughter of Mrs. Bertha Noel, of Latrobe, when she married Joseph Greeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greeves, of Latrobe. The ceremony took place in the Holy Family Roman Catholic Church at 8 o'clock that morning at a nuptial high mass.

The bride wore white satin with a tulle veil and carried tea roses. Her sister, Miss Margaret Noel, as maid of honor, wore blue crepe with a matching hat and carried tea roses. Joseph Sheriff was best man.

The wedding breakfast was served in the home of the bride's mother for 30 guests. A reception was held the following day in her home.

After an eastern wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Greeves will be at home in Latrobe.

Miss McGinley Makes Bow In Boston

One of the smartest events of the season in the East was the dinner-dance Mrs. Holden McGinley, of Milton and Boston, Mass., gave last night at her Boston home to present her daughter, Gertrude Holden McGinley. Thomas Atterbury McGinley, of Sewickley Heights, is the debutante's father.

More than 400 attended the event with guests dancing in a pavilion constructed especially for the debut. A midnight supper was served in the home.

The debutante, who received, of course with her mother, wore a gown of white velvet, trimmed with narrow bands of tulle. Her brother, John Rainey McGinley, was head usher. Among those assisting him was Theodore Roosevelt III.

The ceremony took place in the Young home with the Rev. Henry A. Welday, pastor of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, officiating.

After an eastern trip Mr. Strayer and his bride will be at home in Bellefontaine, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crist, of Thornburg, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mildred Rebecca Crist, and James Phillip Hunter, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Filman Hunter, of Birmingham, Ala.

TRAINS GLORIFY GLAMOROUS GOWNS

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE girl who may be nine times a bridesmaid this season is more to be envied than pitied. There have seldom been so many lovely gowns with back treatments that really are arresting—and the less naked backs would certainly dress up a church aisle, giving the bride and her robes a run for the spotlight.

Two gowns by Mme. Lyolent are sketched on this page, and the lace model, with its modest little shoulder ruffle cape, is an ideal bridesmaid's gown, whether the designer intended it as such or merely provided a happy accident. It is one of the youngest trained gowns that has come over the customs in a long time, incidentally.

THERE is many a style sermon that could be preached over the black satin gown, also sketched. Distinctly grande dame, it is just the sort of garment young huzzies pick out—for abuse.

Ladies, you must have a figure that deserves the name to wear a gown with such a daring harmless back. If you have one, and your skin is flawless and pretty, do it, and be devastating. It is a heavenly model to carry off with accessories as wide, brilliant bracelets, and long, exotic earrings; it is just the gown to balance satin slippers extravagantly trimmed with gold or silver kidskin.

Wearing a nice, luxurious train on one's gown requires a little practice after the years in which we have all worn trousers as often as we cared to, and skirts that were cut for freedom. A sound notion, and one so simple that it has not occurred to lots of bright people, is to don your new trained gown, and swing around the house with it privately some day, learning how to kick it out gracefully.

Through the Spyglass Viewing the New

Wherein Autumn drops a number of interesting new items into our lap . . . thanks to the Spyglass's far-seeing eye! For information on where to find them call Grant 6500 and ask for the Spyglass. Or send a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Even though you may no longer be a gay young thing . . . you still can preserve some of the effect by being sensible about the toilet preparations you use. And while this is no sermon on the mount, we do want to impress you with a find of ours—a complete set of toiletries packed in a box of $1.

This includes a mask for large pores . . . night cream . . . tissue cream . . . face powder . . . hand lotion . . . cleansing cream and astringent! Quite an assemblage for $1, and if you're wise you'll get it to begin "gilding the lily" at once!

Bridge-hounds note! We suppose you've all seen and heard about the automatic bridge-dealer . . . a jigger which deals the hands out like your own private robot or something. But in case you haven't . . . ask us. However . . . this isn't what we wanted to say, it's this:

A bridge prize of certain welcome on the part of any high-scorer will be the new flapjack compacts which have little tails of silk cord from which they hang like watch fobs. Some have a little silk sponge which is for keeping perfume get-atable whilst roaming over town and country. These come in colored enamels . . . price $3.

And now for a word or two on a subject all women never grow tired of! If we were to say something about smart dresses for $7.95 . . . would you stop talking and listen? Then harken to this:

We know a place where rack upon rack of wool frocks grow for $7.95! Angoras . . . wool crepes . . . zephyrs . . . rabbits' hair fabrics and others—all of them in new shades, with plenty of stripes and plaids. And they have shoulder interest . . . or Ascot ties . . . or these tie-around sashes reminiscent of the "kummerbund." Sizes 12 to 42 . . . one two and three-piece styles.

We're bursting into society! For tomorrow will see a showing of Debutante shoes ON debutantes! The self-same shoes which are the darlings of one of our better shoe stores . . . and regularly sell for $6.50, will be $4.95 for this special event. And every conceivable mode is included . . . 33 styles to be exact . . . in daytime and evening types . . . all leathers and fabrics.

Ten debutantes will model them at 11 and again at 3:30 . . . giving you a chance to see two debs in one—the flesh-and-blood and her shoes!

Switch over to something cool and refreshing now . . . orange juice! We never expected to find ourselves loudly championing canned orange juice . . . but it's come (like a lot of other things).

This is just appearing on the market here now . . . to be found at but 3 stores as yet, but more later. And, you will please make mental notes when we tell you that it is so pure that hospitals and schools have been choosing it in preference to "fresh" juice.

Being as how it is packed in California, the oranges have been tree-ripened and give it a full-flavor which we found distinctly tangy and good. And better still . . . a can has the juice of 7 oranges . . . no waste at all . . . which is far from the case when you buy them fresh. 10c the can, howzat?

When nights become colder and a little blustery, you'll want to sit-by-the-fire-and-spin . . . or if not exactly "spin," do something of the kind. So we looked up a brand new shipment of needlepoint for you . . . all patterns, colors and sizes. Among them are motifs waiting only for you to fill in the background before they will become the cutest of doorstops (they cover a brick!) And they're 59c. And others, ideal for Christmas gift pillows, are larger size, for $1.25. Many with the popular Scotties on them.

Florentine leather desk sets . . . portfolios . . . boxes . . . and picture frames have done several high dives since we last cast a longing eye in their direction. Nowadays they're $1 each. Quite a comedown!

* * *

It's a smart kitchen which hides its staple flour, salt, sugar, and so on inside gay painted cans of green or ivory with designs on them. One store is featuring four cans like this for 69c . . . a large one, a middle size one . . . a smallish one . . . and a little one! A whole family of cans to beam at you from your shelves!

NANCY BYRD TURNER, THE POET . . . . SPEAKER AT THE FEDERATION FINE ARTS LUNCHEON

Joins Group On Visit To Club

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Nancy Byrd Turner was carried off from her own program at the State Federation convention yesterday to see the play and pictures at the Twentieth Century Club. The Virginia poet was speaker at the fine arts luncheon, which grew and grew until the Chatterbox was filled to capacity and the program was delayed.

That's one thing convention programs seem to have a habit of getting done to them. Then they seem to expand until one event runs into another. Which means that somebody is disappointed.

There were many who would have liked more of Miss Turner and her delightful humor and her charming poems. Certainly each one of the 500 women (and George Seibel, who introduced Miss Turner, very thoroughly enjoyed the story of her poetic beginnings. Writing a poem at the age of 8 and being offered a dime by a fond father for each poem thereafter doesn't happen to every poet. Miss Turner said the dimes stopped (but the poems didn't) after a particularly atrocious one on "Ruth in the Dentist's Chair"—life, death and eternity having served as subjects in the mean time.

Enjoy Story

Some of the whimsical little things she did at the MacDowell Colony were read, and one or two richly understanding Negro bits. But, regrettably, there was time for only one from "Trundle Bed Trash."

Mrs. J. Bertram Hervey announced that the State Federation had won the sweepstake prize in the art question contest conducted by Mrs. Howard Green, former chairman of fine arts—a $1,000 painting by Guy Wiggins, which will find a permanent home in the Philomusian Club of Philadelphia.

Wins Prize

The Girl Scout ceremony made an impressive opening for yesterday morning's session. There was much business and then the juniors had their place on the convention program, using the convention theme "More Light." Miss Margaret O'Malia, Miss Ann Thompson, Mrs. Paul Hess and Miss Rose Marie Demestichas were the speakers.

Last night the friendship dinner was entirely without program and in the evening Florence Fisher Parry and Maxwell S. Stewart spoke.

"Mary Ann knows that CHIPSO IS GENTLE," her mother says. "All her life Chipso has kept her little shirts comfortable and her dresses dainty as new."
"This little blue suit HAS NOT FADED in 4 months of twice-a-week washing in Chipso," says Mrs. England.
"This red print is A YEAR OLD," Mrs. England says. "I put it into Chipso suds along with the other colored clothes. The color does not run."
"Can Sara-Lane get dirty!" exclaimed Mrs. England. "Her dresses are washed twice a week in Chipso. This one has had 6 MONTHS OF HARD WEAR."

JOHN EDWARD, JR. MRS. J. E. ENGLAND MARY ANN SARA-LANE

says mother who washes for three tiny tots

Busy as she is with three little babies, Mrs. J. E. England manages to do all her own housekeeping and all her washing as well.

"Even the sheets!" she declares. "I put them to soak in CHIPSO and, honestly, I don't have to rub them. They come out white as snow!

"I've used Chipso," she explained, "ever since I started housekeeping, but I didn't know just how much I appreciated it until I had three children and so much more work. Chipso suds loosen even ground-in dirt. I don't have to rub the children's play clothes until they are thin and frayed. Yet, although Chipso takes up the dirt so quickly, it isn't the least bit harsh on my hands or hard on the colors. Nothing ever fades or runs. I wash even my silk stockings and underwear, and the baby's woolens, in Chipso. I find it is as safe as a more expensive soap."

Chipso's safety, together with its ability to soak out dirt without hard rubbing, is due to its rich SOAPINESS.

Chipso is not adulterated with the harsh substances contained in inferior soaps which gradually weaken fabrics and dull their color. Chipso loosens dirt harmlessly by RICHER SUDS. Its ease on your hands shows you there is nothing harsh in it . . . it shows you why Chipso-washed clothes wear longer.

Don't endanger the clothes you have spent good money for by washing them in cheap flakes or strong granulated soaps and powders. Get Chipso from your grocer. At its low price, Chipso is the biggest value in rich, safe soap on the market today!

Chipso makes clothes wear longer

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Salvage

I can't recall your phrases of endearment,
Perhaps they were too few to flood the mind,
Yet, now, I realize just what that year meant
When love was new and fate was overkind:
Laughter at dawn—a reason for awaking
With glowing eyes to face the lengthy days,
A sense of thirst—and knowledge that its slaking
Came from the soft enchantment of your ways.

Now that it's over—I cannot remember
One of the vows that you so gladly made,
Nor can I find in memory one ember
Saved from the blaze that had no right to fade:
(Strange that in dreams I still can see your street—
A clock at eight—a girl I'd come to meet!)

—Don Wahn.

Character

Johnny Stanley, one of the veterans of Broadway, is among those who has been befriended for many years by George M. Cohan. Like many others, when he needed a stake Cohan responded. The other day, after Cohan clicked in O'Neill's new play, he ankled along Broadway in a pepped-up mood.

Encountering Stanley, he said:

"Well, hello. Gee, but it's good to see you again—how are you?"

Poor Feller

Goodman Ace tells about a ham comedian who got a tough break last week. It seems he was booked at a theater where "the acoustics were so good—you could hear him!"

Form of Criticism

"Get her, will you?" said one of the chorines. "With six orchids!"

"Of course!" meow'd another. "She needs more than two orchids to cover the gravy stains!"

Observation

Nifty

Jerry Lester, the master of ceremonies at the Hollywood rendezvous is best when he is being bothered by spectators. He can handle any heckler. After his routines were interrupted the other night, he delivered this crack when he announced the end of the revue:

"And now," he said, "you laughed while we danced—so now you dance—while we laugh."

In Fewer Words

Evelyne Love Cooper offers this verse to end all "girls who" verses:

Girls who etcetra

Overheard

Jack Tell reports this eavesdropped repartee between an usher at the Bijou Theater and an usher at the Music Box, where the town's ace hit, "As Thousands Cheer," is packing them in.

After the critics turned in their rave notices on that success, the Music Box usher mentioned that he probably would work steady for a year or so.

"Yeah," said the Bijou lad, "but anyway—I'll see more shows than you!"

Irony

Verna Burke left her home town, St. Louis, about three years ago to brave the New York struggle for recognition, but nothing happened. Recently, discouraged but not whipped, Miss Burke went back to St. Louis, where she warbled in her delightful way at three benefit performances.

And here is what followed: The Fox Theater there booked her for a week and held her over for three, creating no little sensation. Now the same people she tried to see for three years in New York are coaxing her via telegrams to come here and they warn her she is wasting time in such cities as St. Louis.

This is one time the process was reversed—a gal had to go home to make good in the big city.

The Reason

Lord Donegall Marquess, who governs a society pillar for one of the British papers, has this to say:

". . . she is now in the process of becoming a female Walter Winchell in New York. Winchell, as you know, is a columnist same as me. Only Winchell is rude, so he prospers."

How Flops Are Made

Another new play died before it was two weeks old last week because the producer, never in the profession before, tampered with it—re-writing it and what-not. It brings to mind Kelcey Allen's story about that type of showman.

Last year a sap produced a turkey and on the opening night revealed that he didn't even speak the theater's language. Long after 9 o'clock his stage manager said:

"Hadn't we better ring up?"

"Ring up?" was the reply, "ring up who? I've phoned everybody I know!"

Nonsense

Some of the Broadway lads were gathered in one of the restaurants and one of them ordered herring. When the waiter brought it, Jeff Sayre, who ordered it, let up a howl.

"Look at that thing!" he groaned, "get the manager!"

"There's nothing wrong with it, sir," said the startled waiter.

Gosh, Yes!

George Givot was with a group in Hollywood who were discussing what they liked best about Mae West.

"What I like best about Mae," said George, "is her gorgeous blonde hair."

"I go for her beautiful eyes," said a second. "I like her unusual voice," piped a third.

"Oh," said a fourth, "what the hell are we sitting around lying to each other for?"

THEATERDOM -:- Rambling All the Way From Verona to Hollywood -:- AMUSEMENTS

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Katharine Cornell, who is to appear in a repertoire of three plays this season, one of which is "Romeo and Juliet," has motored to Verona in a flivver to inspect Juliet's tomb. Since Woodman Thompson, the Pittsburgh boy who is designing the sets for the revival, saw the tomb himself several years ago, and has already constructed his model, all that Miss Cornell—Mrs. Guthrie McClintic in private life—could do was to put her visiting card into the sarcophagus. That sarcophagus, by the way, looks more like a bathtub retired from business than a funeral property.

Mr. Seibel

Juliet's tomb, the most famous spot in the Italian city made famous by Shakespeare, is one of the hardest places to find. It is hidden away in a corner of a vegetable market, and around it hundreds of carts and horses form a cordon of defense. You are passed from one polite Italian policeman to another, until the sentinel at the wall summons the janitor's daughter with a bunch of keys. Then you are conducted through a long passage to the inclosure where the so-called tomb is filled with visiting cards.

I saw cards from Warsaw and Buenos Aires, Stockholm and Louisville. The greatest number of cards is from Germany and America. By a strange coincidence, a Pittsburgher traveling in Italy at the same time found my card the following day, and wrote me about it after his return to the states. Such coincidences do happen. I was in the Carlyle House in Chelsea, London, just half an hour after Bishop McConnell had been there.

When Katharine Cornell plays Juliet, it might not be a bad idea to send special invitations to all the people who have left their cards in that bathtub at Verona.

DRAMA IS A FAILURE

People who think the theater has no influence upon public opinion, must find comfort in the news that the South is going wet although the drama has been enlisted against repeal.

In various southern states the forces of prohibition have been sending a play on tour to create sentiment against the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. In theaters, churches, city halls and "opry houses," this dramatic masterpiece has been presented. It shows the trial of a man who murdered another man while drunk.

Of course there are harrowing details with the Demon Rum as chief villain of the melodrama.

The idea is hardly new. Aside from "Ten Nights in a Barroom," there was a powerful drama called "Drink," made from one of Zola's novels, in which an English actor attained great renown and made a fortune for himself—which he afterwards sunk in efforts to produce a play on "Christopher Columbus."

While the temperance plays of two generations ago had considerable influence in the rural regions, in recent years they have been revived chiefly to provide laughter. Perhaps when the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed, and the stock of whisky in the country is cut 10 times as proposed, it may be possible to start a new alcoholic debauch in the drama.

NEWS FROM EUROPE

London is under a "hypnotic spell," if the reports about the debut of Werner Krauss are to be given full value. Krauss has just appeared there in the last play written by Gerhart Hauptmann, entitled "Before Sunset." Hauptmann's first play, nearly half a century ago, was "Before Sunrise."

Krauss, supposed to be the foremost German actor, along with Moissi, is an exile from Nazi edicts. He has solved his problem by learning English and becoming an English actor. With his equipment and wide fame, he is likely to occupy a prominent place in years to come.

Meanwhile Hauptmann has supplemented his last play by writing another one—which must be the one after the last. On Sunday the premiere of "The Golden Harp" will take place in Munich with Hauptmann himself at the opening. This indicates that the Nazi rulers are relenting in their attitude toward Socialists and pacifists. Hauptmann being both. Perhaps he is too big a personage internationally to be persecuted. He is like Tolstoy, who was a thorn in the side of the Tsar, but had to be tolerated in Russia for the sake of the world's opinion.

Joel McCrea, Frances Dee Seal Troth With Big Diamond Ring

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12.

Unless Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller hurry, filmdom's next honeymooners may be Frances Dee and Joel McCrea.

Just before Frances boarded a train for a three week's location trip in West Virginia, Joel slipped a big emerald-cut diamond ring upon her engagement finger and won her consent to marry him soon after she returns to Hollywood.

No definite date has been set, because Joel may have to go on location in Katharine Hepburn's picture. Close friends of the couple don't believe that they will fly to Yuma for the ceremony, but confide that neither Frances nor Joel want a pretentious wedding. Undoubtedly, the honeymooners will live at least part of the time in Joel's new ranch house, which will be completed in about a month and a half.

The other day at Paramount a writer suggested that "She Done Him Wrong" might have been one of those accidental hits.

"Well, if it was," snapped Timothy, "we had 11 accidents in New York."

There'll be no bids turned down for the party which Norma Shearer and Irving Thalberg are planning. The popular film couple are going to charter a yacht and take 50 guests to San Francisco to see the annual football classic between the University of Southern California and the University of California at Berkeley. You can be sure that most of the famous names of Hollywood will be on this passenger list.

Who said Hollywood was effete? Wynne Gibson has just returned from her three weeks' vacation which consisted of traveling 125 miles down the Rogue River in a rowboat. With six other people, all non-professionals, the star fished, hunted and made forest camps at night from Grant's Pass to Gold Beach, Ore. A modern Diana, Wynne not only bagged a good-sized duck, but she became the first feminine star in Hollywood to shoot a bear.

Guests at Bing Crosby's house exclaimed with delight over the suite of rooms that Dixie Lee and Bing have fixed up for the new son. There's a bedroom, a large dressing room, a separate bath, a diet kitchen with electric icebox, and a nursery, carpeted with a thick, white rug.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Poor Little Rich Girl

THIS IS the story of Betty Carter. It's not a particularly good story. Neither is it a bad one. It's not a simple yarn. Nor is it complex. It's merely the story of Betty Carter.

She was a blonde girl. Tall and willowy with smooth pale cheeks and a faint tinge of violet in her eyes. A nice looking girl.

Betty was born with a gold spoon in her mouth. And, if wealth meant anything, it might have been a ladle. Her mother and father had millions, social position, and homes at Newport, Long Island, the East Fifties, and the Canadian Rockies. Betty was born in the east wing of the Newport one, with three nurses and a specialist in attendance.

From that point onward, Betty's life was a succession of nurses, tutors, chaperones, trips to Europe, trips to Long Island, graduation, pictures in the Times rotogravure section, and a brilliant debut at which all of the guests were bored stiff.

Then Betty exploded.

"I'm sick of it," she said to her mother that evening. "It's nauseating. I'm disgusted with men of our own set, and with the titled tramps of Europe, too. If you want me to support a man, select one. I'll support him. But I'll be damned if I'll marry him!"

After the servants had placed the smelling salts under the old gal's nose, Betty quieted down a bit. But if her mother and father thought that they could change her mind, they had a lot to learn about Betty.

So what happened? So this happened: Betty made a very quiet announcement to the family at large that she would live by herself for six months, find a poor but honest man—one who would appreciate a helping hand—and marry him!

So, with no more dramatics than there is in scratching a nose, Betty left home. She wore a plain tweed suit, a small felt hat, and drove a battered Ford that had been used by the servants for two years.

Her father patted her mother's shoulder.

"Don't worry," he said. "No harm will come to her. She'll be back within a week."

All of which goes to prove that fathers were never noted for smartness. Days went by, weeks, and then months. Still no sign of Betty.

The girl had rented a small cabin in a seacoast town near Boston. It wasn't much of a town, being composed of sand dunes and a few fishing huts. A few artists, who had done more drinking than painting, had left after Labor Day. The native population was clannish, so Betty was a very lonely girl.

She tried to write, but she couldn't. She found that it entailed work, the most laborious kind of work. Besides, the only thing which the keys seemed capable of writing was: "I'm sick of society. I want to find a man who won't know I'm wealthy. I want somebody real!"

The keys seemed to write that, over and over, a monotonous chant, like a prayer. So she gave up using the typewriter, and took to riding over the fall countryside in the Ford.

That's how she found him...

His name was Bill. He wasn't good looking, but he was sincere. He was manager of the little filling station near the sand dunes. After that first day, when he had touched his cap and thankfully refused the tip she had offered, Betty found herself mildly interested.

So she went back to the station again. And again. The old Ford began to gulp gasoline in large quantities. And Bill began to gulp doubly whenever he saw the Ford approaching.

Maybe the loneliness had something to do with it. At any rate, they fell in love, this plain, simple-spoken filling station attendant, and the pride of the socially-elect Carters. And it was in the chill of the October night air, with only a solemn-looking orange moon as witness, that he proposed.

"I don't know you so awfully long," said Bill. "But honest, Betty, I'm mad about you. I want to marry you, and I promise—I vow—I'll do everything within my power to make you happy. Please, Betty. Please."

For the first time in her life, Betty Carter was lost for words. She tried to speak, but she couldn't. So she held his face between her hands, and kissed him...

On the following morning, they drove to Connecticut and were married. Afterward they sat in the parked Ford and stared at each other delightedly.

"This," said Bill softly "is the happiest moment of my life."

Betty smiled.

"That's a bit prosaic," she said, "but it just about covers the situation. In all my life, I never before felt as completely worth while."

She kept smiling, half to herself.

"And by the way," she said, "we hardly know each other. I've got a surprise for you, Bill. I think you'll enjoy it. At least I hope you will. It concerns my family."

Bill pressed his hand over her lips.

"Who wants to hear about families?" he said quietly. "Let's talk about ourselves. I'm a filling station manager. What are you?"

Betty thought for a moment. Perhaps it wouldn't be wise to tell him just yet. Perhaps—

"I'm a writer," she said laughingly. "A fine, lousy writer."

Bill became serious.

"Listen, Betty," he said. "There's something I want to get off my chest. It should make you very happy. I'm not a filling station manager at all. My father owns seven hundred stations. But all my life, I've hated wealthy girls. Now I'm happy. I've got a poor one—you!"...

Screen Shows Kidnapers

THE GLOBE TROTTER

One of the most dramatic scenes ever filmed shows the sentencing of the convicted Urschel kidnapers and the arraignment of the surly, threatening "Machine Gun" Kelly at Oklahoma City. Harvey Bailey, Albert Bates and R. G. Shannon and his wife, together with their son, Armon, who was later given a suspended sentence, enter the courtroom heavily guarded. Immediately following are "Machine Gun" Kelly and his wife Kathryn, about to go on trial, that they might hear the fate meted out to their fellow conspirators.

SEEK 10-MILLION IN PA. ROAD AID

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 12.—Pennsylvania has recommended to the federal government highway projects that would require $10,345,072 of the $18,891,004 allocated to this state, Gov. Gifford Pinchot disclosed today in a letter to Harold L. Ickes, administrator of federal public works.

Only 48 of the 68 projects submitted to federal authorities have been approved, the Governor said. Bids have been requested on 43 jobs. He wrote:

"That does not look as though Pennsylvania were lagging in the race to get work under way and men back to work.

"I am as anxious as you can be to get this relief money into the pockets of the unemployed through work relief, but I am also just as anxious as you can be that this money shall go where it is most needed."

48 Teaspoons Eaten by Woman Recovered

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—An operation on a woman patient at the Central Islip State Hospital gave evidence she had been going in for a strange diet. Dr. E. R. Hildreth reported he took the following from the woman's stomach. Forty-eight teaspoons, two bolts, a needle, a pencil, a large screw and a sizable piece of glass.

The teaspoons came from the hospital dining room, while the other articles apparently were picked up around the grounds. The physician said the woman had suffered no ill effects from her strange diet.

OPENING BANKS HELD AID TO 'BUY NOW'

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The most practical aid to the "Buy Now" campaign is the proposal by Henry Bruere, federal co-ordinator of credit, to make immediately available to depositors up to one-half of their frozen deposits in closed banks.

Mr. Rukeyser

This sensible adjunct to the 'buy now" campaign, will suggest an answer to the cynical query to the "buy now" boosters, "with what?" This is not an academic issue in connection with monetary theory, but has a very practical bearing on retail distribution. An executive of Sears Roebuck & Co., with its far flung nation-wide organization, recently told me that in the cities where large percentages of bank deposits are tied up retail sales invariably show an adverse trend.

Fortunately the administration is thinking in realistic terms, instead of permitting itself to be drawn into the high school debate over inflation and deflation.

BANK CATASTROPHE

No practical financier would seek to defend a condition in which billions of circulating media in the form of bank deposits are made unavailable to business because of mismanagement by bankers. In some communities, the closing of banks was almost a social catastrophe. From a practical standpoint, the types of activity are necessary and desirable. First, banking reform to prevent a recurrence of the evils which led to the closing. And, secondly, the immediate problem of providing circulating medium on the soundest basis feasible for such affected communities.

The tentative plan suggested by Mr. Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings Bank in New York, who is now on leave in Washington, entails making available quickly one half of 2½ billions of frozen deposits. Obviously the continuance of such deposits in a frozen condition is an immense deflationary influence, which exerts its adverse effect unevenly throughout the country. The plan entails advances against such slow assets through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It seems to me that the proposal is suggestive beyond its immediate implications.

SOUND CURRENCY

In his inaugural address, President Roosevelt sought wisely to shift the ground for the debate by insisting on a "sound, but adequate, currency."

The truth is that we have not had a sound "money" system.

And the evils have by no means been only on the side of contraction and liquidation. The shrinkage was in fact the result of unsound expansion in the earlier period.

Since 90 per cent of our business is transacted on bank credit, rather than on gold or currency, the soundness of our monetary system is largely a matter of banking policy and procedure.

Briefly, the advent of the Federal Reserve System enormously increased the technical expansibility of credit on a given gold basis.

CREDIT EXPANDED

Accordingly, credit was expanded from year to year, not in accordance with the legitimate needs of commerce and industry, but in response to the individual banker's selfish pursuit of profits for his stockholders.

Thus, with the normal increase in business of 4 per cent or less per annum, there were in the earlier inflationary years disproportionately large increases in bank credit.

With the supply of loanable funds increasing out of all proportion to the legitimate demand, the surplus was drained into various unsound channels—including vast foreign credits, which are now frozen, into capital loans which obviously lacked the necessary liquidity, and into loans for speculation in real estate and securities.

CREDIT FLUCTUATED

Then in the resultant deflation the circulating medium — bank credit—fluctuated not in accord with the requirements of business, but rather in response to the troubles and fears of numerous individual banks.

If out of the depression we develop a conception of sound, liquid commercial banking, the social gains will be large. But it is important not to describe the blunders and the hazardous exploits of the recent past as conditions of "sound money."

Sterling Products Profit at '29 Rate

Analysis Prepared by THE FITCH INVESTORS SERVICE

The business of this company and its subsidiaries is chiefly the production and sale of medicines and pharmaceutical preparations. These include Bayer's Tablets of Aspirin, Cascarets, California Syrup of Figs, Danderine, Pape's Diapepsin, Pape's Cold Compound, Diamond Dyes, Dandelion Butter Color, Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, Phillips' Dental Magnesia, Chas. H. Fletcher's Castoria, Dr. W. B. Caldwell's Syrup of Pepsin, Dodson's Severtone, Dr. James' Family Remedies and Neuralgine. By reason of national advertising, these products have become well-known household remedies and have a world-wide distribution. The company also manufactures medicinal preparations and has many valuable foreign connections. Three-in-One Oil Company manufacturer of Three-in-One Oil, a well-known lubricant, sold in handy cans for domestic and miscellaneous uses, is 100 per cent owned by Sterling Products.

The principal office and plant is located at Wheeling, W. Va., in a modern five-story fireproof building. Plant of the Bayer Company, a subsidiary, is in Renesselaer, N. Y., and covers 27 acres. The Bayer Company also maintains offices in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, for marketing its products. Sterling has a Canadian property at Windsor, Ontario, where the various products for the Canadian market are prepared and sold. The 11-acre plant of Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Company is in Stamford, Conn. Plant of the Pepsin Syrup Company is at Monticello, Ill., and the plant of Three-in-One Oil Company is in Rahway, N. J.

Capital structure is simple, comprising only 1,750,700 shares of $10 par. Under a plan of reorganization, approved by stockholders August 7, 1933, the holder of each 10 shares of Drug, Inc., received five shares of Sterling Products, Inc.

The company reported net sales of $11,274,712 for the five months ended May 31, 1933, net operating income of $4,616,475, and net income after taxes of $3,982,098, equal to $2.27 a share. Consolidated income statement for the year ended December 31, 1932, showed net income of $9,348,314, equal to 5.33 a share, compared with $11,547,674, or $6.59 a share in 1931, $10,943,924, or $6.25 a share in 1930, $9,694,614, or $5.53 a share in 1929, and $7,330,663, or $4.18 a share in 1928. Satisfactory earnings record may be attributed largely to the better margin of profit obtainable on proprietary medicines and other patented products, than on the general line of drugs handled by the wholesale trade.

Balance sheet dated May 31, 1933, revealed a strong financial condition. Current assets, including $13,298,287 cash, $8,315,507 marketable securities, $3,228,123 net receivables and and $3,027,384 inventories, totaled $27,935,443, and covered $1,918,914 current liabilities 14.56 times. Equity a share was $19.21. Sterling recently sold 225,000 shares of Boots Pure Drug Company, Ltd., out of 275,000 held, receiving $5,559,596, or about $24 a share.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Weakness in rentes depressed domestic issues on the Bourse. International issues, however, especially gold and central mining shares, were firm. The closing was irregular.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Prices on the Boerse were steady and improving. Electricity shares averaged 5 centum higher. The bond section was quiet and stock quotations were maintained at the close.

Urges Move to Prevent 'Runs' on Insurance

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—A demand that life insurance companies modify their future contracts to prevent a "run" on their resources such as he said occurred during the past year, was made today by Joseph B. Reynolds, president of the Kansas City Life Insurance Company.

In an address prepared for delivery before the American Life convention he recommended that the loan value of a policy be obtainable only upon the premium date and that the surrender value be made only after a stipulated advance notice had been given. Reynolds said:

"What happened in the past was a demand for life insurance companies to carry the entire financial burden arising from a nation-wide economic pressure."

If suicides continue at their present rate, E. E. Cammack, vice president of the Aetna Life Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn., said insurance firms would be forced to readjust their premium scales.

An increase of 11 per cent in the mortality rate governing an ordinary life policy requires an increase of five and one-half per cent in the premium, he said. He attributed an increase in the mortality record as partly due to suicides in recent years.

U. S. Brandt, president of the Ohio State Life Insurance Company, of Columbus, O., reviewed pro and con arguments on federal control of insurance. He said:

"After we have weighed all the evidence our verdict should hinge upon the answer to the question: 'Rather bear those ills we have, than fly to others that we know not of.'"

FEDERAL BANK MAY ATTEMPT 'UNFREEZING'

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Yesterday I pointed out that one b' question concerning the drive to expand bank credit is, which logically comes first, credit or business? Is it sound to expand credit in advance of business?

Another important question concerns the current proposals to "unfreeze" the frozen loans of the bank.

Frozen loans are loans which cannot be called in and paid when due. Some of them are "slow." Others are "doubtful." Others are just too bad. All are bank "assets" which have turned out to be undesirable. Many are the result of poor judgment.

DRASTIC STEPS AVOIDED

The ordinary way to get rid of frozen loans is to "liquidte" them. Such collateral as may lie behind them is taken and realized. There may be a complete loss, and the loan be written off. The failure of the bank may result. But "the situation is cleaned up."

Throughout this depression, we have sought to avoid such a drastic course.

So now, instead of liquidating, we are proposing to "unfreeze."

It is very desirable that the sound part of the assets of the failed and restricted banks be realized. Billions of dollars in deposits are still tied up. Probably over 50 per cent of this sum could be restored to depositors as cash.

PROPOSE FEDERAL AGENCY

But this is not exactly what is being proposed. Current plans for "unfreezing" suggest some new government organization to "take over" the slow and doubtful assets of banks.

How would this be done? By the use of government credit, which would be extended to the new organization and be swapped for the frozen loans of the banks.

The unfreezing organization would then put forth some form of "debenture" or other security, and would take it to the Federal Reserve banks. The Reserve banks would "discount" this new paper, which means new loans.

How could the Reserve banks do this? Well, their chief asset is government bonds. So you see it all comes back to government credit.

One phase of the scheme is to induce loans for construction, purchase of equipment, etc. Railways and NRA industries are to be induced to take credit advanced to banks (or some new agency) by the government. This, it is hoped, would "create purchasing power."

WOULD INDUCE LOANS

Thus it is proposed that the government take preferred stock issued by banks. One idea is to bolster up the weaker banks so that they can:

1—Qualify under the proposed deposit guarantee arrangement, and

2—Be enabled both to carry their slow and doubtful assets, and to make long-term loans to industry.

And a new sort of government-backed bank is being considered to help do the "unfreezing," and to supplement the RFC in making new long-term loans of government credit.

QUESTIONS ARISE

Thus three questions confront us:

1—Is "unfreezing" frozen loans likely to result in keeping loans frozen?

2—Is it safe to put the banks into long-term loans which are not liquid according to the standards of commercial banking?

3—Is it wise to put the government further into the banking business, and to inject more government credit into business?

We may also ask whether it is probable that bankers who now have available funds, but who do not think it is wise to make loans, will feel differently if the government increases their capital by buying their preferred stock.

U. S. LAUNCHES REFINANCING PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Treasury financing on a $2,000,000,000 scale today was the administration program for raising ready cash and refunding $1,875,000,000 of the Fouth Liberty Loan issue.

A new issue of 12-year bonds, paying 4¼ per cent the first year and 3¼ thereafter, provided the means of accomplishing the double purpose of the operation.

The exact amount of the issue was undetermined, but $500,000,000 worth will be sold for cash at 101½. Subscriptions open Monday.

Other portions of the bonds will be exchanged for Fourth Liberty bonds, which aggregate $6,268,094,150 and bear 4¼ per cent interest. Treasury officials expected only holders of the $1,875,000,000 called bonds to take advantage of the exchange.

MEETS CASH NEEDS

Secretary Woodin said the $500,000,000 sale would provide cash for current needs, and the refunding would "affect a material reduction in the annual interest charge of the public debt."

The bonds to be called were determined by a drawing late yesterday at the Treasury. The result was that the called bonds are those with serial numbers beginning with the letter A and ending with the digit one, J and 9, K and 0. All unlettered bonds ending in the digits 1, 9 or 0 also are called.

Interest on the securities will cease next April 15. That was explained as the principal distinction between the called and uncalled securities. Since the uncalled bonds will continue to yield 4¼ per cent, officials thought it hardly likely that their holders would voluntarily exchange them for the new issue, which, after the first year, will yield but 3¼ per cent.

HUGE BORROWING AHEAD

The entire Fourth Liberty issue must be retired by 1938. Officials, while anxious to avoid any strain upon the capital market at this time, thought it advisable to make a start upon the task rather than have the entire $6,000,000,000 transaction occur at some later time.

In the comparatively near future, officials estimate that the government must borrow from $6,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 in connection with the recovery program. With this in view it was decided that the entire issue should be not refunded at this time, despite the savings in interest charges which would follow.

How to Exchange Your Fourth 4¼s

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—If you own a fourth liberty bond, get it out and take a look at its serial number. If it begins with the letter A and ends in the digit one, begins in J and ends in 9, or K and O, or if it carries no letter and ends in the digits 1, 9 or 0, it has been "called" by the Treasury.

This means that the government wants to redeem that particular bond and has given notice that after April 15 the bond will stop drawing interest. In exchange you can have cash or another bond, one of a new issue.

SWEETEST DAY

Saturday OCT. 14th

TO LOVE, to live and be loved . . . and who among us but have love in our hearts, . . . yet too often it remains there, never manifesting itself.

Perhaps the energy and exertion of living precludes the constant exhibition of sentiment. However, all of us have sweethearts, mothers and wives or relatives, to whom a sweet token of sentiment would rekindle that latent spark of love and devotion and elate us with the great joy of remembering our dear ones.

SWEETEST DAY came into being because its founders recognized the eternal tendency of men and women to become so engaged in the rush and whirl of life and to forget the finer and more appealing things.

So on this day, Saturday, October 14th, steal enough time from the turmoil of routine affairs to bring a bit of good cheer to those you love. A box of candy . . . and, more than that, add a loving word—a smile—a kiss. SWEETEST DAY is worthy of your attention. Regard its observance as a sacred duty . . . and a rare opportunity. Let it be said You Remembered.

BORRIES TIPPED AS SOURCE OF DANGER

You can take it from so good an authority as Judge John P. Egan that Pitt's football players are due to have a very busy afternoon on Saturday, when they meet Navy at the Stadium. And they're likely to be given a particularly heavy load of trouble by Borries, the Middies' great right halfback, who goes places every time he gets loose. Judge Egan, whose gridiron services continue to be in great demand everywhere as one of the best officials in the country, refereed the Navy-Mercer game at Annapolis last Saturday and was deeply impressed by his close-up view of Rip Miller's machine.

Judge J. P. Egan

The 25-to-6 victory of the future admirals was all the more convincing because they encountered a surprisingly strong foe in Mercer, a set of powerful boys who actually outplayed the seamen in the first half. It was the difference in reserve strength that decided the tussle. Mercer lacked replacement material, whereas Navy had a wealth of it, the result being that the Georgians eventually were worn down.

But it wasn't only their excellent replacements that made the Middies look good to Judge Egan. He marveled at their superb blocking, which he says reminded him of Notre Dame's best teams, and reports a set of star backs behind one of the strongest lines he has seen in a long time. Borries is a whirlwind ball carrier, the Judge declares, a streak on his feet, fighting all the time, and very hard to tackle. His Honor sees trouble for Pitt if the Sailors can get Borries through or past the Panther line.

WESTFALL BOLSTERS PIRATE BACKFIELD

Cincinnati, like Pittsburgh, is just getting started in professional football, and the team presented in the final after-dark pro game here last night was not overly strong, as measured by the National League's high standards, but even at that the Pirates must be given credit for a neat job in their 17-to-3 victory.

Edgar Westfall, the former Ohio Wesleyan man obtained from the Boston Redskins, makes the Pittsburgh backfield look a lot better, and adds spirit as well as strength to the team. Ange Brovelli also continues his improvement, and the team as a whole looks better each succeeding time out. An even break in the first four games, as the Bucs start a series on the road, is a creditable record for a new team in that fast company.

ALTROCK PICKS ALL-TIME BASEBALL TEAM

Nick Altrock doesn't always clown. He has his serious moments, when he makes some interesting observations on the diamond sport, based on the experience gained during a professional career that dates back to 1896. In one of them, he consented to pick an all-time all-star team. At one position he did not hesitate. Like all other veteran judges, he instantly selected Honus Wagner as the greatest shortstop the game has ever known.

Buck Ewing was Altrock's choice for catcher, and his pitching selections were Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson, though he added that it was hard to leave Cy Young off the slab staff, and that if you wanted to you could make a place for Johnny Kling as a catcher and another for Rube Waddell as a pitcher. Nick named Hal Chase for first base, Napoleon Lajoie for second and Jimmy Collins for third, with Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker as the outfield.

COBB AND JOHNSON RATED GREATEST PAIR

Altrock showed no hesitancy in pronouncing Babe Ruth the greatest baseball showman of all time, but refused to rate Ruth as the greatest player. He gave that ranking to Ty Cobb. Nick thinks Walter Johnson was the greatest pitcher, and declares that if Johnson had been pitching for the Giants when John McGraw was wininng pennants, Walter never would have lost a game. Perhaps Mathewson had a few more pitching tricks, he concedes, but Johnson had all the speed there was.

Nick Altrock

Altrock himself was quite a pitcher in his day. In the 1906 World Series he held the Cubs to two runs in two full games, though getting only an even break in his pair of duels with Mordecai Brown. Nick won 20 games against 13 defeats and one tie that season, and was lifted only twice. In his final appearance in the regular race he shut out the Browns, 1 to 0, in 13 innings. The 57-year-old Washington coach made a surprising disclosure to Wade Morehouse in connection with the comedy acts in which he appears regularly during the year with Al Schacht as a partner. Nick says he and Schacht have not spoken to each other for two years.

O'DELL PROVES FACTOR IN PITT'S ATTACK

Howdy O'Dell, Pitt's 155-pound left halfback, who is doing his very best to fill the shoes left vacant by Warren Heller, has not yet turned in any sensational feats to make himself an outstanding hero, but the hard-driving little Iowan has been a valuable cog in the Panther attack, nevertheless. And, too, his usefulness started before the present season.

In the last six games—the final four in 1932 and the first two this year—Pitt scored a total of 43 points. While 37 of those 43 were being scored, Mr. O'Dell was in the lineup. Which may mean that he has that vital spark or something that is needed when an opportunity presents itself.

IN LINEUP WHEN SCORING PLAYS ARE MADE

But to sum up the scoring activities in those last six games. In the Nebraska contest last fall, Pitt was held scoreless, and it wasn't until the third quarter of the Carnegie Tech engagement that Heller finally went over for the Panthers. And O'Dell was playing the other halfback at the time. Heller scored without Howdy's assistance in the Stanford game, and Pitt didn't get across the line against Southern California, but this season O'Dell has been ever present.

Howdy O'Dell

RACE TRACKS OVERRUN BY DOPE AGENTS

CHAPTER 2.

Horse Doping

By FRANK G. MENKE

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Administration of narcotics to race horses has been barred by jockey clubs and other governing bodies for almost two generations, but the rule seems kin of the "Forgotten Man," despite which track officials point with pride to the clause which states that anyone found guilty of "doping" a horse will be perpetually barred from the track.

That is what they will tell you in New York, Illinois, Maryland, Kentucky and elsewhere. This being their verbal attitude, the assumption is that they exercise unceasing vigilance to protect dumb animals from being made helpless victims of the drug evil.

Testimony Easily Obtained

But harken, please, to the recital of Harry Anslinger, Commissioner of Narcotics, in Washington, based upon reports of his agents who circulated among horses and horsemen for nearly a year at more than 10 major tracks. He says:

"Our department imagined that because tampering with horses was rated as so frightful a crime by the Jockey Clubs, and that violators were threatened with such drastic punishment, the task of getting evidence might be most difficult for our agents. But astonishment is created because of the utter ease in gaining such testimony.

"Horses were 'doctored' almost openly and narcotics were traded in with little more secrecy, or furtiveness, than occurs at the corner butcher shop when the dealer sells a beefsteak.

How 'Doping' Is Done

"If the horse dopers had any fear of the Jockey Club laws they never indicate it in their conduct while our agents were on the premises. They sprayed syringes full of drugs into horses' mouths, drove hypodermics into their veins, or "dusted" their tongues with powder with the same lack of worry that would be shown if feeding sugar or carrots."

Commissioner Anslinger continues:

"Our men, naturally, were observant as to the 'policing' situation around the barns and stalls, assuming that track detectives might be at work. They reported back that at no time during their year of investigation did they see any veterinarian making a surprise inspection, nor did they see or hear of anything even remotely resembling investigations by the private detectives.

"The reports of our agents indicate that owners and trainers did about as they pleased in the handling of their horses.

"Our men found that it was ridiculously easy to buy morphine, heroin or cocaine in and around the barns of those race tracks. If peddlers did not happen to be plying their trade on any particular day, our men needed only to make their nar-

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: IRON BRIDGE ON FIRE—The iron bridge in Danville, Va., built in 1887, was covered with a floor made of wooden blocks coated with a tar compound. On June 30, 1927, while the bridge was being repaired, a boiling tar kettle upset in the center set the bridge afire. Two fire companies stationed on both sides of the bridge tried in vain to extinguish the flames. The iron bridge was completely destroyed in the fire.

TOMORROW: A WONDERFUL STUDENT

SAILORS DUE TO ARRIVE TOMORROW

Up until the opening of the present football season, the Pitt-Navy game, which will be played here Saturday afternoon, was regarded merely as another football game, important enough as an Eastern feature of the schedule, but not taken any too serious, either by Panthers or Middies.

Today, however, the clash is regarded as one of the most important of the year, and its outcome as a tossup.

Well-drilled, experienced, fast and heavy enough, the Sailors are expected to give the Panthers all the football they can hope for Saturday afternoon. Coach Rip Miller will be able to match Sutherland line for line, backfield for backfield and reserve for reserve. Indeed, after throwing his second quartet of backs into the action, Coach Miller still figures to have still another good set of ball luggers on hand.

PANTHERS READY

Of course, the Panthers are not loafing as they prepare for the Middies. So far, they haven't had to show a thing. They beat Wash-Jeff and West Virginia on straight football, taking the game with the Mountaineers with a minimum of effort. Sutherland is set on his starting lineup, the only change that may be effected having to do with the quarterback berth. Last week, at West Virginia, Miller Munjas turned in an excellent job of punting, and possibly may start against the Sailors.

The Middies will arrive in Pittsburgh via the B. & O. early tomorrow morning, make a brief stop at the Pitt Stadium and then proceed directly to Shady Side Academy, where they'll remain until game time Saturday.

Pitt's freshmen eleven will open its campaign Saturday, meeting Wyoming Seminary abroad.

DUKES FEAR PASSES

Elmer Layden is marshaling his defenses against the forward pass. Yesterday afternoon, the Duquesne head coach sent his first and second varsity teams through defenses which clearly indicated he expects Dick Harlow's Green Terrors to take to the air.

The Western Maryland team has a formidable threat in Jack Shepherd, fullback from Clearfield, Pa. This junior performer has caught the eye of Coach Harlow. It is upon his line-plunging power that the veteran mentor has built his new offense.

Layden said yesterday that he will take no chances with the visitors and their wily mentor. The locals' first team will be in there at the kickoff tomorrow night.

SMOKER CARDED

Rip Miller, Navy coach, and Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy, will be the guests of honor at the annual Pitt alumni homecoming smoker tomorrow night at the Schenley Hotel. The affair will get under way at 9 o'clock.

Dr. Jock Sutherland, Pitt mentor, and Chancellor John G. Bowman also are among the honored group.

Bostwick, Kram Horses Barred in Jamaica Probe

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Racing circles today buzzed with the sensation caused when stewards of the Jockey Club extended their crusade to end "doping" of race horses to the stable of a millionaire. They announced that entries of Garden Message, owned by George H. Bostwick, wealthy sportsman and society figure, would be refused pending a final investigation.

The Jockey Club also will refuse entries of Sweeping Light, owned by A. Kram, a horse reported "sponged" before the fifth race at Jamaica track on Monday. Garden Message, winner of the race, was stimulated, according to the stewards, who based their opinion on a report from Dr. R. C. Richards, track veterinarian.

The rulings against Garden Message and Sweeping Light, the first in the campaign here to clean up the tracks, were interpreted as having no bearing against Bostwick or Kram or their trainers, and was viewed as a ban against the two horses until the investigation has been concluded.

CLEANUP PREDICTED

Stewards of the Jockey Club said their investigation of "sponging" and "doping" would be continued and, in some quarters, a sensational cleanup among owners, trainers and jockeys was predicted.

J. P. Smith, trainer for Bostwick, denied Garden Message had been stimulated. He said:

"I am dumfounded to understand how anyone could make charges of 'stimulating' against Garden Message, especially at this late date. If there had been any suspicion of Garden Message having been stimulated, he should have been ordered scratched by the stewards and an examination made immediately. To make charges at this late date looks like someone was attempting to take undue advantage of this position.

"Owner Bostwick now is on his honeymoon, but I have sent him word. I feel sure when the investigation has been concluded the Jockey Club officials will reinstate Garden Message."

KRAM INDIGNANT

Owner A. Kram was highly indignant when the ownership of Sweeping Light was questioned by track officials. He is willing to produce proof that he is the owner of the 4-year-old colt. He said:

"Sweeping Light was purchased by me several months ago. Trainer Kraft was engaged as his trainer. This was under the sanction of the local racing officials. I am willing to offer a reward myself for the apprehension of the criminal who tampered with my horse."

Waynesburg opens its home season Saturday, when Bethany is met in a Tri-State Conference clash. Followers of the scrappy Yellow Jacket eleven were elated by the fine game their favorites put up against W. and J. last week. It was by far the best showing ever made by a Waynesburg College team against one representing W. and J.

One of the lightest teams ever to represent Westminster will start against Geneva in the Tri-State Conference game at Beaver Falls tomorrow night. The Titan outfit will average 167 pounds per man, possibly the lightest outfit in the entire district.

The newly created West Virginia University junior varsity football team will open its season October 26 against the 326th Company, C. C. C. team, of Grantsville, Md., in a game to be played as a preliminary to the Davis-Elkins-West Virginia varsity encounter. The

When the Pittsburgh Pirates take the field in their first game in the West Sunday against the Green Bay Packers, it will have a .500 rating. This was made possible when the locals won their second home game by administering a 17-to-3 beating to the last place Cincinnati Reds before a turnout of around 5,000 fans at Forbes Field last night.

Ably led by Eddie Westfall, former Ohio Wesleyan star, who was bought by President Art Rooney after his showing here with the Boston Redskins last week, the Pirates ran roughshod over the Reds.

The local team scored a touchdown in the first quarter and a field goal and another touchdown in the final period.

PIRATES SHOW POWER

The score does not begin to show the superiority of the locals over the Reds. The Pirates plunged, passed and ran ends for 21 first downs, while the Reds garnered four.

Just as in the other three previous games, the home rooters got a scare in the first quarter. Following the kickoff, three plays found Tesser punting from his own 30-yard line. Crakes, Reds' end, blocked the kick. Three plays at the line failed to gain, and Clark came in to dropkick a perfect field goal from the 12-yard mark, and the Reds took the lead, 3-0.

From that time until the final period the Cincinnati team staved off drive after drive by the Pirates. Once a penalty, half the distance of the field, when the Pirates had the ball on the three-yard marker saved the visitors.

DOUDS IN ACTION

In the final period, Coach Jap Douds, who started the game at tackle, went in at quarterback after Schwartz had been injured and removed from the action. With the ball on the 23-yard mark, Mose Kelsch booted a perfect placement goal to give the Pirates a 10-to-3 advantage.

Later in the quarter, after the locals had gained considerable ground on an exchange of punts, Harry Vaughan went over for the final tally and Brovelli place-kicked the extra point.

Westfall gave a fine exhibition of play, and was ably assisted by Brovelli, who played the best ball he has shown this season. The presence of Coach Douds in the line steadied the Pirate forward wall plenty.

Long Run Brings Morgan Team Win

A 94-yard sprint following the recovering of a fumble in the third period by Smith, substitute end, enabled the Scott Morgan gridders to defeat the Tarentum Firemen at Tarentum last night, 6 to 0.

Pope, Tarentum's star halfback, fumbled on a line play on the six-yard line and Smith, who had been substituted at end for Scheltonbrand, scooped up the ball and ran 94 yards to the Tarentum six-yard mark, where he was tackled by Speicher. Hooks Carroll plunged over for the touchdown. The lineup:

District Marksmen In Wellsburg Shoot

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 12.—The last important trapshooting meet of the season was being held here today when the leading sportsmen of the tri-state district competed in the annual Columbus Day Trophy Shoot.

The program calls for a 100 16-yard, 50 handicap and 25 pairs of doubles targets.

HUNTING LAW APPROVED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Changed state game regulations whereby rabbits may be hunted every day during November except Sunday are approved by the Pennsylvania Fish and Game Protective Association. Several hundred members of the association at a meeting last night commended the Game Commission's recent action which eliminated "staggered" days for hunting.

GOSLINS PLAY RANGERS

With two straight victories under their belts, the Goose Goslin gridders, of Carrick, will travel to Stowe Township Sunday to battle the highly-touted Rox Rangers on the Shingiss street field. The Goslins, after taking over the Cup Jenkins and the Beechview teams, feel equal to the task of beating the lightweight champions.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Davis J. Walsh, brilliant sports editor of the Hearst International News Service, will be among the out-of-town sports writers here for the Pitt-Navy football game at the Stadium Saturday afternoon . . . They're calling the Notre Dame eleven the "Wonder Team" this fall . . . After that scoreless tie opener with Kansas, where Mike Getto, former Pitt star, is line coach, last Saturday, they're wondering if the Irish will or will not come through.

Rusty Lomond

John Burleson, new tackle of the Pittsburgh Pirates' professional team, is a cousin of Postmaster-General Burleson, and formerly starred for Southern Methodist in Texas . . . The Pirates' games away from home, beginning with the Green Bay Packers' engagement at Green Bay, Wis., next Sunday, will be reproduced by WWSW.

A rather remarkable record in the matter of turning out college football stars is being piled up by Paul (Rusty) Lomond, coach at Midland High School in the Beaver Valley . . . Lomond has been on the job there since 1925 . . . The Spisak brothers, Bill and Charley, and Steve Trbovich, the center, and John Green, the end, at Carnegie Tech, are among his products, not to mention the Holland brothers, Don, the W. & J. quarterback, and Tom, the Waynesburg end, together with Joe Tonti, Temple guard; Mike Karas, freshman fullback at Temple; Sadler, who made the team at Temple last year, but had to drop out of college this year because of the depression; Lou Glumac, quarterback, and Lento, halfback, at Centenary; Ben Kwiatkopsky (Kay), tackle at Indiana State Teachers' College; Lukesavic, on the Ohio Northern squad; Germanovich, Geneva tackle, and Lockwood, Grove City tackle.

The Holland brothers, of this group, are probably the most interesting . . . They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Holland, of the South Side . . . Born in California, the brothers came here in 1925 . . . Tom attended Midland High in 1925, Beaver High in 1926, and returned to Midland in '27 and '28 . . . Don broke in at Midland at the age of 13 and also played there the following year, and in 1929 and '30 attended South High School in Pittsburgh . . . He was the local All-Scholastic quarterback in his final season.

Tom went to Villanova in 1929, but became homesick and returned and later entered Waynesburg and now is a Junior, as is Don at W. & J. . . . They played against each other in the W. & J.-Waynesburg game last Saturday . . . Don's work was outstanding in W. & J.'s great opening game stand against Pitt at the Stadium here in which there was no score until Pitt turned in a field goal with less than four minutes of playing time remaining, and finally won, 9-0.

Coach Lomond hails from Nova Scotia . . . He played at Mt. St. Mary's College in Maryland, where he was in the prep department for two years and then put in four years in the college . . . He was the football captain his final year and was named All-State tackle in two of his seasons and placed on the All-East team by some authorities . . . He attended three of the coaching schools of the late Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, where he picked up many valuable pointers.

As a reward for having won two pennants and finished second once in the three seasons since he succeeded Walter Johnson as manager of the Newark Bears, of the International League, Al Mamaux, former Pirate pitcher, has been given his unconditional release by the New York Yankees, who own the club . . . During the past season Mamaux's team was 14½ games ahead at the end of the regular schedule and then was beaten out by Buffalo in the dizzy playoff series.—HARRY KECK.

MIDDIES DUE TOMORROW

Jayvees' second game, previously announced, will be with a similar team from the University of Pittsburgh at Connellsville, Friday night, November 3.

Bill King, W. & J. fullback, is lost to the Presidents for the Detroit and Xavier games due to the knee injury he suffered in the Waynesburg game last Saturday. The loss of King leaves the Prexies with but one fullback, Joe Cardy, former Sharon star. Myers, the third-string back, dislocated a shoulder in the tussle with the Jackets and is out for the rest of the season.

Women Wrestlers Barred in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Application of two women wrestlers, Nellie McDonald and Marie La Plante, were turned down yesterday by the New York State Athletic Commission.

The board also ruled to work in full accord hereafter with the Illinois Boxing Commission and this action raises the bars here against Max Baer, King Levinsky and Johnny Risko until such time as one of the three has met Ray Impelletierre in an elimination heavyweight bout.

Draw for Soccer Cup Play Arranged

Six of the seven Pittsburgh soccer teams entered in the national challenge trophy fight will swing into action in the preliminary round on Saturday, October 28 and Sunday, October 29. The Curry Club drew a bye.

Cecil will play at Union Switch & Signal on October 28, while the following day will find the Riehls at Morgan and Heidelberg at Iron City (Moon Run).

MANCUSO LED HUBBELL TO PINNACLE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Carl Hubbell seems destined to stand out as the leading character of baseball in all Stove League sessions slated for the cold months and while the self-effacing left-hander deserve his niche, it seems to be a bit snobbish, or at least thoughtless, to pass up the boy who guided the quiet southpaw to his great fame.

Hubbell had to reach the thirtieth milestone along life's highway before he found himself. When Carl went to camp with the Giants last spring he met up with a catcher named Gus Mancuso, who stayed him almost like a guardian angel as the quiet pitcher went through a season fraught with gruelling tests.

HAS FINE STYLE

Mancuso's style pleased Hubbell at the outset. During the Los Angeles stay of the Giants, Bill Terry told the writer he was immensely pleased with the swap which brought Mancuso to the New York club. In the middle of the race, Terry was more eloquent in his praise of his young receiver. Said Bill:

"I think you should give most of the credit for our good pitching to Mancuso. The hurlers all like to throw to him and let it go at that."

In the very first game of the World Series, Mancuso's fine Italian hand was in evidence. Hubbell fanned three southpaw batters—Myer, Goslin and Manush— in succession as the series got under way. Each of them had heard so much about that screwball he was fearful of it. But Mancuso had different dose prescribed for them.

Ten Senators bit the dust over the strikeout route that day. Instead of swinging at screwballs they were giving weak resistance to a curve. Hubbell has a fine curve ball which is a knockout when a batter, especially a left-hand hitter, is set for the screwball. And Mancuso saw to it that a lot of curves were thrown.

MILLER GIVES NAVY STIFF WORKOUT

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Expecting to face a heavy line in their game Saturday with Pitt, the Naval Academy football players were given a stiff practice yesterday by Coach Edgar E. (Rip) Miller in kicking and a forward pass offensive.

The passing system called heavily on work from Red Baumberger and Buzz Borries, while Bill Clark did most of the kicking. All three are expected to be in Navy's starting lineup.

Eastern Briefs

ITHACA, N. Y.—(AP.)—Coach Gilmour Dobie staged a general review of offensive and defensive tactics yesterday in Cornell's last long practice before its departure tonight for Ann Arbor and Saturday's game with Michigan.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—Working on a defense to use in its game against Illinois at Cleveland a week from Saturday, the Army squad had another intensive scrimmage yesterday. Time was about evenly divided between offense and defense against the scrub squad.

PHILADELPHIA.—With the season still unopened, Coach Harvey Harmon, of Penn, shook up his backfield. He sent Josiah McCracken, sophomore quarterback from Shanghai, and Mel Chamberlin, fullback, into the first team, replacing Bill Shanahan and John Lima.

BARBER DISCOVERS NEW EASY WAY TO SHAVE

Special for Men with Tender Necks, Irritated Skins

Country's Biggest Barber Shops Now Using It

Gives Quick, PAINLESS SHAVE At Low Cost

AT THE U. S. Senate Barber Shop—at the Famous Terminal Barber Shops—at most of the finest Barber Shops in the country — an entirely new method of shaving is being used.

Barbers and customers agree it makes shaving far easier. Beard softens better—razor cuts easier—and most important, the skin on face and neck is protected. There's no smarting soreness, no after-shave razor rash. Instead your face feels smoother, cool and actually refreshed.

The new way to shave is called "The Noxzema Shave." You first spread on a very thin layer of Noxzema Cream—then work the lather in over the Noxzema. The Noxzema does 3 things: it protects the skin against cuts; second, it helps soften the beard; third, it soothes, cools and refreshes the skin. It makes all the difference in the world in a shave!

If you shave with a latherless cream, use Noxzema as you would a latherless shaving cream, simply wet face, apply Noxzema and shave. It works equally well either way.

SPECIAL—For only 10c you can try this wonderful "Noxzema Shave." This week at all drug stores you can get a large trial tube of Noxzema. (It's the same Noxzema that is famous for Sunburn Relief and for Skin Faults.) The tube contains enough Noxzema to give you 15 Painless Noxzema Shaves. Remember, 15 Wonderful Shaves for only 10c. Get one of these big trial tubes—at your druggist today.

PERRY, SOUTH HILLS MEET FOR SCHOOL LEAD

LOCAL CHAMPS RISK TITLE HONORS

By JULIUS LEVIN

The three-way deadlock for first place in Section II of the City League was to be shattered this afternoon when Perry High School, defending City League champion, met South Hills High School, in the only local scholastic battle on the program.

The two teams, clashing at Langley Field, at present are sharing the top position with Carrick High School, which swings into action tomorrow afternoon with Allegheny as its attraction at Carrick.

South Hills was the only team in Section II to defeat the City champions last season, taking a 12-0 decision over the Chester Smith machine. Perry, always slow in getting started, has been putting on pressure with each game and will be out to turn the tables on the Tunnelites for the setback received in 1932.

GAME MOVED UP

The game, originally listed for tomorrow, was moved up a day to avoid a conflict with the Section I tussle between South and Fifth Avenue, carded for the same field.

Beside the Fifth Avenue-South duel tomorrow, Westinghouse meets Schenley at Schenley in a Section I engagement. South and Westinghouse are sharing the lead in this group at present.

Two games also are one the program in Section II tomorrow, Allegheny invading Carrick and Langley playing at Oliver.

Two City schools play non-league contests on Saturday, Taylor Allderdice being the attraction at Wilkinsburg, while Peabody invades Canton, O., to meet McKinley High.

Scott High School, setting the pace in the race for the class A crown with 112½ points, will have a chance to maintain its margin over Ambridge, defending champion, and Butler, when it meets Midland tomorrow night at North Braddock. Ambridge has 106 2-3 points, while Butler is third with an even 105 points.

GERMAN AT BROWNSVILLE

Brownsville is undefeated in the class B fight with three victories in as many starts, while German Township, in four games, has won three and tied one with Connellsville.

Four attractive double A engagements will be played this week-end, two tomorrow and two on Saturday.

New Castle will be out to deadlock New Kensington for the lead by defeating Washington tomorrow night at New Castle. In the other AA battle tomorrow night, Jeannette is the attraction at Monessen.

Norwin plays at Greensburg and Clairton is the attraction at Charleroi in the two class AA frays listed for Saturday.

Revenge for a 7-6 setback received last season, which eliminated it from the running for the class B title, will be the objective of the East Pittsburgh team when it battles Springdale at Springdale Saturday. While the game will have no bearing on the class B race as Springdale has been elevated to class A rating since 1932, the Shamrocks of East Pittsburgh are determined to even an old score with the Ripper boys.

Centre, Boston Elevens Play Today

NEWTON, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Football stalwarts from Centre College, reputed to have the strongest team since the immortal aggregation that included Bo McMillin and Red Roberts, will make their third straight attempt to tame the Boston College Eagles here today.

Both Centre and B. C. have unbeaten and unscored-on records after engaging two weak opponents, but neither eleven has had a chance to discover its real strength.

McTiernan Hard At Work for Bout

It has been many months since the former star of Swissvale has been seen in action here, and he believes that after a half-dozen or so tuneup fights he will be in a position to challenge Ted Yarosz for a return bout.

Fight Results

At Quincy, Ill.—Kid Leonard defeated Allen Matthews, 10 rounds.

At Cincinnati—Smokey Maggard and Stonewall Jackson drew, 8 rounds; Cliff McWhirter defeated Pee Wee Weghorn, 6 rounds; Roughhouse Glover defeated Carl Turner, 6 rounds.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Joey Speigal vs. Louis (Kid) Cook, 10 rounds; Jimmy Columbo vs. Al Becker and Jimmy Reilly vs. Mickey Shannon, 8 rounds each, and Battling Crawford vs. Kid Corky, 6 rounds, Fairmont, W. Va.

Stars for Champs

JOE DI MATTEO, FULLBACK FOR PERRY HIGH SCHOOL

Perry High School, defending champion in the City League, meets South Hills High School at Langley today in a game to break the three-way deadlock for the lead in Section II. Carrick also shares the lead and will meet Allegheny tomorrow. Di Matteo's play in the Perry backfield is one of the reasons his team is undefeated so far this season. 'Dope' Peddlers Overrun American Race Tracks cotic-purchasing desires known to stable hands, both white or Negro, who promptly volunteered as messengers and brought back as large a supply of narcotics as was desired.

Dope Supply Vast

"The supply for race track use seemed unlimited, and the stuff surprisingly reasonable in price, and also of comparatively high grade. It was found by our men that dope peddlers were keenly interested as to when a horse was to be 'doctored,' and would shade the terms for such information, these peddlers being eager to make a bet when guaranteed the horse would be made 'hot' with their illicit wares."

Telling how the "dopers" operate, Commissioner Anslinger said:

"The 'doctoring' often was done openly. The narcotic mixture was prepared in the stalls, in plain view of passers-by. The actual administration was done with the upper part of the barn door open. Rarely were efforts made at concealment. It needed only the closing of the stall door to keep the 'doctoring' a secret, but only a few ever took the precaution.

"I say 'doctoring' when I might say 'doping' merely to be ethical. We have proof in instances where syringes were seized, and the remainder of their contents tested, that the solution used in 'doctoring' contained heroin or cocaine—indisputable evidence that narcotics were used.

'Medicine,' Plea

"One of the men jailed, who had a supply of heroin, and who had been frequently observed spraying liquid into the mouths of his horses, offered the novel innocence plea by saying he was using the mixture as a cough medicine. We did not challenge the veracity of his unique statement because possession of heroin for any purpose in the United States violates the law, this drug having been barred several years ago.

"Our men reported that it generally was common knowledge either the night before, or the morning of the race, that certain horses were to be 'doctored.' Thus they found it quite simple to be at the exact barn when the 'doctoring' was done. Their task of gathering evidence was complicated only when they were informed that five or six horses were to be given 'speed tonic' for the same race, and they could be at only one place at a time.

Regarding the blame for the "doping" outrages, Commissioner Anslinger says:

"The list of 'doctored' horses would create considerable surprise when and if it becomes part of public records because it includes the names of some very famous stake or handicap horses which ran to surprising triumphs in the past.

"Multimillionaire turfmen appear as owners of horses which our agents reported were 'doctored.' I hardly can believe that these men—and women—sanctioned any 'doctoring.' The blame then falls upon the trainers, many of them highly respected in racing communities.

Few Doped Horses Win

"One of the aragic features of 'doctoring' is that only about 16 per cent of the horses so treated win their races. The other 84 per cent are uselessly given an almost lethal dose. There are reasons for the 84 per cent loesrs, which include:

"1—The drug acted too soon and the crazed horse exhausted his physical power in the paddock or at the barrier.

"3—Some undrugged horse proved to be better than one which had been 'doctored.'

"4—With four to six 'doctored' horses in a race, only one could win."

'Ringer' Barred

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Aknahton, which has been barred from Maryland race tracks after it raced two years ago as "Shem" at Havre de Grace, yesterday was ruled from the Hartford County fair track at Belair, by the Maryland Racing Commission after it had been entered in a five-eights mile running race.

J. H. Anderson, representative of the commission at the track, said Aknahton had been entered by M. J. Scarborough, of Albion, N. Y., who told him the New York Jockey Club has assured it would be all right to run the horse at fairs.

CAMP CUE VICTOR

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 12.—(INS.)—Five straight victories were recorded today to the credit of Marcel Camp, of Detroit, one of the favorites to win the northern sectional pocket billiard championship here. Sylvester Schlieman of Minneapolis, was Camp's fifth victim last night, the Detroit cue artist winning, 100 to 71, in 12 innings after a high run of 41.

SIX TO START IN W. PA. HUNT CUP 'CHASE

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 12.—Having won permanent possession last year of the Western Pennsylvania Hunts Cup for her owner, George McNary, Little Red Fire, 12-year-old Irish bred mare, imported to this country as a 3-year-old, will test her nimble little legs in a flat race today at the eighth annual meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Hunts Racing Association at the McNary farm, near here.

Red Fire, by Book Out of F Sharp, three times finished ahead of the field in the grueling three and one-half-mile grind, taking the 20 jumps in fine fashion, carrying a surprising amount of weight for her size. But for a bad break in 1931, when another horse crashed into her at the next to the last jump, she might have won the Hunts Cup three years in a row. As it was, she was first in '29, '30 and last year to gain everlasting possession.

Today, with her owner, George McNary up, she'll try the mile flat race, the Columbus Day special, the second event on the card. Nine other horses have been named to start in this race.

The Hunts Cup chase has drawn a field of six, including Mrs. J. C. Hamilton's Isolateur, R. K. Mellon's Comea; Bliss Flaccuss' two jumpers, Starborn and Broceste; C. C. Cence's Red Rocket and Paul Mellon's Drinmore Lad.

Six have been nominated for the opening event, a two-and-one-half mile steeplechase for four-year-olds and up. George McCook, who rode Red Fire in her Three Hunts Cup triumphs, will have a leg up on John Beach's Anawan. Alfred Hamilton, Jr., one of the leading gentlemen riders of the country, will ride Richard Mellon's Straide Gift in this event.

The first race will get under way at 3 o'clock. The entries, owners and riders follow:

College Football Shows Gain in Attendance

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—It's been a long time since football has broken any attendance records, but the early returns from the 1933 season show definite signs of a rebound from the depths that were reached last year.

A nationwide survey by the Associated Press, covering the early games of 32 representative colleges, show improved attendance figures on all sides and a total gain of over 200,000. Where fewer than a half million fans had turned out at this stage of the season a year ago, the 1933 total for the schools listed is 705,880.

IRISH OFFENSE IMPROVED

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—The Notre Dame offense began to click yesterday as the varsity scrimmaged against a strong freshman team and scored 10 touchdowns.

Good work by the forward wall, plus clever blocking, was largely responsible for the scoring flurry. Eight or 10 defending players were spilled on every play. Andy Pilney, Don Elser and Ray Brancheau were the scoring artists.

Western Briefs

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(AP.)—The lack of a second punter worried Coach Ossie Solem today as he fried out Bob Rook, Joe Laws and George Teyro.

MINNEAPOLIS. — (AP.) — A cold snap made the Gophers step lively yesterday while spending most of the afternoon perfecting the pass atttack for the Purdue game Saturday. Julius Alfonse, sophomore, kept his regular right halfback position while George Roscoe, his predecessor, threw passes for the second team.

CHICAGO.—(AP.)—Coach Clark Shaughnessy's search for Maroon reserve tackle strength ended when Jim Gold, a 181-pound former Chicago prep star, became eligible. Shaughnessy now has four good tackles, Bush, Deem, Rice and Gold.

EVANSTON, Ill.—(AP.)—Coach Dick Hanley changed his plans to ease off yesterday on the Northwestern workouts and the Wildcats went through another tough drill which included scrimmage against a reserve team. Stanford, the 'Cats opponents Saturday, arrived yesterday and Coach Tiny Thornhill hustled his squad over to Soldier Field where a two-hour workout was held.

RAVENS FACE OLYMPICS

The Monessen Ravens and the McKeesport Olympics will clash at the Tin Plate Field, Monessen, tomorrow night, the game being scheduled for 8 o'clock. The contest promises to draw a large crowd as a natural rivalry exists between the two teams. Bucky Wagner, former Pitt star; Seigle, Newlin, Sapp, Peck Minnick, Pendro and other stars will be included in the Olympic lineup. Tonight Burns and Etna Sycamores clash at Etna.

WOLVERINES' GRID STYLE IRKS POP

By GLENN S. (POP) WARNER
Member, All-America Board of Football (Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

Harry Kipke's splendid article in a recent issue of a magazine bears out the contention I have been making for some time that defensive football has been overtaking offensive football, and becoming too strong for the rushing game to make much headway. When a team can devote little attention to the running game and depend upon its defense and a good kicking and passing game and win championships by such a policy, it is high time that the rules committee did something to make such tactics unprofitable.

Pop Warner

It is true that Michigan under such strategy has produced winning teams, but in pursuing such a system they have not played the kind of football which is interesting to the public nor any fun for the players. Spectators, players and coaches get their thrills from offensive football, not from just trying to stop the other fellow and cash in upon the other fellow's mistakes.

GAME BECOMES DULL

If all these attempts to advance the ball by rushing plays are stopped, then the game becomes dull and uninteresting, and it is a well-known fact that the Michigan style of play is just that.

The low scores in the games thus far also tend to prove that the defense is gradually overpowering the offense. It should be easier to make scores. There are more thrills in free-scoring games. There are very few thrills in an 0-0 game or even in a game when neither team makes more than one touchdown.

The present method of scoring is basically wrong, in that it requires the scoring of six points to overcome a one-point lead except by the field goal method, which is very rarely used.

SCORING METHOD WRONG

The present methods of scoring also enable the weaker team to defeat a stronger team, entirely too often. It is logical and right and in line with good sportsmanship that in an athletic contest the better man or the better team should be returned the victor, but in football a team can greatly outplay its weaker opponent throughout the game and too often be beaten by a lucky play by the weaker team.

Baltimore Drafts Atlanta Pitcher

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 12.—(AP.)—Baltimore, of the International League, has drafted Pitcher Albert (Max) Butcher from Atlanta, of the Southern Association.

The Cracker hurler was the only player drafted by a Class AA club during the draft period for leagues of that class, the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, governing body of the minors, announced today. The Class AA draft ended at midnight last night. No players were drafted by AA teams last year.

FOXX NAMED MOST VALUABLE IN AMERICAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP.)—James Emory Foxx, the home run king of the major leagues, was named by the baseball experts today as the American League's "most valuable player" for the second successive year.

Only two other stars in either league have ever gained this extraordinary distinction. Walter Johnson, when he was the 'Big Train" of Washington's pitching staff, captured the award in 1913 and repeated in 1924, the year he helped the Senators win their first World Series. Rogers Hornsby won the National League "most valuable player" contest in 1925 and repeated in 1929.

Foxx was selected for top honors again by a committee representing the Baseball Writers' Association of America, of which Denman Thompson, of the Washington Star, acted as chairman.

The slugging first baseman of the Athletics was given a brisk run in the voting by two Washington rivals, Manager Joe Cronin and Heinie Manush, but emerged with a clean-cut margin. Decive factors in favor of Foxx were that, in addition to retaining the home run crown, he led all the American League hittlers with an unofficial mark of .356 and topped the clouters of both leagues in runs batted in, with 159.

Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees; Lefty Grove, of the Athletics, and Charley Gehringer, of the Tigers, were ranked fourth, fifth and sixth. For the first time since 1927, Babe Ruth did not receive a vote or so much as honorable mention.

The complete American League vote, including points, follows:

Jimmie Foxx, Athletics, 74; Joe Cronin, Senators, 62; Heinie Manush, Senators, 54; Lou Gehrig, Yankees, 39; Lefty Grove, Athletics, 35; Charley Gehringer, Tigers 32; Al Crowder, Senators, 28; Al Simmons, White Sox, 19; Earl Whitehill, Senators, 18; Oscar Melillo, Browns, 12; Sam West, Browns, 11; Rick Ferrell, Red Sox, 9; Dick Dickey, Yankees, 9; Tony Lazzeri, Yankees, 6; Joe Kuhel, Senators, 5; Earl Averill, Indians, 5; Buddy Myer, Senators, 5; Mickey Cochrane, Athletics, 5; Bob Johnson, Athletics, 5; Ben Chapman, Yankees, 1; Max Bishop, Athletics, 1; Luke Appling, White Sox, 1; Willie Kamm, Indians, 1.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving remembrance of my dearly beloved husband, James W. Godbey, who passed away October 12, 1931. Surrounded by friends I am lonesome. In the midst of pleasure I am blue, a smile on my face and a broken heart. I am lonesome so lonesome for you. When the evening shadows are falling and I am sitting all alone, in my heart there comes a longing if you could only come home. Oft and oft my thoughts do wander to your grave not far away, where I laid my dear husband two years ago (October 15, 1931).
Sadly missed by your wife and children.

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

NOLLIE DETERMINED

The Morning Appeal would surely cash the check they had awarded her?

She didn't want it cashed in uncle's bank, because of his overdraft there and his dealings there, and because she didn't want any of the Green family to know of her unexpected winnings.

The cashier at the newspaper office gave her ten crisp $5 bills in exchange for her check. He congratulated and smiled at the pretty, eager-eyed young woman.

Go to New York! Of course she would! And at the very first opportunity!

"And don't stay long!" he barked after her. The thought of his right-hand help wanting to quit both roof and shop made him doubly irascible.

Nollie, as she passed through to the rear of the house, saw that Lil was reclining full length on the sofa in the parlor with a novel.

"She has it pretty soft, I'll say," thought she. She was unaware of Jake's "faux pas" of the previous evening.

Lil took no notice of her greeting. "Peeved because I wouldn't fork out that $8.95 for her, I suppose."

JAKE CAUGHT AGAIN

Then back to work. Uncle Cy kept her busy for a solid three hours on his accounts.

At half past 4 she went to do some errands for the shop. Shortly after Nollie had gone the bell of the little paint store tinkled as Lil entered.

"Nollie here?"

"Nope. She's gone out."

"I'll wait for her." Lil went into the cubby-hole at the rear where the accounts were kept on Nollie's desk, and the telephone.

It rang shrilly, soon.

Over the wire drifted none other than Jake Tippett's tones.

"That you, Nollie?"

A wave of sickening anger in her heart, Lil "uh-uh"—ed. SHE'D get to the bottom of this, this time! Nollie was to blame, of course! Nollie had encouraged Jake! He'd never act this way, if Nollie had not egged him on, if Nollie hadn't been mean and underhand and predatory!

"Listen, Nollie, I was wondering if you'd come to the Dreamland dance with me tonight? And could you meet me somewhere away from the house? Say . . . listen . . ."

WANTS REVENGE

Out came Jake's plan!

But she wouldn't let Nollie get away with this! By hook or by crook she'd get even with her too attractive cousin . . .

Pitching her voice to a high key she said: "Hold on. This is a customer taking Miss Day's place. If you leave your 'phone number I'll have her call you again."

"That you, Jake? This is I, Lil. One of dad's customers just gave me your message. S'awfully good of you to invite me to Dreamland for the dance tonight! I'll be glad to go."

What could he say? How dare confess that it was Nollie he had wanted, on the sly? Confound the idiotic customer who had tangled up the message! Well, since he couldn't get hold of the elusive Nollie, he would just have to take her cousin!

Her errand done, a little more than an hour later Nollie reached home, and went straight up to her room.

Lil wasn't there. An urge to look at her much-needed money made Nollie draw her suitcase from below the bed, unlock it, count the magic bills . . . oh God! there were only eight! . . . two $5-bills out of the precious 10 were GONE!

BRITISH SURRENDER (Yorktown, Va., 1781) TO AMERICAN-FRENCH

This virtually ended the American Revolutionary War, with independence of the United States acknowledged by Great Britain in 1783 (Treaty of Paris). The commanders: Washington (American), Lafayette, Rochambeau (French) and Cornwallis (British) are shown in center. Great Britain tried to compensate herself for the loss by expansion on the fifth continent, Australia. (World History)

CHLORINE LIBERATES BROMINE

BROMINE WELLS, MIDLAND MICH.

Mineral wells, as those of Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia, also the Dead Sea, and the potash bed of Stassfurt, Germany, contain bromides yielding bromine by electrolysis or with chlorine gas. Bromine is used in photography, medicine. (Foster: Elements of Chemistry)

BALSAM FIR (Abies Balsamea)

With some 24 species, balsam fir belongs to the Pinaceae family. It has flattened dark green needles apparently two-ranked; staminate flowers are yellow, pistillate, purple. Fruit is a purple cone, scales bearing the winged seeds. The range is from Labrador to Virginia, in and around swamps. It is planted for Christmas trees. Its wood is light, soft, not strong, used for paper pulp, packing boxes. (General Science)

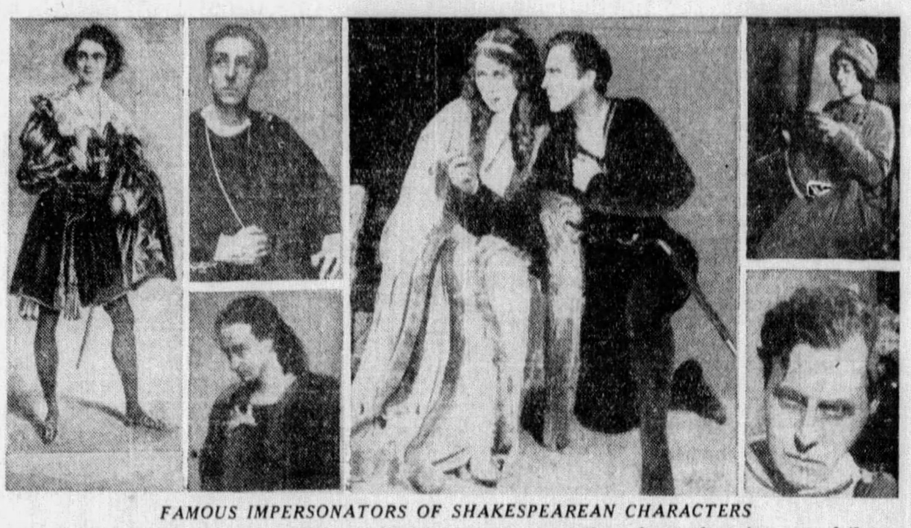
COMMON SEED PLANTS (General Science)

They divide into Monocotyledons and Dicotyledons according to number of food-storing leaves of embryo in the coat-inclosed seed. Monocotyledons (above) have parallel-veined leaves, stem with vascular bundles scattered through the pith; flower parts into 3's and 6's; seed has embryo with one cotyledon(palms, yuccas, lilies, grasses, etc.). Dicotyledons (left) have netted-veined leaves, stem with vascular bundles arranged so that wood forms annual rings; flower parts into 4's and 5's; embryo with two cotyledons (common flowering plants), (Woodruff: Found. of Biology)

LINCOLN DEBATES STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS

The Kansas-Nebraska bill (1854) by Senator Douglas conferred rights of decision concerning slavery upon the resident citizens. The U. S. Supreme Court declared it unconstitutional for the national government to exclude slavery from any territory (Dred Scott case, 1857). In the senatorial contest of Illinois between him and Douglas, Abraham Lincoln boiled down the inconsistency of the prevailing attitude concerning slavery represented by Douglas to the question: "Has a territory more power than the Congress that conferred the power?"

Douglas could not answer satisfactorily and though he won the senatorship, his reputation was ruined. Lincoln's compact and vigorous logic turned public opinion toward him and he was nominated by the Republicans (1860) for the Presidency. (U. S. History)



FAMOUS IMPERSONATORS OF SHAKESPEAREAN CHARACTERS

William Shakespeare (1564-1616) was born in Stratford, England. First he gained fame in London as actor and playwright, enjoying the patronage of Queen Elizabeth and James I. Shakespeare was the greatest English-speaking literary genius. He received inspiration from the times, the brilliant Elizabethan era with its discoveries in science and lands, expansion of travel and trade; great leaps of human progress.

In his four literary periods he wrote, besides poems, about three dozen plays, in some of them reaching unsurpassed poetic heights. In Hamlet, one of his best tragedies, he treats Danish traditions, also given by Saxo Grammaticus (12th cent.).

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Here's the first one from Virginia Wallace, of 249 Blackstone street, Hazelwood. She writes:

"I am writing this letter to tell you that I am going to have a patrol. There are nine who would like to be members and two who are already members. One is myself and I have been elected captain. Please send me my armband."

Virginia incloses a list of 11 members in her patrol. BUT SHE DOESN'T INCLOSE PLEDGES OR COPIES OF THE PLEDGE FOR HER NINE NEW MEMBERS. We can't send you your armband until you have at least 10 members who have signed the pledge and sent them to headquarters, Virginia. Get your pledges signed and then you will have a regular registered Junior Patrol.

A new captain today is Nacy Costa, of 1714 Beaver avenue, North Side. She sends along 13 pledges. Her name is really spelled "Nacy," so when you write to her, you other captains, be sure you have your letters properly addressed.

Betty Haber, of 1518 Fallowfield avenue, wants to know why she hasn't received an armband. To get an armband, Betty, you have to send in at least 10 pledges and be elected the captain of your Patrol.

Joseph Larrison, of Martin, Pa., sends us a list of 30 youngsters who belong to his Mystery Club of the Junior Patrol. He has been elected captain, but before we can send him an armband he must send in 10 pledges or copies of the pledge. So get your pledges signed up, Joe, and then you will be all set in time for Halloween. Halloween should be a good time for your Mystery Club to have fun.

Here's a letter we liked a lot. It's from Marguerite Speer, of Atlasburg, Pa. She says:

"The name of our club is the Junior Patrol Civic Club. We have our meetings Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. We are going to have shows every Wednesday. We are going to sew and cook, too. We have a very good drawer in our club. We will send colored pictures which she has made."

Please let us know just as soon as you have 10 members in your club, Marguerite, and send their pledges in to headquarters right away.

Bugs Baer

He Bid on the Bridge at Midnight

Of all the fermented schemes to raise taxes we hand the winning duke to the lad who wanted to sell the New York bridges.

The idea was to peddle Brooklyn, Williamsburg, Manhattan and Queens spans to the public. Which had already purchased and paid for them out of its own little, lined pockets.

Brooklyn Bridge, the oldest and shakiest of the quartet, has been sold many times. But only to immigrants, farmers and Chinamen. The highest price it ever brought was $63 on account.

Three different men owned the Brooklyn bridgework at the same time on February 22, 1893. My old man was one of them. He knew a good thing when he saw it and planked down $2 as earnest money. But when pop tried to chase the police off the coppers ran him so ragged he scared crows.

Multiply 63 by four spans and you can ascertain with a high degree of visibility that all the East River networks will only bring around $250.

That will not jack New York out of its financial gumbo. But, we still have an honest ace up the sleeve. We can sell the Carnegie Library lions to any art lover who appreciates book ends in the raw.

Central Park should bring in a tidy goulash of pennies with its music shell, skating ponds and comfortable benches.

If the bird who wants to sell the bridges ain't nuts he will do until some one else gets a reprieve from the governor. It won't be long before they slice up the Grand Canyon for the retail golf bunker trade. Of all the scrammy schemes we ever heard that takes the picnic crumbs.

Fortunately, the whole thing fell through its own neckband. The only loss sustained was by the squirrel's appetizer who figured out the plan. While he was in conference with the committee somebody stole his paper hat.

Nothing is so important about the affair except to warn you what can happen in a town if you allow children to have their own way too much when they are young. They become very bright from chewing lead pencils.

It's good New York voted on repeal before the folks heard about this. The drys would certainly have won if that is the kind of stuff our politicians are drinking.

Carry On!

The Welfare Fund's Need Is Greater Than a Year Ago, And There Must Be No Slackers.

Some of our corporations have been laboring under a misapprehension. They thought that the Welfare Fuhd had sole charge of unemployment relief in Allegheny County and was furnishing subsistence to men whose need of relief was due to their being on strike. "No relief for strikers!" they said, and threatened to withdraw their support from the Welfare Fund.

They were wholly mistaken in this view, and it is to be hoped that William P. Witherow's statement on the subject has set them straight. Mr. Witherow has pointed out that the Welfare Fund, of which he is president, is now completely out of the field of unemployment relief and is concentrating on health, child care and character-building services, and the care of families whose problems are other than unemployment.

There must be no slackers, among corporations or individuals, in the Welfare Fund's campaign, soon to begin.

The social service agencies that depend on the Welfare Fund are in greater need of help than ever before.

The fact must be faced that while the number of families requiring relief in Allegheny County is 20,000 less than when the suffering from the depression was at its peak last spring, we are entering the winter with 20,000 more families on the relief list than at the beginning of last winter, and that this means a far greater demand for the services of the Welfare Fund agencies.

People who were still able to support themselves and their indigent relatives a year ago have since then, in many cases, come to the end of their resources, with the result that a large additional number of children and old persons have come to depend on the Welfare Fund for assistance.

Then, too, the hospitals have exhausted their resources in caring for charity patients and have been forced, to avoid closing altogether, to refuse to accept any but emergency charity cases. This has thrown a heavy additional burden on the Public Health Nursing Association, which takes care of sick persons in their own homes.

The Welfare Fund requires $300,000 more than it asked last year to take care of these additional burdens, and should receive it.

A Walk in the Country

There Are Plenty of Interesting Things to See Besides Beautiful Autumn Foliage.

"Now is the time of year to see Penn's Woods in all the glory of their autumnal coloration," said John W. Keller, deputy secretary of the Department of Forests and Waters, in a public statement yesterday, suggesting tours to view the beauty of the foliage.

Such a tour can be made most comfortably, of course, in an automobile. But a car is not necessary, and there are many things that can be seen to better advantage on foot. While the coloring of the woods in the vicinity of Pittsburgh has not advanced as far as in the northern counties, a walk in the country nearby will reveal plenty of interesting things besides beautiful autumn foliage.

The autumn wild flowers are at the peak of their beauty. You will almost certainly find the white heath aster and the pale blue Lowrie's aster (named for Dr. Lowrie, who used to live at Warrior's Mark, near Huntingdon, Pa.) and in the northern part of the county you probably will find the large rose-purple New England aster. Fifteen kinds of asters grow wild in this vicinity.

Other flowers likely to be seen are the goldenrod, the tall wild sunflower known as "Jerusalem artichoke," ironweed, touch-me-not, and the evening primrose. If you are lucky, you may find along creeks, in moist soil, the bottled gentian and the turtlehead.

Many of the birds that spent the summer with us have already gone south, but you are still likely to see on a walk in the country such migratory birds as the robin, the bluebird, the white-throated sparrow, the fox sparrow, the blackpoll warbler and the hermit thrush, as well, of course, as such permanent residents as the black-capped chickadee, the tufted titmouse and the hairy and downy woodpeckers.

Some birds that pass the summer in the Arctic regions spend the winter with us. It is about time to look for the arrival of the winter wren, and the brown creeper, and the red-breasted nuthatch.

If flowers and birds do not interest you, it may add zest to your walk to look for fossils—a fascinating subject, which is steadily adding to the number of its Pittsburgh devotees.

In the shale at the base of the cliffs alongside the Pennsylvania Railroad from West Bellevue to Ben Avon can be found fossil imprints of what appear to be ferns, but are really the leaves of a tree related to the sequoia or redwood of California. There, too, you will find fossilized pieces of calamites, a kind of reed. These fossils bear evidence that we once had a much milder climate—that this was, in fact, a semi-tropical region.

In the stratum known as the Ames limestone, which can be seen in the Brilliant cut-off across the Washington boulevard from Highland Park, you can find sea-shells, and shark's teeth, and fossilized sections of the stalk of a creature called the crinoid, or sea-lily, related to the starfish. These things prove that at one time Pittsburgh was at the bottom of the ocean.

There is almost no limit to the possibilities of discovery in the search for fossils. On May 3, 1909, John Claus unearthed in the Allegheny River bank near Sharpsburg the nine-foot tusk of a mastodon; it now reposes in the Carnegie Museum along with other relics, found near Pittsburgh, of these enormous elephants.

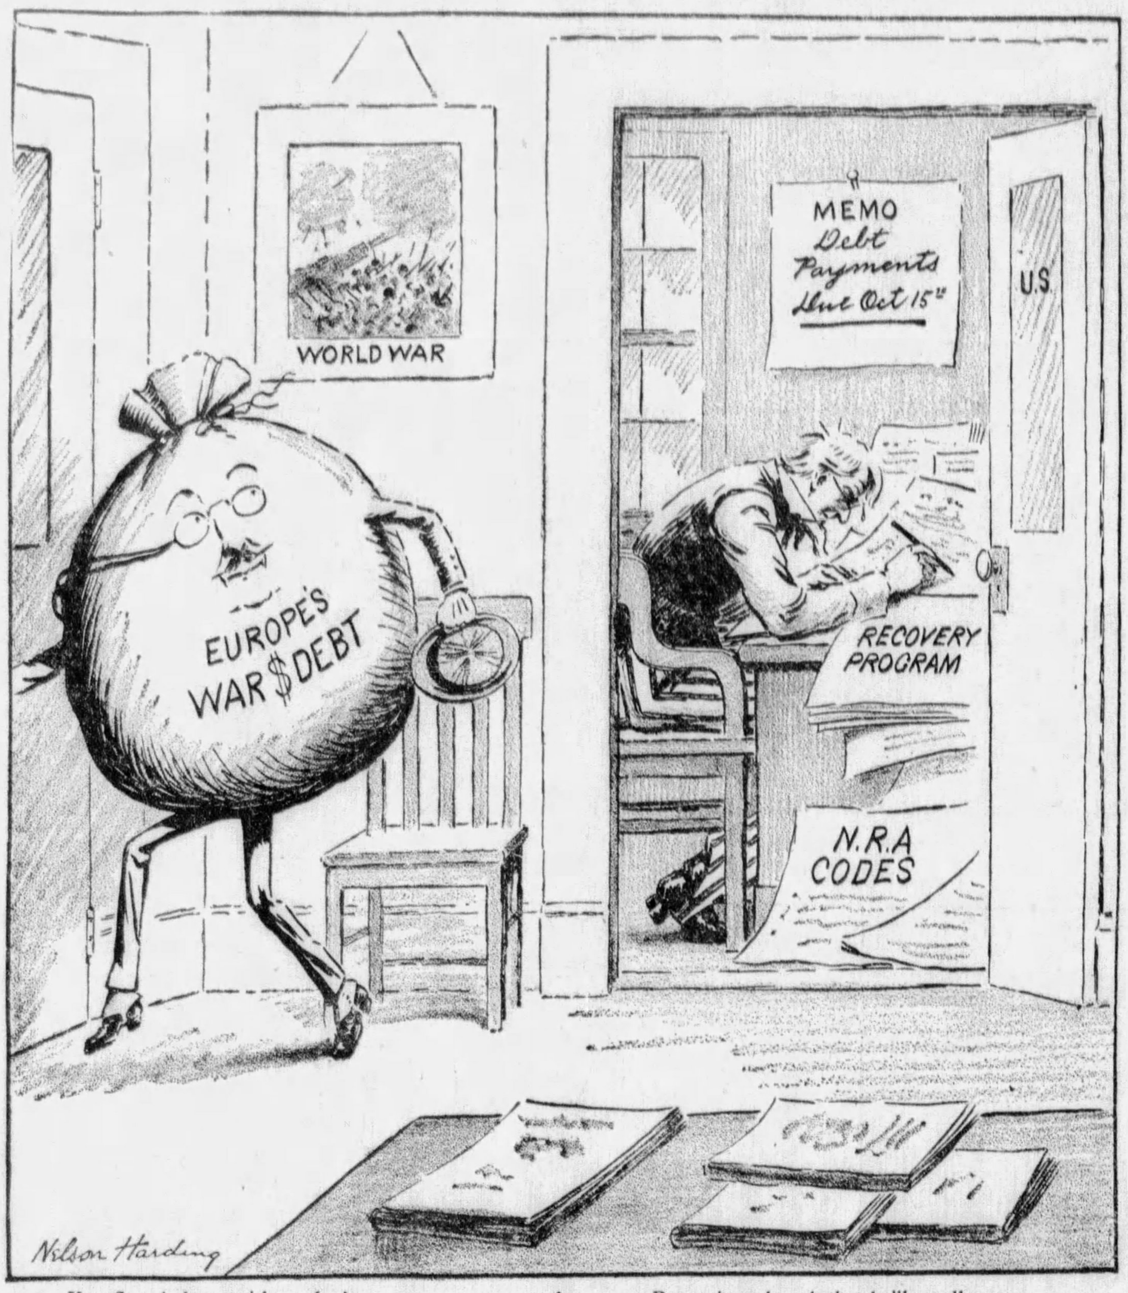
In the red clay under the Ames limestone near Pitcairn the Carnegie Museum has found fossil bones of reptiles which antedated the diplodocus; Prof. Henry Leighton, of the University of Pittsburgh, estimates they lived 100,000,000 years ago.

A local novelist has drawn a pretty fair picture of how the average Pittsburgh businessman spends Sunday afternoon. After eating too heavy a dinner he lounges around, gorged with food, in his living room; he reads and smokes and carries on a desultory conversation with members of the family, and probably falls asleep.

How much better it would be to get out in the fresh air and refresh mind and body!

Get interested in the strange and beautiful things that Nature offers Pittsburghers; take walks or auto rides on Sundays and look for fine scenery, and birds, and fossils, and flowers. Life will prove a richer experience.

'Sam's So Busy Maybe He'll Forget Me!' -:- By Nelson Harding



Yes, Sam is busy without doubt
With all those schedules to work out
With codes and pacts and much beside
His mind is fully occupied.

But we've a hunch that he'll recall
That memorandum on the wall.
We shouldn't care to make a bet
That he'll forget about the debt.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Tommy Millard is journalism's most persistent gadabout. A dapper, bandbox gentleman in early 60s, he might easily be taken for 30. He migrates between Shanghai and New York with side trips to European capitals as casually as most New Yorkers ferry over to Staten Island.

Landing in New York from China three months ago, he has been to Europe and back three times. And a card this morning from Seattle announces his shoving off for China. Born in Rollo, Mo., he has as a free lance covered the Graeco-Turkish, Boer, Spanish - American, Russo - Japanese and World wars.

Away from the firing line, he founded the China Press and Millard's Review in Shanghai and is now adviser to the Chinese government. A fellow of sombre temperament and a quick coral smile, he observes a scrupulous neurosis toward life. Richard Harding Davis said: "I've known Tommy 20 years, but he's a stranger."

Among newspapermen, he has the most complete wardrobe and is probably the only member of his guild to sport a morning coat. With tails and white tie he affects a monocle, and his beaver derbies of cinnamon color have often dotted the avenue's late afternoon promenade.

I have been unusually fortunate in corraling Millard for an evening on his flying visits. If we are alone he unbends and there's much fooling. But the second a stranger drops in he becomes querulously exigent of his own sensitivity, a stormcloud of abstraction, talking only with clipped "Nos" or "Yesses." I remember one time introducing him to a caller as Mr. Thomas Franklin Fairfax Millard"—his full name. He walked toward the stranger, shook hands stiffly and walked on out without a word. I feared I offended and phoned next day. He was not miffed. "I just remembered," he said, "I wanted to wash my hair."

Another non-conformist caller so sensitive he seems eternally putting his ear to the ground for his own footsteps, recently dropped in. Irvin Cobb was working in Will Hogg's apartment upstairs. One of Cobb's didos is to slip down the back stairs in apple green smock, adjust his jaws alligator-like and thrust his head through the kitchen door when I'm absorbed. My timid friend was sitting on the edge of a chair when Cobb arrived to yell "Boo!" And it took more than nine breath-holding swallows to ease off his hiccups before we pushed back his eyes and sent him home.

And Lee Olwell told a story the other evening that to retell may send a hurry-up call from an alienist. Read this and relay it to some one. A gentleman walked into an optical department for a pair of horn rimmed spectacles. He said: "I wish a pair of horn spect rimacles, er, I mean a pair of sporn rimmed hectacles. Pshaw! What I'm trying to say is I want a pair of rim spect hornicles." They both laughed and the clerk said! "I understand perfectly. What you want is a pair of porn rect himmacles."

The fade-out of the fiery critic, Hannen Swaffer, is one of London's literary mysteries. Once "Swaff" held court daily at the Savoy and was an attraction in the lounges of the Savage and other clubs. Now he's never seen. His column, "Beautiful London Yesterday," is no more, and he writes but occasionally for an obscure London weekly. A few years ago he was publicly slapped in a restaurant by a lady of no particular social or professional consequence. The incident rankled. His writings began to dwindle, and he avoided usual haunts.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

An unpleasant thing happened to me lately. A malicious woman started a lying story about me.

Nothing unusual about that. It happens, sooner or later, to all of us. And since I never practice what I preach, I acted as every foolish female does under such circumstances. Got mad as the dickens! Went right up in smoke! Wanted to call out the militia!

But I couldn't take it then. I stormed, raved, bored my poor friends to tears with furious explanations and elaborate proofs of my innocence. And then—is my face red—I wept. Went off and bawled like any big cry-baby. And thought of all the lovely things I'd done for people, and how ungrateful everyone was, and how outrageous it was that such a worthless little tramp should be able to come along and—etc., etc., etc. In short, I parked all my common sense and went into a lovely, soggy orgy of self-pity.

Yep, I know what you're saying. "Is this the Strong, Calm, Wise, Lady Philosopher wot's been writing this column for years n' years? Yes, stranger, this is wot's been writing this column. But who ever said I was any of those other things? Not I! And, at any rate, if a poor girl can't have her little cry without Great Big Brutes like you giving her the razz—Aw, havva heart! Hasn't anyone ever done YOU dirt?

So there I was, sogging and sobbing and making a general nuisance of myself, when suddenly, far off—a million miles away from mad, sad, red-in-the-face Elsie—a Small, Cool Voice began speaking. And the Small, Cool Voice sez to me:

"Well, what a sap you turned out to be! Making all this fuss over a perfectly natural consequence!"

"Why, the consequence of your own acts, of course, you dumb cluck!" says the Small, Cool Voice, with a nasty snort.

"Listen! You did something, didn't you? Something different and unusual?"

"I suppose I did," I agreed.

"Sure you did," the S. C. V. went on. "And being different, of course it was bound to be unpopular. Because there's nothing that will make most people hate you quicker than being different. For look what your 'being different' does to them? It upsets their comfort—challenges their smugness—exposes their laziness and cowardice and general cussedness. And naturally they're going to get even and put you in the doghouse, if they can."

"But the thing I did wasn't a wrong thing; it was really a pretty swell thing!" I cried indignantly.

"All the worse!" laughed the S. C. V. "The righter you are, the wronger you make all the 'Fraid Cats and Lazy Bones seem. Lookit what happened to all the great heroes and martyrs! Socrates, for instance—the finest, squarest man of his time. But how did they hand it to him? In hemlock, dearie. And there was another—but you're not in His class, so let that pass. The point is this—

"If you try anything new in this timid, suspicious, envious little world, you've got to take the consequences. It's like stepping off any beaten path. What happens? You get mud on your heel. Well; this is just mud on your heel.

"GOSSIP—LIES—MISUNDERSTANDINGS—BETRAYALS—PERSECUTION. THESE ARE THE INEVITABLE MUD-ON-THE-HEEL OF ANYONE WHO DARES LEAVE THE BEATEN PATH OF HUMAN STUPIDITY AND SELFISHNESS, AND STRIKE OUT FOR LARGER HORIZONS. THEY'RE THE PRICE EVERYONE MUST PAY FOR A LARGER LIFE.

"BUT ISN'T LIFE WORTH IT!"

That's what the Small, Cool Voice said to me recently in a black and bitter hour. And suddenly I was laughing again, rolling up my sleeves again, going on—not caring whether there was mud on my heel or not.

And so today I'm passing that little talk on to you, against the time when you, too, may need it.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Detours Along the Love-Route

It's no sinecure to be a society editor, these days. Every time you announce a wedding, you have to dig into the files and find a list of all the bride's former husbands and all the bridegroom's former wives, before you can give your glowing write-up the proper background.

When both Repeal and Recovery are facts, what excuse will a man have for hanging around the corner speakeasy and singing "Happy Days Are Here Again," to cheer himself up?

No matter how unhappily married a woman may be, she is never satisfied until all her spinster friends have been married off, whether they WANT to be or NOT.

A man hasn't reached the Dangerous Age until he begins to feel flattered, instead of suspicious or frightened, at a girl's obvious attempts to "make" him.

No modern woman marries a man in order to "remodel" him; she figures that, if he doesn't come up to specifications, she can always trade him in for a newer and better "model."

Those chronic "objectors," who complain that girls are overdoing the Victorian stuff, should understand enough about feminine psychology to realize that, once a woman starts going either backward or forward, she never heeds a stop signal.

A woman has to be married at least a year before she thinks it necessary to buy any books of reference. Up to that time, she believes that she is living with a human edition of the Book of Knowledge.

NOBODY is too poor to get married. It is far easier to be poor with somebody you love, than to be poor and alone.

No matter where modernism and "individualism" may seem to be taking us, they are only little detours on the love-route, which will lead right back to marriage as long as women are women.

Isn't It So?

Few people who are born fools ever succeed in living it down.

Love blinds some men and it makes lots of others too nearsighted for military service.

When a man is making a night of it he usually discovers that the darkest hour is just before the dawn.

If our neighbors would only do as we think they should do it would be much easier for us to love them.

Human Side of the News

The Late Marquis Boni de Castellane, and How He Won Anna Gould—George Luks, Breezy and Vigorous

By Edwin C. Hill

THE settlement in Paris of the estate of the Marquis Boni de Castellane stirs echoes of the little old New York that has gone beyond recall. For Boni de Castellane was lively news back in the days when he was scattering the Gould millions with both hands, the maddest spendthrift on record.

The story of how Boni got his hands on those millions has seldom, if ever, been told. It was one of the most perfect examples of sheer audacity that could be found in the pages of fact or fiction. When he came from Paris to New York he had barely a dollar to his name—nothing except his title of count. He was so hard up that he lived in a small room over a dressmaking shop. He scarcely knew where he was going to find his meals from day to day. His object was to marry a rich wife and he looked about cooly and deliberately until his chance came.

One day he said to a European friend:

"I want to meet Miss Anna Gould. I will give a dinner at Delmonico's and I want you to bring her to my dinner."

"But you have no money," said his friend. "How can you give a dinner at one of the most expensive restaurants in New York?"

"Ah," said Count Boni, "leave that to me."

Becomes Engaged Within a Month

HE went to Delmonico's and with discreet hints of a rich marriage to be made in the near future, persuaded them to give him credit for the dinner. Miss Gould appeared. Count Boni became her devoted cavalier. A month later they were engaged. That very day he moved to a de luxe suite in the Waldorf and sent for the best tailor in town—all on credit.

And presently, in the old Gould mansion at Fifth avenue and Sixty-seventh street, he was united in marriage to the shy, plain-faced Anna Gould, who was quite willing to exchange her millions for the title of Countess. Shortly thereafter they sailed away for France, with a marriage settlement of $3,000,000 in Count Boni's pocket, and command, as well, over the fortune of $18,000,000 that belonged to his bride.

From then on the money began to fly. Boni became the prince of spenders, the arbiter of Paris fashion. He built a palace of pink marble and spent a hundred thousand dollars on the entertainment which opened its doors to Paris society. He raced a stable of thoroughbreds and sailed his yachts in the Mediterranean.

But the golden flood dwindled. Anna Gould got a civil divorce. Forced to earn a living, Boni steered rich Americans to Parisian dressmakers and jewelry shops, for a percentage on their purchases. I saw him often on the Paris boulevards, this little dandy, with his painted face, his padded chest and tightly-laced waist, wearing a pearl gray felt hat, cream-colored gloves, freshly laundered spats and morning suit, as he tripped along on his high heels leading his bulldog. Three years ago, paralyzed, he retired from a world which had long since passed him by.

Vigorous Painting Of George Luks

ONE of America's finest painters, George Benjamin Luks, has just celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday, and at the height of his splendid powers. I have known George Luks a good many years, since those halcyon days in Mouquin's famous restaurant, when he formed one of a notable group who wined and dined there and squabbled most enjoyably on the age-old theme, "It's pretty but is it art?"

Others of the group were Paul Bartlett, a great sculptor; Joseph Pennell, Whistler's friend; the most inspired of American illustrators, Robert Henri; George Bellows; Ernest Lawson, the impressionistic painter who knew how to mix sunshine with his colors, and shadows, too, and John Flanagan, who has designed the new twenty-five cent piece. Many more who had been brushed by the wings of genius were of that company.

Critics have called George Luks many things. They have called him a humorist, a painter of street types and barroom men and women, a beefy, lusty fellow, a detester of prettiness and a lover of beauty. And they have said, too, that he always paints at the top of his voice. Which is a striking way of expressing the force and vigor of the man.

In his younger days George Luks was a correspondent for the Philadelphia Bulletin in Cuba, in the Cuba Libre days. He was captured and sentenced to death, but finally deported. He landed in New York without a cent and slept in the parks, in a cotton suit, with a foot of snow for a blanket. Then he went to work for the old New York World and was told by the managing editor, Arthur Brisbane, to "cut out the smeary genius."

One day a truck driver walked into his studio and asked him for the picture he had promised the Chicago Art Institute. Luks had forgotten all about it. "Sit down, mug," he said to the truck driver. "I'll put you on canvas." He did, then and there, and the picture won the Chicago Institute's Logan Medal.

A hearty, husky chap, George Luks wears a broad-brimmed black hat and a pince-nez with a black ribbon. He strides among his students radiating personality, vigor and confidence. He seizes a brush from a timid hand, and with a broad swish puts life and art upon an otherwise pallid canvas. Always he paints to please himself and lets the world go by. And that is perhaps exactly the reason why the world has given him fame and considerable fortune, this chap who says that "life is the grandest adventure there is."

Welles' Return to U. S. Seen in Fortnight

By James T. Williams, Jr.

WITHIN the next fortnight or so, Ambassador Welles may be called to Washington to give the Department of State the guiding light of his information regarding recent developments in the Cuban situation.

Circumstances beyond the control of either the President and the Secretary of State on the one hand or Ambassador Welles on the other may dictate the wisdom and the necessity of such a consultation.

What the Roosevelt administration is firmly resolved to do is to leave nothing undone that will avert intervention if the rights and obligations stipulated in the Platt Amendment can be effectively defended and faithfully discharged by measures short of intervention.

The importance of averting intervention is rightly held by the Roosevelt administration to be of greater urgency than the conservation at the moment of the temporary prestige of the Foreign Service of the United States.

Recognition Depends on Peace

ON that account the course of the administration in Cuba will be shaped at each step by the President himself in the light of all the information that comes to him, whether it comes through the official channels of the American embassy at Havana or the Cuban embassy at Washington, or unofficially from Americans or Cubans anywhere in the island of Cuba.

If the provisional government headed by President Grau San Martin retains the support of the loyal officers and men of the Cuban Army in command of Col. Batista, the hope is entertained in the highest official circles of the Roosevelt administration that recognition can soon be given to the San Martin government.

Whether recognition is soon given will depend upon the degree of order that can be maintained in Cuba during the next few weeks.

The Roosevelt administration is believed to be in sympathy with the major objectives of the San Martin government. These objectives appear to have the hearty support of Col. Batista and his so-called "Sergeants' Army." In fact, indications are multiplying that if this army can protect the San Martin government from being overthrown by Cuba's political corruptionists and by a small but powerful group of American interests that are so largely to blame for Cuba's economic distress, the San Martin government may yet be able to save Cuba from American intervention.

One of the disturbing factors in the situation is the hostility of ex-President Menocal to the San Martin program for the purging of Cuba's political life and the rehabilitation of her economic prosperity.

As long as the struggle in Cuba seemed to be nothing more than a battle between the "ins" and "outs" of Cuban politics, the only question before the Roosevelt administration was whether this conflict could be fought to a finish without making American intervention imperative.

Not a Mere Military Rebellion

BUT since the San Martin government, with the aid of the loyal officers and men of the Cuban army, came into power, evidence continues to pile up in support of the contention that Cuba is at least in the throes of a popular revolution and not a mere military rebellion, much less the traditional battle between the "ins" and "outs" of Cuban politics.

If the San Martin government, with the support of the Cuban army, can maintain order and save the Roosevelt administration from the necessity of armed intervention, a popular revolution in Cuba that will bring there "the new deal," which the Roosevelt administration has inaugurated here, would seem to have a good chance of success.

And the success of popular revolution in Cuba under the presidency of a man of the high character of President Grau San Martin, supported by an army of the loyalty of that which Col. Batista commands, would not only be good for Cuba, but it would be good for the United States.

Such a revolution would restore to the United States the opportunity to re-establish with Cuba trade relations which she has a right to expect in view of the rights and obligations which unite the two countries in a common destiny.
